

Two Motions Endorsed By Student Body

Would Provide That Two Students Be Elected To Office On Advisory Board

Motions Are Unanimous

Extra Carolina-Clemson Football Fee Seems Quite Likely To Be Abolished

March 22 was set as the date for the election of the two student representatives to the Advisory board and the faculty was asked to amend its action in barring athletes from serving on the board to the extent of permitting at least one to hold such office under the terms of motions unanimously adopted at a meeting of the Student Body Wednesday night in the chapel.

The Advisory board is composed of three faculty members with a full vote each, two Student Body members with a half vote each, and two alumni members with a half vote each. It is operated under the provisions of the Southern Conference athletic association which require faculty control.

A motion introduced by John Bolt Culbertson to the effect that students demand the money due them from the transfer last year of the Auburn game to Birmingham, twenty cents per capita, and turn it over to the athletic association for the purpose of taking care of deficits and to defray the expenses of banquets for the teams was tabled.

"Some action should be taken concerning the extra dollars the students pay at the Carolina-Clemson football game," Culbertson declared.

J. Wiley Brown interrupted by saying that Dr. Baker had assured him that he was going to Clemson College in the near future for the purpose of conferring with the officials of that institution.

S. M. Derrick Addresses Greenwood Rotary Club

Dr. S. M. Derrick, of the Economics department, declared that County Government is operated at low levels of efficiency and economy in an address to the Rotary club in Greenwood a few days ago.

If there is one characteristic of county affairs that stands out, he said, it is a complete lack of system of government, a lack of uniform principle of organization. A graphical drawing of the governmental organization of almost any county in the state gives one an impression of a Chinese puzzle.

"Viewed from any angle, the conclusion can hardly be escaped that the

Alpha Betas And Tri Delts Top Averages

For High Scholarship

All Sorority And Fraternity Average Higher Than Any Other Group

Alpha Beta, local fraternity, and Delta Delta Delta, national sorority, tied for first place in scholarship for the first semester among campus Greek letter social organizations, according to figures released today by Registrar John A. Chase. Phi Beta Delta, national fraternity, and Pi Beta Phi, national sorority, were ranked third and fourth respectively.

The all-sorority and fraternity average was somewhat higher than the non-fraternity and sorority average, and though the fraternity average was below the all-University average it was above that of the non-fraternity men. Non-sorority women on the other hand excelled the sorority women.

This survey in the past has been conducted by the University at the end of every semester but this year because of reduced appropriation the University was unable to carry on the work, and the men's Pan-Hellenic council took it over instead. Pan-Hellenic representatives offered their services gratis and work on the survey has been progressing for the past two weeks. Men working on the survey were Marshall Williams, Phi Kappa

Mildred Dilling, the internationally famous harpist, will appear at the University chapel Thursday evening, March 16, at 8:30 o'clock. Baker Invited To N. C. Meet

To Consider Long Time Program For Extension Of Library Facilities

Dr. L. T. Baker has recently been extended an invitation by Dr. Frank Graham, president of North Carolina University to attend a conference of Southern leaders at the University of North Carolina in April for the purpose of considering libraries, books, and reading in the South.

The Southern leaders will consider conditions looking to the entrance in a long time program for the extension of library facilities in the Southern states.

In his letter inviting him to the conference, Dr. Graham called attention to the fact that in most of the South, the small towns and rural areas especially, are without access to libraries. He said that thoughtful consideration should be given to the library as the agency through which the stream of knowledge must be expected to reach all the people.

Council Will Act On Cuts

To Consider Changing Widely Criticized System In Force At Present

The question of amending the present system of cuts will be considered at the meeting of the faculty council on March 15, it was announced yesterday by Registrar John A. Chase.

The question was to have come up at the last meeting of the council but because of the large number of petitions considered there was no time in which to bring it up.

At that time the council will consider whether the present system of cuts will be continued or if it is to be changed, what system will be inaugurated.

The present system of allowing as many cuts as the course carries hours per week was inaugurated at the beginning of the present school year. Formerly double the number of cuts as the course carried hours per week were allowed.

Roberts Says That Society Should Divide

Advocates Party Plan

Calls On Euphradians To Form Competitive Groups To Increase Spirit

That the Euphradian Literary society should be reorganized into a junior senate patterned after a legislative body with its membership divided into two parties, each under a leader, which would function as political parties was proposed by Associate Professor Carlisle Roberts of the Law School at the regular meeting of the society last Tuesday night.

"This system would seem to enliven and create a new spirit in the society," he added.

Citing a case where another society modeled itself after the same pattern with good results, Professor Roberts pointed out that the program of the society would then fill some need for the student.

"The leader of each party would appoint various members to represent it in the debate or whatever may be the program of the society, and in this way division in argumentation would be clear cut so that their would be greater opportunity to develop speaking ability as well as alertness of thought in members."

After his speech Professor Roberts called the attention of the yearly

This is the first time a literary theme has been used, commercial art formerly having been the rule.

Students Ask No Action On Activities Fee

Committee Headed By Williamson Appears Before Senate Finance Body

Group Gives Reasons

As Alternative, Requests That Fee Be Set At Ten Dollars Per Semester

Appearing before the Senate finance committee a group of University students composed of Luke Williamson, president of the Student Body, Misses Frances Cardwell and Mary Begg Ligon, J. Wiley Brown, and A. D. Mann, Jr., requested that the matter of student activity fees be left in the hands of the students and board of trustees.

"Failing this we request that the fee be set at $10 per semester, the apportionment to be made by the trustees after consultation with the student council," the group stated.

In justification of this request the following reasons were set forth by the committee headed by Mr. Williamson:

Fee voluntarily imposed by the trustees by a signed petition of the majority of students.

Not an Athletic Tax: Fourteen organizations, embracing every student on the campus participate in it.

Every College Has It: All the male colleges in the state have compulsory activities fee ranging from $20 to $25.

Part of Educational Process: Many students agree that they receive as much, if not sometimes more, personal development by participation in activities than they do in classroom work. Educators agree that each—classes and activities—are component

Library Gets Rare Volume

Acquires Book Containing First Complete List Of Works Of Thomas Sully

A valuable book containing the first complete list of the works of Thomas Sully, ranked next to Gilbert Stuart as one of America's most famous portrait painters, has been secured by the University library at a cost of $75, according to Dr. R. M. Kennedy, librarian.

This book is printed in a limited edition and contains a sketch of the painter's life and reproductions of many of his most famous portraits.

The Sully family, composed of four sons and five daughters, moved to Charleston when Thomas was nine years old and lived there from 1792 until 1799.

After leaving Charleston, Sully joined his brother, Laurence, a painter of miniature portraits, in Richmond, Va. Shortly afterwards he studied under Gilbert Stuart and finally made his permanent home in Philadelphia.

Of Sully's famous paintings many were of South Carolinians, notable among which were: Joel R. Poinsett, Secretary of War in the Van Buren cabinet and the first United States minister to Mexico; Gen. Andrew Pickens, of Revolutionary fame; James L. Petigru, statesman and lawyer, and Mrs. Charles Coatsworth Pinkney.
