AGRICULTURE.

No animal can remain in a condition of health and vitality without a sufficient quantity of a combination of foods or of a food containing all the elements or constituents to properly nourish the animal. The bone, muscle and tissue must be fed in proportion, and the fuel furnished in the carbon which supplies the heat. The vital forces abound in the nitrogenous or glutinous and the phosphatic elements, which should be supplied liberally to all animals, properties which are found in corn in a very small degree. Salt, as we stated before, through mechanical agencies, encourages the absorption of a large quantity of water, so that the food is conveyed in such a consistency of liquidity that it is easily and readily absorbed as nourishment. The food of all animals requires a certain degree of bulkiness in proportion to its qualities of nutrition, and the salt aids in this expansiveness as indicated above. An exercise or labor develops the muscle, so the grasp of the digestive organs upon a sufficient volume of available food invigorates and increases their power of utility. Wheat bran, oats and the coarse kind of provender combine the properties of nutrition suited to the best results of growth and development and bulkiness of food.

In hay-making in general the stack or mow should be covered one foot or more in depth with dry straw. Some moisture will evaporate daily for several weeks after cutting and storing. In the bright sunshine the moisture will pass off into the air, but at night, unless the surface is covered with some perfectly dry material, it will condense so soon as it meets the currents of colder air. The lack of this precautisn is the occasion of heavy losses both in hay and grain. We have occasionally seen thoughtless farmers throw a few forkfuls of wet hay or grain on top of a mow, with the idea that such a position was the best place to facilitate its drying. On the contrary, damp hay thus placed will usually wet down and spoil more fodder than was contained in the lot originally damaged. If there is any part of the field of hay not fully dried, it may be placed at the bottom of the mow with little danger of injury if a sufficient quantity of thoroughly-dried material is pitched upon it to absorb the moisture.

Park's Floral Magazine gives the following directions for propagating the rose: "Take a young branch, cut a slit just below a leaf-bud, put the branch through the hole in a common flower-pot until the slit in the bark is inside the pot, then fill the pot with sandy soil, set it on the ground, bending the branch and pinning it down without breaking; keep the pot well watered and the branch will root in a few weeks then cut outside the pot without disturbing the roots. The large white rose and many others that do not root easily from a slip can be propagated in this way, as can also most shrubs and woody plants. Of course, it will be understood that the branch should be pushed upward until several inches are above the rim of the pot, and the earth pressed tightly around it, the same as though potting an ordinary plant. The point to be observed is to leave the branch unsevered, so that it may draw strength from the parent root, until its own roots are started. Leave it undisturbed in the pot in the cellar until next spring.

Peas in the Fall.—The way to raise the finest quality of peas is, after the first sowing, to plant them deep and mulch them, so that the soil they root in is always cool and moist. In the careless manner in which peas are frequently cultivated they have very little flavor and delicacy. It is so with raising what is called the snap-short beans. They are seldom planted deep enough, and as a consequence have no more flavor than a piece of india-rubber and are about as tough; but the beans planted in September, and in due time for sale in our markets, are really delicious in flavor and fairly melt in the mouth. This is the result of cool soil. But were these beans planted three and four inches deep, as we have more than once suggested, throughout the season, and mulched in the hottest portion of it, we could have, as with the peas, these vegetables at all times up to November to perfection.

Milk has two principal elements, fats and casein, or cheese. While the butter may, and does, add largely to the value of the cheese, when made, the reverse is not true with the butter, and every step in its manufacture should be to separate these elements, for it is the casein, or cheese, that "spoils the butter." Then we may say that perfect butter is only made from the milk of well-fed cows, for it is the size of the butter globule that gives the product its character, and the poorly fed cow furnishes a small impoverished globule that at best can only result in a greasy mass and lacking in texture.

Colic in horses is often brought on by feeding hay passed through cornstalk cutters, mixed with meal, middlings or bran, then wet up. The horse eats this food thus prepared so rapidly that it is not properly masticated, and consequently becomes so clodded in the stomach as to cause indigestion, followed by colic, more especially if directly after eating he is allowed to drink heartily of water; and the colder this is, so much the more liable it is to do harm.

Pasture ought to be had for hogs. They will be all the healthier for having the run of a good clover pasture, but they will lay on flesh faster when kept in close confinement and fed all the hay they will eat. The best breeders believe the best plan is to give the stockers or young swine the run of pastnae up to within two months of the time when they are to be marketed and then confine them to close, comfortable quarters. They will gain but little when exposed to severe cold.

To any one who can stand the noise, a flock of guineas is a good thing to have on a farm. They are very great layers, a protection against hawks, and they are said to be the best exterminators of insects that can be raised on a farm.

The India wheat crop is said to be larger than ever before. The export of wheat from that far-off country has greatly increased within a few years, and indications are that India, rather than Russia, will be our chief competitor in supplying Europe with bread.

Ducks are the most profitable if they can be properly attended to. The eggs command a good price. They are good for the table, the Muscovy being almost as fine as turkey.

DOMESTIC.

Biscuit Glace.—Make a quart of rich boiled custard, flavor it with vanilla, and let it cool. Then mix with it a quart of grated pineapple or mashed peaches. Stir them well together, and add enough sugar to allow for the loss in freezing. Freeze in the usual way, stirring in a pint of cream, whipped, when it is beginning to set in the freezer. Partly fill little paper cases with the mixture and smooth the tops nicely. Place them carefully in the cleaned and dried freezer and let them remain imbedded in ice for several hours. Sometimes the cases are filled with pistachio or chocolate ice cream, in which case blanched almonds are laid over the top when they are served. Or they may be filled with frozen whipped cream, and served with a spoonful of some bright sherbet upon the top of each.

Sweet-Bread Croquettes.—A plump tongue, boiled until tender, then cooled, seven or eight sweet-breads. Scald the sweet-breads, remove the sinews, then fry them in butter. Chop the tongue very fine, then pound it to a smooth paste in a mortar. Pound the sweet-breads to a paste and add it to the tongue. Mix well together and season to taste with pepper, salt, grated onion and minced parsley. Add three well-beaten eggs, and moisten the whole with veal stock, making it as moist as it can be handled. Form the croquettes, egg and bread crumb them, and let them color a golden brown in boiling lard. If allowed to take too deep a color they will harden and be spoiled. Sometimes the mixture is made quite moist with veal stock and then stiffened slightly with bread crumbs.

Macaroni a l'Italienne.—Cut a chicken into joints and stew or fry it. In either case make a cream gravy. Boil a large handful of macaroni in salted boiling water until it begins to swell, then pour off the water. After pouring off the water, cover the macaroni with milk. Season nicely with pepper and salt and throw in a large onion, peeled. Let it boil until tender, then drain it well. Arrange the chicken in the centre of a hot platter, and make a border around it of the macaroni; pour the cream gravy over all, and serve at once.

As those annoying pests, mosquitoes, have put in appearance, we give the following recipe how to get rid of them, which is said to be quite effectual: Take gum of camphor a piece about one third the size of an egg, and evaporate it by placing it in a tin vessel, holding it over a lamp or candle, taking care that it does not ignite. The smoke will soon fill the room and expel the mosquitoes.

To Remove Paint.—If you intend papering a painted wall, you must first get off the paint, otherwise the paper will not stick. To do this, mix in a bucket with warm water a sufficient quantity of pearlash or potash, so as to make a strong solution. Dip a brush into this, and with it scour off all the paint, finishing with cold water and a flannel.

The bolster cushion is the latest in pincushions. It is about a quarter of a yard long and eight inches round. The case is first made, stuffed and gathered at the end. Then it is covered with velvet, embroidered silk or satin, or any pretty material. To each one is attached an ornamental tassel, and a cord from one end to the other by which to suspend the cushion to the top of the mirror.

Colored glass enters largely into house decoration this season, and among the different forms it assumes are oblongs, which are suspended in the windows. Those bearing flights of birds are selected for conservatories, and flower designs for aviaries. Lamp-shades are also made of it, in yellow, pink or blue tints, on which is painted the bright-colored rose or deep-hued violet.

Missed fire: Doting young wife—"And Mme. Mantua will get the velvet, dearest, and all the trimmings, you understand; in fine, Carlos love, madame will assume entire charge of the whole thing. It will be such a relief, darling. Don't you think it's a nice way?" Carlos—"Oh, very nice indeed, my dear. The charge has always been the only thing I have objected to in your dealings with Mme. Mantua and of course I am very glad to know I'm to be relieved of that."

"I have not seen you for a long time. How are all your folks?"

"Quite well, thanks."

"And my old friend, your mother-in-law, how is she coming on?"

"I don't know how she is coming on. Haven't seen her or spoken to her in five years."

"What! had a row?"

"No, that ain't the cause."

"Then you don t live with her any more?"

"I should think not. She died five years ago, I don't look like a man who resides with a corpse, do I?"

Scene at a table d'hote of the sixteenth class, where dinner is served at 6 P. M. At 6.45 a guest takes his seat and asks for soup. The dregs in the tureen are given him. Arrived at the last spoonful he strikes something hard, and discovers it to be a domino. Furious, he calls the master of the establishment. "See here," cried the exasperated man, "isn't this disgusting? I have just fished a two and a three with my spoon." "Well," replied the unabashed host. "I think you must be crazy. Did you expect the double-six at this time of day?"

Two Austin ladies were conversing about one thing and another, after the manner of women. "Mrs. Sampleby has not been to see me in a long time," remarked one of the ladies. "She hasn't got time to make calls. She has to take care of and be with her husband all the time." "Why, is he laid up with sickness?" "O, no; on the contrary, he is in the enjoyment of the best of health. If he was sick she would not have to watch him."

A well-known Washington gentleman tells a good one on the way a local wit staved off payment of a small debt for clothing. Leon met Neely the other day, and inquired: "Say, Neely, when are you going to pay me for those clothes you bought a long time ago? I'm growing tired of this thing of dunning you every week and getting no money." Neely, who stutters at great length, looked his creditor in the face, and then replied, with seeming great deliberation: "Do you take m-me for a pr-pr-prophet?" His account has been receipted.

HUMOROUS.

And still another New York millionaire has put his son into business. It happened only the other day. He gave the young man $5,000 and told him to go out upon the street and speculate. Two hours later the son came back and said:

"Father, is a profit of $2,000 on my capital a fair send off?"

"I should say so! How did you make it?"

"Bought a horse."

"A horse?"

"Just so. I've bought a horse for $5,000 which the owner has all along been asking $7,000 for, and if you've any more loose change I know where I can pick up a tally ho! coach for half what it cost a year ago."

The old gent didn't seem to have any more.

How He Doubled His Trade.

Mr. Benj. W. Patton, pharmacist, Globe Village, Mass., says that the miraculous pain cure, St. Jacobs Oil, has greatly helped his other business, and the sales of the remedy have doubled in one month. He keeps a large supply on hand. Officers of the Army and Navy pronounce St. Jacobs Oil, to be the greatest pain-cure of the age.

Mose Schaumburg had loaned Sam Bingtom $700, As Mose had not seen Sam on the streets of Austin for several days it occurred to him to call at Sam's house and find out how he was coming on. He did not see Sam, but Mrs. Bingtom was at home. She looked very sad, and had black rings around her eyes.

"I am in great distress, Mr. Schaumburg."

"Vat vosh de matter?"

"Mr. Bingtom has lost his mind, and has been taken out in the country."

"Did he leave dot money mit you to pay dot note vot comes due next week?"

"Oh, no, Mr. Schaumburg, he is not crazy enough to do that, He has not lost his reasoning faculties entirely."

No Rest Day or Night.

In the fall of 1875 my sufferings were terrible. I was swollen to such proportion that I feared my limbs would burst. I had the best medical talent obtainable, and at the worst stage of my illness, when my husband and many friends had given me up to die, the late Dr. John Woodbury made a thorough examination of my water, and pronounced my case acute kidney disease, bordering on Bright's disease, and accompanied by gravel, and recommended the immediate use of Hunt's Remedy. At this time I was suffering most terrible pain in my back, limbs and head, and could find no rest day or night for weeks, and I was growing weaker daily until this kind physician ordered me to take Hunt's Remedy. Before taking half of one bottle I commenced to improve, and after taking six bottles was entirely cured. This was nearly eight years ago, and I have had no return of the disease. I have recommended Hunt's Remedy to others in similar cases, and it has never failed to cure. I have also used it for sick headache, and found in it a sure relief. I think it the best medicine made, and cheerfully recommend it to all.

MRS. W. H. STILSON,
No. 16 Tyler Street, Boston, Mass.
April 18, 1883.

A Well-Known Man.

Hunt's Remedy having been recommended to me for kidney and liver complaints, I purchased some at the "People's Drug Store" and used it in my family, and found it to be a very valuable medicine, and I gladly recommend it highly to my friends, knowing it to be beneficial to those troubled with kidney or liver disease. Respectfully yours,

ELISHA NOYSE,
63 G. Street, South Boston, Mass.
April 14, 1883.

A Last Manufacturer.

I have used Hunt's Remedy for the kidney complaint, and, having been fully restored to health by its use, I can testify to its value. Daily I recommend it to some one of my friends, all of whom I know have been benefited by its use. Gratefully,

GEO. P. COX.
Malden, Mass., April 23, 1883.

"I notice one thing about this hotel," said one drummer to another, as the pair were seated at dinner, "the people here understand the art of bread-making?" "So they do," was the response, "but they can't help it, you see; it's inn-bread."

To Say Nothing of the Discomfort,

Chronic constipation is an ailment very difficult to overcome by ordinary means, and absolutely inimical to health in the free discharge of the various physical functions. Dyspepsia, liver complaint, sick headaches, inflammation of the bowels, and a variety of other complaints, spring from or are aggravated by it. Among aperients of a rational class, as distinguished from the violent purgatives far less esteemed than formerly by the profession and the public, Hostetters Stomach Bitters stands deservedly high. It is sufficiently active, without being sudden and painful in operation, and not only affords radical relief from irregularity of the bowels, but invigorates them and their kindred organs, the liver and stomach. As a tonic, therefore, no less than as an aperient, it is an article of the first rank. Fever and ague, rheumatic complaints, a want of vitality, and kidney and bladder ailments, are also within the scope of its remedial influence.

A lady correspondent, who assumes to know how boys ought to be trained, writes as follows:

"Oh, mothers! hunt out the soft, tender genial side of your boy's nature."

Mothers often do—with an old shoe.

The successful man has many imitators in his peculiar line of business, but still there is only one originator. So, also, the great petroleum hair renewer, Carboline, as now improved and perfected, hold the palm against all imitators as a genuine article of merit. Try it.

"How do you like the butter?" asked a landlady of the new boarder. "Bald-headed, if you please," he smilingly replied.

Proof of the Pudding

Applies also to pills, when we remember that all great diseases begin by some trifling cold, some excess or irregularity of eating and drinking producing congestions and disorder of one or more of the function of the body at first small but ending in inflammation, fevers and death. It is important also to recollect that by removing the cause, opening the sluices discharging the poisonous fluids and purifying the blood we enable nature to conquer disease and health is restored. Wise physicians for 1000 years have found no more infallible enemy to disease than "St. Bernard Vegetable Pills." At all druggists.

HEALTH IS WEALTH.
Health of Body is Wealth of Mind
DR. RADWAY'S
Sarsaparillian Resolvent.
THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.
Pure blood makes sound flesh, strong bone and a clear skin. If you would have your flesh firm your bones sound without caries, and your complexion fair, use
Radway's Sarsaparillian Resolvent.
A remedy composed of ingredients of extraordinary medical properties, essential to purify, heal, repair and invigorate the broken-down and wasted body—Quick, Pleasant, Safe and Permanent in its treatment and cure.
No matter by what name the complaint may be designated, whether it be scrofula, consumption, syphilis, ulcers, sores, tumors, boils, erysipelas, or salt rheum, diseases of the lungs, kidneys, bladder, womb, skin, liver, stomach or bowels, either chronic or constitutional, the virus is in the Blood which supplies the waste and builds and repairs these organs and wasted tissues of the system. If the blood is unhealthy, the process of repair must be unsound.

The Sarsaparillian Resolvent
Not only is a compensating remedy, but secures the harmonious action of each of the organs. It establishes throughout the entire system functional harmony and supplies the blood vessels with a pure and healthy current of new life. The Skin, after a few days' use of the Sarsaparillian, becomes clear and beautiful. Pimples, blotches, black spots and skin eruptions are removed; sores and ulcers soon cured. Persons suffering from scrofula, eruptive diseases of the eyes, mouth, ears, legs, throat and glands, that have accumulated and spread, either from uncured diseases or mercury, or from the use of corrosive sublimate, may rely upon a cure if the Sarsaparillian is continued a sufficient time to make its impression on the system.
One bottle contains more of the active principles of Medicines than any other Preparation. Taken in teaspoonful doses, while others require five or six times as much.
One Dollar a Bottle.
