School Head Says Students Not 'People'

Brisbane Disagrees

"Students Do Not Function As Human Beings Should", Contends Vassar President

Are students people?

This ambiguous question has aroused much discussion by collegians throughout the country on the pronouncements of President Henry N. MacCracken of Vassar on one hand, and Arthur Brisbane, Hearst columnist, on the other.

"Students are not people", said President MacCracken, "because they do not function as people should. They are not influential, as they should be, in the management of their colleges, or in the control of public opinion."

Brisbane replied:

"Perhaps Dr. MacCracken expects too much from the young. You don't ask young robins to catch worms while in the nest. Boys in college are little birds in the nest, freed from the necessity of thinking."

Outraged, the University Daily Kansan branded the statement of Brisbane as "unbecoming a man who purports to be intelligent enough to write a daily column for the enlightenment of the newspaper reading public."

"The erratic columnist should be spanked for refusing to recognize the fact that when students go to college they have left the home nest and very frequently catch their own worms, for almost half the college populace is self-supporting...", continued the Daily Kansan.

The Daily, at the same time, praised Dr. MacCracken for his outspoken indictment of college students as social leaders, the editor taking the view that under-graduate capabilities are greatly restricted by those in control of society.

"Students are the cream of the intellectual crop," declared the editorial. "In European countries where that "I would like to thank the University Co-Op store and the athletic association for the generous sums they contributed to the brick sidewalk movement recently," Dr. Havilah Babcock, head of the sidewalk committee, stated today.

Several organizations and individuals have made contributions to the movement recently, enabling it to continue the work for some time to come.

It is believed that the second walk from Sumter street to Bull street will be completed at an early date now.

Watts Is Crowned Conference Champ

Carolina Boxing Captain Whips Sides Of Duke For Lightweight Title

Captain J. U. "Red" Watts, of the University of South Carolina boxing team, fought his way to the second Southern conference championship ever won by a Carolina boxer in the tourney held at Charlottesville, Va., last week, whipping Leroy Sides, of Duke, for the lightweight title.

The red-headed "Tiger" of the Carolina mitt team won this signal honor in spite of a badly injured right hand, full use of which he did not gain at any time during the tournament. Watts also suffered an eye injury in his first elimination bout which bothered him during his remaining fights.

It was the second conference boxing title ever won by Carolina, Harry Wolf, of the 1928 team, winning this honor in the heavyweight division.

Rivalling Watts' feat in winning a conference honor, was that of Redding DeVaughan, who gave Reuben Siegel, of Clemson, at whose hands two weeks prior to the conference meet he had taken a terrific beating, a sound thrashing for one of the biggest upsets in the tournament.

J. U. "Red" Watts

DeVaughan, observers said, showed great improvement over his initial appearance of the season against the Tiger boxer in the field house. He was beaten by Doyle Hill, of Tulane, who won the title by default when his scheduled opponent was unable to fight due to injuries received in an elimination bout.

Also the points for the tennis tournament were raised. Other requirements for a letter are that a candidate must participate in four of the tournaments and make the first team in three.

Helen Taylor of Ridgeland, Betty Payne of Columbia, and Virginia Wolf of Charleston, took the oath of initiation.

Fraternity Key Proves Quality

Statistics Show Phi Beta Kappa Key To Be Better Than Football Letter

Is a football letter or a Phi Beta Kappa key more desirable?

Here is a definite answer as compiled by Robert Sibley, executive secretary of the University of California Alumni association and published in the Daily Bruin. The Phi Beta Kappa seem to live longer and achieve greater success than the football stars.

Of 12 Phi Beta Kappas considered by Sibley, 10 are still living, and all 12 have been listed in Who's Who. Of 12 football stars, nine are still living and only one has been listed in Who's Who.

Should the undergraduate abandon his hopes for an athletic career and concentrate on pulling down A's and B's? These rather inadequate statistics seem to point to this conclusion, but, as the Daily Californian points out:
