

LAW DEPARTMENT

"Ignorantia legis neminem excusat"

On account of examinations the Law Association has not had a meeting for the last three Thursday nights. However, the regular work of the association will be resumed Thursday night, Feb. 17th, when the following case will be heard:

Wheeler vs Wentworth.

Counsel for Plaintiff—Dillard, Marshall, Cook.

Counsel for Defendant—Merrimon, McCoy, Wilson.

Before John P. Thomas, Chief Justice; Jones, Curtis, Associate Justices.

This is an interesting appellate case, and it is hoped that every member of the association will be present.

It is urgently requested by the officers of the association that all of the members enter into the second term work with renewed interest and enthusiasm. A great deal of good can be derived out of the moot court work if the men will enter into it with the proper spirit, otherwise it is not worth the time expended. It involves the practical side of the law students training, and is worthy of the most earnest consideration of every member of the law school.

TIGERS PICK HART AS FOOTBALL COACH

Former Georgetown and Geo. Washington Star Will Pilot Clemson.

Wayne M. Hart has been selected to coach the Clemson Tigers in football and will assume active charge early next fall.

Mr. Hart comes to Clemson with an enviable record, both as a player and as a coach. He played tackle for George Washington and Georgetown universities 1908-11 and was chosen for four successive years as all-Southern Atlantic tackle—one of the greatest tributes that can be paid a Southern athlete.

He served as assistant coach at Georgetown during the 1912 season and was sent to Carlisle, where he was under the tutelage of Glenn Warner, the famous gridiron strategist.

Mr. Hart coached the tenth high school eleven of Washington, D. C., during the seasons of 1914-15, and in 1913 coached the Washington Vigilantes, a professional eleven which did not drop a game.

Coach Hart will remain at Clemson throughout the collegiate year, having charge of both football and track.

of his family.

Mr. Clark has an enviable record as a baseball player. He has never pitched below an average of .500, although he has played with several tail-end clubs. His batting average is around the three hundred mark. He is largely responsible for Columbia's pennant winning team of 1911-12 and is credited with being one of the best managers the South Atlantic League has ever had.

A Week in Chapel.

The student body of the University has recently had the privilege of hearing two powerful and stimulating addresses on world missions. Dr. H. C. Mabi, General Secretary of the Baptist Board of Missions, spoke on world missions and conditions.

Dr. J. N. Mills, of Washington, made an address on Feb. 8, on World's Missions. Dr. Mills is in attendance upon the Laymen's Missionary Conference.

Dr. Delamarre, Secretary General of the Alliance Francaise, delivered in French, Feb. 2, a most interesting address on "La France a l'Exposition de San Francisco." During the course of his address he paid a tribute to William Spenser Currell, president of the University, who delivered a notable address on the "French Academy" at the meeting of the Alliance Francaise in Berkeley, Cal., last August.

Other prominent visitors to the Laymen's Missionary Convention who spoke to the students at chapel were Dr. W. W. Pinson, of Nashville, and Bishop McDowell of Chicago, who gave an inspiring talk on the four ideals that men must strive to attain.
