

Just About Candidates.

Now the candidate season is on and the woods of Butts county are full of vote-getters, the following jesting lines from an exchange can be enjoyed by all: When he run for office, he was as social as could be, Always tellin' lots of jokes, "Hello, Billy!" "How's the folks?" Early mornin', evenin' late, Always hangin' round your gate; Kissed the children come from school.

Helped the old man hitch his mule, Showed a five-dollar note, "Sammy, how're you goin' to vote?"

Just as cunnin' as could be— "Want an office? Vote for me!" Wore the cheapest kind'er suits— Old wool hat an' army boots; Promised, if they'd help him win, "They'd get rich when he got in?" Now he's in the office. See! Just as proud as proud kin be. Ain't a-tellin' so much jokes, Never asks you 'bout the folks, Voter feelin' mighty sore— "Never saw your face before!" Wool hat, boots, done laid 'um by!

Wears a beaver, slick an' high: Voters stand an' look an' wonder— "Want an office? Go to thunder!"

The South and the President.

Mr. Bailey considers the presidency beyond him, or any Southern man of his generation. Is he right about that? How much longer are Southern men to be barred from aspiring to that great office? For some years after the civil war the situation was plain enough. The leading men of the South had all served the Confederacy in one capacity or another—the majority had been soldiers—and on that account they were not available. The nomination of the ablest and best of them was not for a moment to be considered. We were still too close to the time of the terrible conflict for candidacy of such a man to inspire confidence out of the South. But when Mr. Bailey speaks of himself and Southern men of his generation he points to the fact that they were children when the civil war was in progress. He himself sniffed the conflict from his nurse's arms. So that he and the Southern men of his generation are associated with the country only in its reunited form. The only flag they have ever known is the stars and stripes; and how loyal the men of the South, and particularly the young men, now are to that flag was shown in the war with Spain. Why then should not a man of that stamp offer for the proud honor of the presidency, when his section of the country casts eight-tenths of the electoral votes necessary to the election of a Democrat to that office? Have not the Democratic leaders from the South effaced themselves at national conventions long enough? Are they not warranted by character, by capacity, and by training to take places at the head of the procession, instead of meekly bringing up the rear under orders from Tammany Hall?—Washington Star.

If the present high prices of beef are due in any measure to the scarcity of beef cattle, which is altogether probable, it will be quite awhile before the supply can be made equal to the demand, and in the meantime there will be a harvest for those who at once give their attention to the production of mutton, chickens, pork and other quick developing commodities in the meat line that are calculated to act as satisfactory substitutes for beef.—Yorkville Enquirer.

The Exposition During the Month of May.

The Southern railroad, the Atlantic Coast Line and the Plant System have arranged to continue the sale of the cheap Tuesday tickets to the exposition, as sold during the month of April, on every Tuesday and Thursday during the month of May. This will enable all who have not yet visited the exposition to do so during its closing month, and those who have visited it, to again take advantage of the low rate offered, as many will undoubtedly do.

There has been a great deal said through the columns of the papers in regard to the exposition, and its many attractive features. There is one however that has been almost entirely ignored or overlooked by all correspondents, and probably from the fact that its location is such as not to attract general attention. Reference is made to the Grass Garden of the U. S. Agricultural Department, which consists of four acres of ground, and is located just east of the encampment of the Marine corps. Every farmer who visits the exposition, should visit this garden. Here are to be found growing over fifty different specimens of forage crops suitable for our Southern soils, as well as wheat, rye, and barley of many kinds. The seeds of the different forage crops referred to have been gathered from Africa, Egypt, China, Ireland, Scotland, England, Australia, and many other countries. The representative of the Agricultural Department in charge of the Garden is a practical farmer, and can give the visitor full information regarding each and every species of the crop, and it can be said to every farmer, if he can spare time to come down, even if he spends only one day at the exposition, let him carefully study these forage crops, get a list of such as he wants to use, and he will be ten times repaid for the expense of the trip, and for the time he may think he is losing from his farm.

Sciatic Rheumatism Cured After Fourteen Years of Suffering.

"I have been afflicted with sciatic rheumatism for fourteen years," says Josh. Edgar, of Germantown, Cal. "I was able to be around but constantly suffered. I tried everything I could hear of and at last told to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I did and was immediately relieved and in a short time cured, and I am happy to say it has not since returned." Why not use this liniment and get well? It is for sale by McMaster Co.

West Indian day at the Charleston exposition promises to be a great day. Great efforts are being put forth to make it eclipse all other days. It is intended that plans be laid by which the South and Southwest can secure a fair share of the trade with Cuba and Puerto Rico. It is also intended that plans be perfected by which new trade relations may be opened up with these islands. It is to be hoped that success may attend these efforts. The South and Southwest should naturally receive the lion's share.

No Loss of Time.

I have sold Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for years, and would rather be out of coffee and sugar than it. I sold five bottles of it yesterday to threshers that could go no farther, and they are at work again this morning.—H. R. PHILIPS, Plymouth, Oklahoma. As will be seen by the above the threshers were able to keep on with their work without losing a single day's time. You should keep a bottle of this Remedy in your home. For sale by McMaster Co.

Won't Follow Advice After Paying For It.

In a recent article a prominent physician says, "It is next to impossible for the physician to get his patients to carry out any prescribed course of hygiene or diet to the smallest extent; he has but one resort left, namely, the drug treatment." When medicines are used for chronic constipation, the most mild and gentle obtainable, such as Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets, should be employed. Their use is not followed by constipation as they leave the bowels in a natural and healthy condition. For sale by McMaster Co.

No More of It.

A few days ago we sent out a special circular, offering all delinquents a year's subscription to the American Farmer, if they would pay up by the 15th of May. Of course we could have printed the offer in these columns, but we did not care to have some of our readers reading what was not intended for them. Later we sent out a circular letter to our subscribers who were already paid up to some date within the present year. This offer was withheld from these columns for the same reason as the above. Or we should rather state that both offers were omitted from these columns because we have decided to have no more dunning of subscribers through these columns. We propose to run the paper on a cash-in-advance basis, and those who have gotten behind with us will hear from us in a more private way than through the columns of this paper. We are done with the dunning business—through public print.

The need of some plan for sending small amounts of cash cheaply by mail has long been felt. A bill has been introduced in congress that has many good features. The bill provides that $1, $2 and $5 bills, except national bank notes, shall have blank lines upon their faces so that they may at once be convertible into a check payable to a named payee, to be cashed at the postoffice named and for the issuance of similar bills of the denominations of 5, 10, 25 and 50 cents. A two-cent stamp is affixed and cancelled on the dollar denominations and a one-cent stamp on the fractional bills as a fee to the government.

Children's Fertilizer.

That's a good name for Scott's Emulsion. Children are like young plants. Some will grow in ordinary soil. Others need fertilizers.

The nature of some children prevents them from thriving on ordinary food. Such children grow right if treated right. All they need is a little fertilizer—a little extra richness. Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment.

Fertilizers make things grow. That's just what Scott's Emulsion does. It makes children grow in flesh, grow in strength, grow rich blood, grow in mind, grow happy. That's what we make it for.
