Newberrian Is Married In Charlotte Church Ceremony

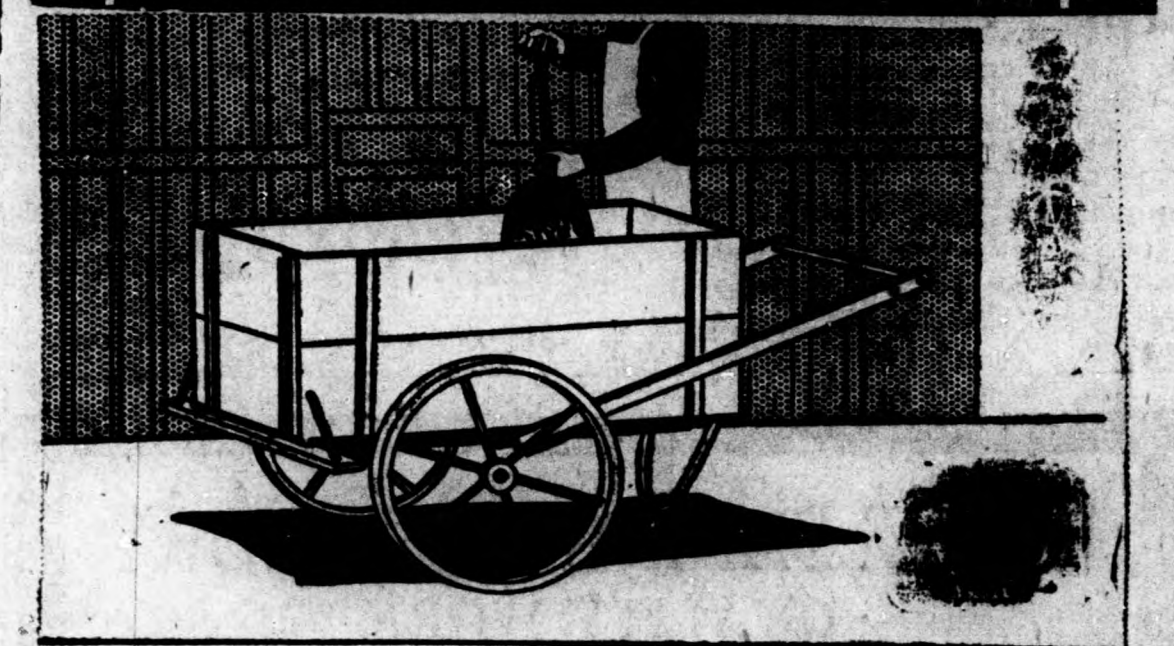

Mrs. John Gilliam Ross

The First Evangelical and Reformed church of Charlotte, N. C. was the scene of a lovely wedding of wide interest at five p.m. July 24th, when Mary Jo Ferstl Smith, daughter of Mrs. J. P. Ferstl and the late Mr. Ferstl of Belmont, N. C. became the bride of John Gilliam Ross, son of Mrs. Maude G. Ross, of Newberry, Dr. Joseph B. Hennessey, pastor, officiated, using the double ring ceremony.

Palms, ferns and cathedral candles decorated the church. Mrs. D. W. Karr, organist and Mr. Max Rush, soloist, presented the wedding music. Meredith Harmon of Newberry, brother-in-law of the groom, of Newberry, Dr. Eugene B. Ross, Jr., Edwin T. Hartman, of Charlotte, N. C., and Theodore Neely, of Rock Hill, served as ushers-groomsmen.

Judge Eugene S. Bleas of Newberry, was best man. The maid of honor was Miss Patsy Bridges, of Charlotte. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Charles D. Wilson, Richmond, Va. sister of the bride, and Mrs. Meredith Harmon, Newberry, sister of the groom. Miss Marcia Jeanne Smith of Charlotte, was junior bridesmaid. All of the attendants wore identical waltz length dresses of cornflower blue lace over taffeta, made flower blue lace over taffeta, made made strapless, with lace shrug jacket, and carried colonial bouquets of Talisman and yellow rosebuds, snapdragons, gold banded lily and ivy, tied with gold and green ribbons.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Charles Eugene Ferstl, was lovely in her floor-length wedding gown, of blush pink lace and nylon tulle over satin. Her shoulder length veil of blush pink illusion was attached to a headpiece of satin and puffed tulle. The bride carried a lace covered prayer book topped with a white orchid, showered with lilies of the valley.

By LYN CONNELLY

THE exacting chores of an engineer seem markedly contrasted with the carefree thoughts of a romantic song writer, and the two professions seem far apart. Nevertheless, Earl Guisinger, aircraft industrial engineer by profession, authored the hit tune, "Whither Thou Goest," which was recorded by Les Paul and Mary Ford.

Guisinger who works in the Northrup Aircraft Plant in Hawthorne, California, writes under the name of Guy Slager. "Whither Thou Goest," the third published song written by Guisinger, links the Biblical story of Ruth with a modern melody. The engineer started writing songs three years ago. "COD My Broken Heart," recorded by Margaret Whiting and "The World Has a Promise," recorded by Dinah Shore and DeLores Gray.

Guisinger got his musical start while a student in the College of Engineering at Ohio State University. He played saxophone with a small dance group to work his way through college. SHORT NOTES
The first series of kiddie albums based on the ABC-Radio series, "Space Patrol," has been released. The discs feature members of the regular cast of the science-fiction dramatic shows. Ring Crosby is one unhappy father over son Gary's adamant refusal to finish his college education in lieu of a show business career. Can't say Ring is wrong since Gary has only one more quarter to go for his diploma. It's always nice to have that college backing should he fall in his chosen career.

There are Hollywood rumors that Robert Mitchum is all but impossible to get along with since his choice assignment in "Not As a Stranger." Personally, we believe this book was sadly mis-cast right down the line.

SPORTS CORNER

This an' That

A "beginner" who took up fishing a little over a year ago has put his name in the all-time books by bringing to net a world record smallmouth bass. D. L. Hayes, Lakeside, Kentucky, was trolling in his state's Dale Hollow Lake (counted by many the world's greatest smallmouth bass lake) when the 11-pound, 15 ounce bass swallowed his artificial bait in one big gulp. It took 30 minutes to bring the fish to net. Estimated to be 11 years of age, the fish was 27 inches long and measured 2 1/2 inches in girth. It surpassed the previous world's record set by a man in Alabama five years ago by one pound and seven ounces. Jim Wade and Tom Tracy, former University of Tennessee backfield stars, were among players reporting to Ottawa, Canada Rough Riders pre-season pro football drills. The recent Ebbets Field festivities honoring Brooklyn's Pee Wee Reese went to servicemen around the world through the Armed Forces Radio. Paul Krueh, chief scout for the New York Yankees, is recovering from a stomach operation in Yonkers, New York.
