

CHANGE OF LIFE.

Some Sensible Advice to Women by Mrs. E. Sailer.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—When I passed through what is known as change of life, I had two years' suffering—sudden heat, and as quick chills would pass over me; my appetite was variable and I never could tell for

MRS. E. SAILER,
President German Relief Association,

a day at a time how I would feel the next day. Five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound changed all that, my days became days of health, and I have enjoyed every day since—now six years.

"We have used considerable of your Vegetable Compound in our charitable work, as we find that to restore a poor mother to health so she can support herself and those dependent upon her, if such there be, is truer charity than to give other aid. You have my hearty endorsement, for you have proven yourself a true friend to suffering women."—Mrs. E. Sailer, 756 1/2 Hill St., Los Angeles, Cal.—$5000 forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine.

No other person can give such helpful advice to women who are sick as can Mrs. Pinkham, for no other has had such great experience—her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice free—if you are sick write her—you are foolish if you don't.

CONSUMPTION

Suspend Objects in Filial.

Here is a very surprising trick, and it is calculated to create much astonishment. Before the company assembles place a fine black silk thread from one side of the room to the other, about six feet from the floor. Do not have too much light. First wave a handkerchief through the air and drop it gently on the line, continuing to make mysterious passes. Borrow a fan and fan the handkerchief until it falls to the ground. You next suspend a light cane in the same manner. After performing the last trick be sure to break the thread, so that the company will not detect your hidden power.

His Phonetic Understanding.
"The gravity which is supposed to attend all court proceedings was seriously disturbed in a New York courtroom one day last week," said a young lawyer who had just returned from a business trip to that city. "I was present at the trial of a case before one of the municipal judges—a case in which I was interested because it had to do with automobiles. One of the witnesses was a German, and gave his testimony through an interpreter. In the course of the examination he said he had driven an automobile to Cedarhurst."

"What's that?" asked the judge.
"To Cedarhurst," replied the interpreter.

"His honor looked puzzled."
"What did he want to see the horse for?" he asked.

A Geographical Novelty.

The point where Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico touch each other is called the four corners. This fact is not a strange one, but when we come to find that it is the only place where four states or territories point, we find that this spot is in some ways a unique one. Not only is this the only place in the United States where such a junction occurs, but it is the only one of its kind in the world. This statement seems a broad one, but a short study of the maps of an atlas will show that it is correct, and, more than that, that at no other place in the United States do more than two state corners touch each other.

Not So Unfortunate.
No harm was done, it is reported, to the submarine boat Fulton by its accidental trip to the bottom, but the incident is unfortunate, because of the undue importance which will be attached to it by people who know little more about such craft than that their history hitherto has been composed chiefly of fatalities. Yet what happened to the Fulton might have happened to any boat of her size and material, even though it was not intended for under-water navigation. Instead of illustrating the peril to which the Fulton's passengers will be subjected, it simply showed that the Fulton, when filled with water in circumstances which could not occur with her trained crew on board, will go to the bottom and stay there. An ordinary torpedo boat would have done the same thing, and nothing was proved except that the Fulton will not float when full of water, a fact which was perfectly well known before. It remains true, however, that submarine navigation is dangerous business at best, and that the object of the inventors is to minimize the danger, there being little chance of removing it altogether.

The Future of Hogarth's House.
The purchaser of Hogarth's House, Lieutenant Colonel Shipley of Grove House, Chiswick, who announces his intention of preserving it as "one of the landmarks of the parish," will be remembered as the victim in the "Shipway Pedigree Case," which attracted so much attention some time ago. The peculiarly audacious swindler whom he had innocently employed to elucidate his pedigree and to prove his claim to an old coat-of-arms, forged his evidence as he went along, and managed to obtain considerable sums of money before he was found out.—London Chronicle.

ACT ATTRIBUTED TO INSANITY

Woman & Wife of a Millionaire and Prentiss Society—Her Mind Had Been Unhinged For Years—Husband Absent the Time of the Shooting—She Killed Her Boy.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Insane for years, the only her husband and her physis among all who knew her suspected it, the wife of a A. Edward Tow, the multi-millionaire ironmaster, at wholly mad, shot her son and killed herself.

According to Coroner Selfridge's explanation, Mrs. Tower went to her son Albert's room and emptied a five-chamber revolver into his body. He was found on the floor just inside the door of his room. Mrs. Tower was apparently sitting on a bed in an adjoining room, and with another revolver shot herself.

Mrs. Tower was not at home at the time. She heard the shots and forced entrance into the room where her son was. Mr. Tower, Dr. Tow and Coroner Selfridge were immediately summoned, but when they reached the scene Mrs. Tower and her son were dead.

Mrs. Tower owns the Poughkeepsie Iron Works, and he frequently goes there. He was there in the evening of the Mrs. Tower and her son were at home, the boy playing ping-pong with a friend. Apparently the mother was composed and cheerful, and discussed the future prospects of the boy. After the guest left she telephoned several times to her husband to come home. Once she called him that Albert, who had been shot, was restless. She retired about an hour afterward the servants were aroused by ten or twelve pistol shots in the family apartments on the second floor. The only outcry was "Albert! Oh! Albert!" from Mrs. Tower. The butler forced the door of one of the rooms as soon as the shouting subsided and found the woman and her son dead. There were four bullet holes in his chest, and one bullet shot through his mouth, crashing through the top of his head.

Mrs. Tower was about thirty-eight years of age. She was the eldest daughter of J. P. Pratt, Carpentier, of Helena, Mont., who ran for Lieutenant-Governor of the Folger ticket in this State, and of the Dutchess County and was prominent in Republican State politics twenty years ago.

Mrs. Tower is the eldest of two sons of the late Albert Tow, who made a fortune in the manufacture of pig iron in this city. He and his brother, Joseph Tow, who lives at Tuxedo, N. Y., are interested in the estate. The latter is known at Newport, R. I., at the summers on their yacht.

WINTER WHEAT AND RYE

Average Condition as Reported by the Agricultural Department.

A Wheat Crop of 416,000,000 Bushels Indicated—Condition on April 1 Placed at 78.7.

Washington, D. C.—The April report of the Statistician of the Department of Agriculture shows the average condition of winter wheat on April 1 to have been 78.7, against 91.7 on April 1, 1901; 82.1 at the corresponding date in 1900, and 82.4 the mean of the April averages of the last ten years. The averages of the principal States are as follows: Pennsylvania, 82; Ohio, 77; Michigan, 82; Indiana, 81; Illinois, 90; Tennessee, 69; Texas, 72; Kansas, 73; Missouri, 91; Nebraska and California, each 93, and Oklahoma, 67.

The average condition of winter rye on April 1 was 85.4, against 93.1 on April 1, 1901; 81.8 at the corresponding date in 1900, and 88.1, the mean of the April averages of the last ten years. The averages in the principal States are as follows: New York, 92; Pennsylvania, 85; Ohio, 82; Michigan, 91; Indiana, 90; Illinois, 94, and Kansas, 87.

New York City.—The Government report indicates, according to the figures of Statistician Brown, of the New York Produce Exchange, a crop of 416,000,000 bushels of winter wheat. This estimate is on a basis of thirteen bushels an acre, and compares with the December estimate of 457,600,000 bushels, which was on a basis of 14.3 bushels an acre. The average in both cases was the same, 32,000,000 acres. The April, 1901, estimate on winter wheat was 457,258,000 bushels. The Government has made no official report on the last winter wheat harvest, as it has desired to check its figures by those of the census report.

ARRIVAL OF MISS STONE.

She Considers the Turkish Government Responsible For Her Abduction.

New York City.—Plump, sunburned and smiling, Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary who was for six months a captive in the mountains of Bulgaria, and who was ransomed by the payment of $65,000, fairly ran down the gangplank leading from the steamship Deutschland, and was welcomed by dozens of friends who had been several hours waiting for her. She had been met at quarantine by her brother, Charles A. Stone, and Dr. Henry O. Dwight, and when she disembarked she was quite ready to talk to newspaper men. She showed at once that she considered the Turkish Government responsible for her abduction.

The ransomed missionary went to her mother's home in Chelsea, Mass. She did not know whether or not she would ever return to Bulgaria, but said that she was ready to do so.

Albert Santos-Dumont also arrived on the Deutschland. He came to discuss plans for an exhibition of aerial navigation with the managers of the St. Louis Exposition. He predicts that within ten years he will fly across the ocean in his own airship.

MISS ELLEN M. STONE.

She—"Didn't I tell you never to darken my door again?"
Weary—"Well, I ain't. I'm cum to de winder dis time!"—New York Journal.

His Estimate of Human Nature.
"That man indignantly spurs your offer," said the assistant. "He says you are trying to bribe him."
"It's painful," murmured Senator Sorghum, in a tone of resignation, "to see people so grasping. Offer him a thousand dollars more."—Washington Star.

Borrowed.
"I beg your pardon," said the inquisitive friend, admiringly, "but are those your own teeth, Mrs. Oldfady?"
"No," replied the kindly accommodating soul, "I lost my set, and, to tell you the truth, I borrowed these from my husband this morning."—Commercial Tribune.

Mental Philosopher.
"What is a mesmerist?"
"A person who controls the will of another person and makes him do exactly what he chooses."
"Can you mention a successful mesmerist?"
"Yes, sir. Any clothing store salesman."—Chicago Tribune.

His Morning Meal.
The teacher in the first grade was developing the word "breakfast." By way of introduction she addressed the class thus:
"What is the first meal you eat in the morning?"
"Oatmeal," promptly responded Johnny.—Chicago Bulletin.

A Remarkable Analogy.
"You've got to become well acquainted with a classical composition," said the musical enthusiast, "before you can really like it."
"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox, in an amiable effort to keep up the conversation; "it's a good deal the same way with a dog."—Washington Star.

A Small Apprehension.
"I suppose they will make a lion of you when you strike American society."
"Well," answered the distinguished personage who knows English but slightly, "I hope they will stick to that department of the menagerie and not endeavor to make a monkey of me."—Washington Star.

Fearing an Anti-Climax.
"It's too bad," remarked the person who worships royalty. "The King of Siam is not coming to America after all."
"Well," answered the plain citizen; "I don't much care. I don't believe a Siamese king would be half as interesting as the Siamese twins were, anyhow."—Washington Star.

How He Would Explain.
"Supposing," said the teacher who was trying to get the class to understand the law of gravity, "that someone should tell you that the earth doesn't turn over and over upon its axis, because if it did we would fall off when we are on the under side, what reply would you make? Well, Georgie, I see your hand is up. What would you say to him?"
"I'd tell him he had bats in his belfry."—Chicago Record-Herald.

OUR BUDGET OF HUMOR

Too Cheap.
"There's a train at 4.04," said Miss Jenny. "Four tickets I'll take. Have you any?"
"Not four for 4.04."
"Not four for 4.04."
"Not four for 4.04 are too many."—Chicago Tribune.

Only a Suggestion.
Dorus—"Give me a rhyme for 'civil.' I am writing a poem."
Naggus—"Try 'drivel.'"—Chicago Tribune.

Sick and Well.
"Don't you think Miss Smith talks well?"
"Awfully. But I should think she'd talk herself sick."—New York World.

The Play.
Hook—"What's the matter with Scribbler's new play? Doesn't it draw?"
Nye—"No; it drags."—Philadelphia Record.

One Man's View.
"Do you believe in love at first sight, Chris?"
"Sure. If more men took a closer look they wouldn't fall in love."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Small Boy's Conclusion.
Tommy—"Isn't the house dog a dog for the house?"
Mamma—"He is."
Tommy—"Then isn't a fatfish a fish for the fat?"—Judge.

A Difference.
