

BRILLIANT ALUMNUS CLAIMED BY DEATH

gular debate with the universities of Georgia and Tennessee and was a member of the debating team which defeated Georgetown university in Washington last year. He was a member of the Clariosophic Literary society and was for one term president of the society. He was the winner of the Gonzales oratorical medal in 1913 and winner of the Clariosophic medal for the best debater in 1911. Despite his heavy classroom and literary society duties Mr. Brandenburg served as assistant librarian for a number of years and was also secretary of the university alumni loan fund, a position which he held up to the time of his illness.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Brandenburg, he is survived by two brothers, W. L. Brandenburg and W. A. Brandenburg, and two sisters, Misses Helen and Marguerite Brandenburg.

The following resolution was adopted by the Clariosophic society.

Whereas, God in his allwise providence has seen fit to remove from our midst James D. Brandenburg, our beloved former student and fellow member of our literary society; and

Whereas, we feel we have lost a true and manly friend, because of the way he endeared himself to us through his devoted associations while attending the University of South Carolina; and

Whereas, we feel we have lost in his death a man whose Christian ideals, ability and character was sure to result in honor and credit to his country, his alma mater, the Clariosophic Literary society and to himself and family;

Therefore, be it resolved: That we, the members of the Clariosophic Literary society express in this manner our sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Brandenburg and family in this hour of their bereavement, and to let them know that we also feel the great loss that has been thrust upon them and the Clariosophic Literary society; and

Be it further resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, published in The State and filed on record in the Clariosophic Literary society.

Committee: McK. Barr, A. B. Horton, W. H. Thomas.

The resolutions adopted by the Euphradean society follow:

The Euphradian society wishes to record its tribute to the memory of James D. Brandenburg:

The force which exalted James Brandenburg's life and which made it beautiful was his love of truth. His brilliant powers of mind were devoted to one end—the discovery of truth. With him nothing mattered so much as that sham and falsehood and hypocrisy should be driven from the earth and that in their places truth should be implanted.

He possessed a wonderful intellect. His learning was not merely broad but deep. One had to marvel not merely at the variety of his information, but at the depth and thoroughness with which he had mastered so many of the fields of thought. It was characteristic of him that his knowledge was not superficial. His mind probed the bottom of things—it plumbed the depths. A truth seeker always, he dealt in fundamentals.

And yet the rare quality of his intellect had not destroyed in him a common touch with those of humble endowments. There was that in his nature which drew men of high and low estate to him. In the sacred circle of his intimates were to be found the lowly and the unlettered as well as the cultured and the scholarly. Ripe learning was no barrier between his heart and the heart of anyone whose purposes were clean.

The real tragedy of his passing is that his native State has lost one whose signal powers were devoted to her service. All forces which make for right in this world have lost a stalwart champion. The vitality of his intellect and the purity of his soul had made him destined to supreme leadership.

God rest his noble spirit!
Committee: G. E. Shand, G. A. Buchanan, M. A. Wright.

STUDENT BODY MEETS.

A special meeting of the university student body has been called for Wednesday to elect the Garnet and Black staff for next year. The nominations for the different positions will be made by a standing committee composed of both students and faculty. Twelve positions have to be filled: An editor in chief, a business manager, an assistant business manager, an advertising manager, two senior editors, two academic editors, two law editors and two or three art editors.
