

Y. M. C. A. NEWS

"Spirit, Mind, Body."

Dr. Reed Smith began the series of life-work addresses that are being given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., on last Wednesday night. His subject was "Principles That Should Guide a Man in the Choice of a Life Work."

He began by saying that men are bothered mainly by little things in life that go to make up the big things, and grouped the biggest things in life as follows:

First—Our bodily health.

Second The kind of woman a man married.

Third—The kind of soul or character that a man develops.

Fourth Our life's work.

This last head he based his talk for the evening upon.

Dr. Smith showed first that the most important thing was the selection of our profession or field. In this we should be guided by our own inclinations and not merely drill into what seemed easiest or was the most convenient. Go where you think you can succeed best with the prospect of the future before you and go regardless of obstacles.

The second phase of his talk was Where one shall locate. He made a plea for South Carolina, showing its need for well trained men and the opportunity she presented for success when just awakening from her illiteracy.

Last he stressed the spirit with which we should enter upon our work. He said that nearly all of one's time is taken up with the routine affairs of life but that a man's worth in the world depends upon the use to which he puts that small fraction of time that remains over and above that spent in our struggle of daily bread. These few overtime hours of worth while men do more than anything else towards the improvement and uplift of mankind.

The next address in this series will be given in Flinn Hall next Wednesday night at 7.30. Mr. Beverly Herbert will speak on "The Legal Profession as a Life-Work."

A dozen new porch rockers have been ordered for Flinn Hall which will add greatly to its comfort.

Carolina is ahead of all the other colleges in the State in its contributions to the Students' War Relief fund, having collected already $158.10, and having $100 more in pledges. Wofford has turned in $176, but Carolina will probably lead in this fund when all is paid up.

CIVIC CLUB HOLDS
IMPORTANT MEETINGOfficers Elected and Plans Made for the Annual Banquet.

The Civic Club held its regular meeting Friday night last week and elected the following officers for the second term: D. S. Polier, president; M. J. Shirley, vice-president; R. R. Harley, secretary; C. T. Smith, Jr., treasurer; and Dr. Reed Smith, faculty adviser. L. B. Harrison is the retiring president.

Besides the regular program and routine matters the club set March 14 for the annual banquet. A committee composed of messrs. C. T. Smith, Jr., treasurer, D. S. Polier, and J. C. Kearse was appointed to make arrangements for the banquet, which in all probability be held at the Jefferson Hotel. The banquet is an annual affair and is always a sober and formal gathering.

The Civic Club is one of the oldest and most honored organizations on the campus. It enjoys an individuality all of its own, marked by its tone of refinement and genteel fellowship. The club has many distinguished alumni in the State. It is an honor and privilege of distinction to be invited to the limited membership in the club.

The following men received membership into the club at its last meeting: Messrs. Weeks, Rice, Schneider, Tyler and Herbert.

LAW ASSOCIATION

At the regular meeting of the Law Association Thursday night an interesting appeal case, involving the question whether it was the duty of a public water company or the citizen to connect a resident with the water main, was argued before Prof. J. N. Frierson, C. J., R. E. Wilson, and D. S. Polier associate justices. Messrs. Smith, Detreville and McIntosh represented the appellant and appellee was represented by Messrs. Percy, Wilder and Kearse. After able argument on both sides the court was unable to agree, C. J. Frierson finding for appellee and the associates finding for appellant.

An interesting criminal case is set for trial next Thursday.
