Prayer was made by Rev. B. S. Funderburg. Speeches were made by Messrs. W. R. Hunnicutt, S. A. Porter, G. K. Laney, J. L. Tyler and R. A. Rouse.

The keynote of this order is patriotism and this presentation of flag and bible is strictly in keeping with that lofty sentiment.

The exercises were beautifully carried out and all the addresses were to the point and calculated to inspire the young people with a love of the bible and a high regard for the flag of their country.

General Assembly Meets Next Week

The second session of the 71st General Assembly of South Carolina will convene in Columbia on Tuesday, January 11, at noon. Both houses are organized and the preliminaries should consume very little time. The House will be called to order by Speaker James A. Hoyt and the Senate by Lieut. Governor, Andrew J. Betha or, in his absence, by Senator Legrand Walker, of Georgetown, the president pro tem. The Lieutenant Governor went to Europe with Henry Ford's pacification expedition, and he may not get back until after the opening day of the session.

The annual message of Governor Richard I. Manning will probably be read in both branches on the opening day. The referring of this message to the proper committees will likely be all that is accomplished at the initial meeting.

The most interesting election to be held by the General Assembly will be that of warehouse commissioner. John L. McLaurin is the present commissioner and he will be opposed for reelection by John J. McMahan, of Columbia, at present a member of the delegation from Richland County. This fight is beginning to attract attention and may take on considerable of a political significance before it is through.

Recommendations to strengthen and perfect the State warehouse system, education, rural credits, diversified farming and economy will be among the main points in the Governor's message. He will devote a good deal of his remarks to the public appropriations.

Children's Diseases Very Harmful

Measles and whooping cough, the former a precursor of broncho pneumonia and tuberculosis and the latter the cause of many deaths among children under two years of age, continued their usual prevalence in South Carolina during the year. There were four deaths from measles and 193 from whooping cough up to October 31.

"The tasks of letting parents know that children do not have to have measles and whooping cough in order to develop into men and women," says James A. Hayne, M. D., State health officer, in his annual report, "is one that seems wellnigh hopeless, but we will continue to present to the parents the fact that whooping cough kills annually more children under two years of age than any other disease; measles undermines the constitution of the child, makes it subject to broncho pneumonia and tuberculosis and does much towards making the mortality of infancy so high."

A youngster in a Sunday school class, on being assured that God was omnipotent, asked after some hesitation:

"Teacher, can He make a stone so heavy that He can't lift it?"

And the teacher had "Yes" ready for the answer before she saw the point.

SERIOUS SICKNESS

By Being Constantly Supplied With Thedford's Black-Draught.

McDuff, Va.—"I suffered for several years," says Mrs. J. B. Whittaker, of this place, "with sick headache, and stomach trouble."

I keep Black-Draught on hand all the time now, and when my children feel a little bad, they ask me for a dose, and I find it does them more good than any medicine they ever tried.

We never have a long spell of sickness in our family, since we commenced using Black-Draught."
