

CAROLINA OVERWHELMS V.P.I.

GAMECOCKS EXHIBIT GREAT AERIAL GAME TO GOBBLERS

CAROLINA UPSETS DOPE

Final Score is 19 to 0—Rogers, Burke and Price Star in Brilliant Game

"And the throng that came to jeer, remained to cheer," says Pete Dunford, sporting scribe of the Richmond News-Leader, as he chronicles the reports of the impressive 19 to 0 victory of the Gamecocks of South Carolina over the V. P. I. Gobblers.

Yes, the Birds have again become the "fighting Gamecocks." The long awaited comeback has been realized. The spirit of victory is in the air. Furman can never stop the "fighting Gamecocks." The "underdog" turned completely over in Richmond Saturday to the complete discomfort of the many V. P. I. supporters who gathered at Tate field, to witness the beating of a once crestfallen Gamecock by an undefeated Gobbler.

Cooper's headwork paved the way for the first bombshell to be hurled in the Gobbler ranks. Wimberly punted 57 yards, to the three yard line, and Cooper was there ready to drop on it. Wingfield returned Peake's punt six yards to V. P. I.'s 39 yard line. Burke took a ten yard pass. Rogers made two and a half yards. The first quarter ended at this point, with the ball on Tech's four yard line.

On the opening of the second period, Rogers passed three yards to Cooper. On the next play he took it over himself for the touchdown. Shortly after the next kick-off, Burke took a pass and raced 40 yards for another touchdown. The half ended with no further scoring. Neither team tallied in the third quarter. But Carolina's day was not yet done, as another touchdown was forthcoming. Bill Rogers intercepted a pass three minutes after the last period began, and ran 22 yards before a Tech man threw him on the Virginian's 49 yard line. Rogers flipped a pass to Wingfield, who sprinted for the final South Carolina score.

Students were jubilant over the unexpected win. There was rejoicing in Columbia when the reports for the first half came in, and when the final score was flashed on the bulletin board, cheer after cheer broke loose. A riotous display of "shirt-tails" was the culma nation of the celebration.

The Gridiron Inkpot

THE GAME TOMORROW is the most important on our schedule. It is true that it has not the color which the Fair Classic has, nor is the Furman as strong as some elevens that we play. But in the past few years, Furman and Carolina have come to look upon each other as the only barriers to the state championship. In 1924, Furman caused a triple tie by defeating Carolina after she had already been beaten by the Citadel. Last year, Furman won 2 to 0 and clinched the state rag. This time it is impossible for the Gamecocks to win the championship but we chance a tie if we beat Furman, and the Baptists in turn defeat the Citadel. And it isn't such a bare prospect that the Bulldogs will beat both Furman and P. C.

ONE OF THE MOST loyal of all Carolinians is "Sammy," mascot of the varsity. "Sammy," and a certain freshman, Paderewski by name (no relation to the Baby Grand tickler), hid under the seats of the football players' train on the way to Richmond. It took 15 hours to get there, but they stood it. On the way home, an over-curious conductor happened to investigate and chucked them out in Raleigh. Sammy drifted in Monday night, and the other member of the party has finally concluded his "delightful trip."

TO AVENGE three successive years of defeat! That is what the Gamecocks are going to "fight like hell" to do tomorrow! "Beat Furman" is the motto. It is everywhere. On automobiles, on the sides of buildings, in the classrooms, and the dormitories the magic words are printed. There is nothing like the spirit that the men of Carolina are showing now. Keep it up Gamecocks. We need it all!

THE BIDDIES are doing their bit this afternoon against the first year Furman team. The "little winds" have been defeated once and that time by Erskine.

NEW BUILDING FOR ATHLETICS HALF FINISHED

Lack of Steel Girders Halts the Work for a Short Period of Time

TO SEAT FIVE THOUSAND

Will Be Completed By the First of March—Largest Seating Capacity in Columbia

Work on the University Field House, which is just about half completed, is being held up at present by the failure of the steel girders, necessary for the construction of the building to arrive on time. These steel supports were shipped to the contractors this week and they expect them to arrive within the next few days.

All of the foundation work for the new building has been completed, with the exception of the flooring. The concrete beds that will support the steel up-rights have been set and everything is in readiness to rush the building to completion as the material arrives.

It is expected that this unforeseen delay will prevent the contractor from completing the building in the time limit set in the contract, although the foreman of the job, states that the building will, in all probability, be completed by the first of March. The Concrete Construction Company is in charge of the construction of the building, while the plans were drawn up by Carrill Johnson, Columbia architect.

The seating capacity of the new building will be about five thousand, with room to put in extra seats in case of an emergency. The seats will be arranged in a circle around the edge of the building. Inside the circle will be a basketball court for inter-collegiate games. There will also be several practice courts so that all teams may work out at once rather than be cramped for space.

Underneath the circle of seats will be lockers for various athletic teams, Gamecocks and visitors. The visiting teams will have a place to sleep. Shower baths will also be provided. This will mean a great saving in the expense of inter-collegiate games, as they demand a large expenditure.

It is planned to utilize any extra space as club rooms for the clubs functioning on the campus. The "Block C" club will, in particular, be cared for. These wearers of the coveted letter will be given first preference in the event that space can be provided for them.

This building will also be a great addition to the public buildings of Columbia. At present there is no building here that can seat as many people as the new Field House will seat when completed.
