

CO-ED DEPARTMENT

Editor, Miss Minna Love.

Miss Covington returned Tuesday from Charleston, S. C., where she had been having her eyes treated.

The Girl's Dormitory has one new member, Miss Fronie J. Watson, Horis, S. C., whose duty it is to fill the two vacancies made last June by the graduation of Miss Price, who is now teaching near Orangeburg, and Miss Fromberg, who labors with the subject of French in the Walterboro School.

The other members of the graduating class may be found in various corners of the universe. Miss Becker and Miss Marks, true to their habit of shadowing, found corners near together. Miss Becker is at Strothers, while Miss Marks chose a place near Winsboro.

Miss Ola Thain goes to Moore, S. C., within the next few days to take up her duties as teacher.

Mrs. Coulter, still loving reserve, took refuge at Johns Hopkins, where she entered on studies leading to an M. D.

Miss Neal Thain, A. B. '14, has returned for her M. A. degree.

Big Registration.

The number of students registered has grown to 485. In the school of law 65, and 420 in the academic department. At this date last year only 425 registrations had been made. This indicates that the attendance for the ensuing year will be greater than that of 1914-15. It is thought that the 500 mark will be reached within a week or so.

The raising of the standard for entrance to the university has not affected the attendance. Members of the faculty report that the freshmen of this year are better prepared for college than the freshmen of several years past. Progress is being made in every phase of work at Carolina.

Dr. Currell Welcomes.

Dr. Currell welcomed to the city the president, faculty, and student body of Chicora College at its formal opening Tuesday morning. He expressed a desire for hearty cooperation between the two colleges. He paid a tribute to the president and the work of the institution.

President Currell went to Mountville, in Laurens County Friday when he spoke at the school. Today he will address the teachers of the county at their regular monthly meeting. He will go to Florence Sunday to talk before the city Young Men's Christian Association.

DR. JAMES O. REAVIS ADDRESSED Y. M. C. A.

Miss Engels and Miss Edmunds
Please Hearers.

With a record attendance the Y. M. C. A. held its meeting of the year last Wednesday evening. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the program. A special feature was a solo "God Be Merciful" rendered by Miss Engels of Chicora College for Women, assisted at the piano by Miss Edmunds.

J. McB. Dabbs, president of the association, introduced Dr. J. O. Reavis as the speaker of the evening. The subject of the lecture was "Standing by the Colors." The speaker compared some college men to Joseph of Aramathea as secret followers of Jesus. They, like Joseph, are afraid to stand up in the face of opposition or ridicule for what they know to be right. He said that anyone engaged in any questionable occupation should put this question to himself, "Can I hold on to my position and still be loyal to Christ?" "No one," he said, "should think it too hard to join the Y. M. C. A., or to stand up for Christ at any time—on the athletic field, in the dormitory or anywhere." The speaker went on to say that the greatest investment a man could make of his life was to spend it on other lives. It would be an investment which would go on forever.

The Athletic Commissary.

The Athletic Association has introduced something new on the campus in the way of the Athletic Commissary. This should prove to be of great benefit to both the association and to the students. Its purpose is the sale of athletic goods to students cheaper than they could be bought at the stores up town. Most of the other leading universities in the South have tried this plan and it has worked very satisfactorily. The students should avail themselves of the opportunity of buying their goods here and also of helping the association.

Mr. Bradley, a member of the football squad, is in charge of the commissary and he will be glad if the students will drop around and look his goods over. The commissary is located in Tenement 1 Pinckney College.

New Post Office.

Dr. Currell received notice Thursday from the Post Office Department of the Government that a sub-station post office would be opened on October 1st, at 909 Main St. The student of the University will find this a great convenience, as they can register all packages there and obtain stamps.

"Henry Timrod."

"Henry Timrod: Man and Poet", which was edited by Dr. G. A. Wauchope, dean of the Department of English, and which was published by the University Press, is now ready for distribution for anyone desiring a copy of this rare piece of literary production.

The monograph is in pamphlet form of prose and verse and has three illustrations; one of Timrod, his monument and his home. The University is indebted to the author for this masterpiece. Dean J. C. Metcalf of Richmond College, in giving a course in American Literature, said that this was the most valuable thing he had found.

Progress in the heating system continues in proportion to the appropriation from the Legislature for that purpose. Marshal Haile has recently extended the system to LeConte College. It is hoped that the president's home can be added to the system this year. The heating of LeConte College has been a source of great inconvenience and discomfort for all these years.
