

Station Wagon Needed By "Y"

Wanted: One station wagon, with engine included. Anyone having a spare station wagon to donate will kindly get in touch with Mr. R. G. Bell, Y.M.C.A., University of South Carolina.

The engine dropped out of the old "Y bus" the other day, leaving seven members of a deputation trip to Dillon and Mullins stranded in the middle of the Wateree river swamp. It cost $7.50 to tow the wreck to Sumter, where the mechanics of a garage said the cost of putting the engine back in would run above $100.

When members of the deputation team phoned to Mr. Bell to ask advice, the "Y" secretary said, "Just leave it there."

Without means of transportation, the work of the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. will be severely handicapped. It will be difficult to transport Carolina students to and from the jail. They have been taken regularly to the city jail and state penitentiary to give Sunday school classes to the prisoners. Deputation trips to high schools and other colleges in South Carolina will have to be discontinued until another means of transportation can be found for the "Y".

J. Rion McKissick, president of the University of South Carolina, has been appointed a member of the Committee on Salaries for Faculty, Promotions and Increases of the Southern University Conference by the Executive Committee of that organization.

Debater

Tom McCutchen who with three other University debaters is making an extended tour through the south.

WEEKS SPEAKS TO ENGINEERS

The American Society of Civil Engineers has announced the election of five new members at a recent meeting of the local chapter. Initiation will take place next week.

The five students picked for membership include Carl Newsome, Hartsville; George Haltiwanger, and George Haskell of Columbia; C. D. Black, Millettville; and T. A. Oliver, of Hemmingway. At the same time it was revealed that this afternoon at five o'clock the society will sponsor an illustrated lecture by the American Institute of Steel at the Physics laboratory in Sloan college. An invitation has been extended to the student body.

NEWS IN BRIEF

ART EXHIBITION HELD
The Art Department is having this week an exhibition of reproductions of American paintings which will continue through the first week of March. The pictures are shown every afternoon in the Flinn Hall Studio, second floor.

Exhibited with the American reproductions is a painting depicting a Maine scene by Wilson Taylor, a former University art student and winner of a scholarship at Paris, who now lives in Philadelphia.

The painting by Taylor was bought by the University art department for its permanent collection. It has been recently framed and hung.

OLD STAFF

The idea of a works progress administration to prevent unemployment is over 2,000 years old, according to Professor E. T. Bonn of the University history department.

Four hundred years B. C. Pericles diverted armament fund to employ the workmen and artists of Athens in various projects for beautifying and improving the city.

The source of revenue was not through taxing the citizens, professor Bonn pointed out, but the method of administration was much the same as our P. W. A. There were building projects, highway projects, art projects, and many other employing all those not being used in private industry or commerce.

SPARTANBURG CLUB

All Carolina students from Spartanburg County are urged to meet Tuesday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock in Dean Childs' office. The purpose of the meeting is to elect officers and to make plans for the future. It is important that everyone be present.

SUBSCRIBERS

Subscribers who for any reason have not received their copies of the Carolinian for the month of March may obtain this month's issue of the campus magazine by getting in touch with Alex McArthur, business manager, or any other member of the staff.

All efforts were made to get copies to every subscriber, but it may be that some who bargained for the Carolinian have through accident not received the magazine.

GALS MUST STUDY

Study Hall is being held in the Woman's building every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday nights from seven to nine o'clock. Girls who failed in one subject are required to attend at least three times a week. Those failing more than one, are required to attend at least four study halls a week.

Alpha Kappa Gamma is in charge of the session this semester and different members of the organization will be there each night to oversee the studying.

PREACHING PREXY

Pres. J. Rion McKissick, University of South Carolina, spoke to members of the First Methodist church in Easley, S. C., twice last Sunday.

Dr. McKissick addressed members of the Men's Bible class at 10 a. m. and at 11 a. m. spoke to a capacity crowd in congregational services.

APPOINTMENT BUREAU

Students interested in having the Bureau of Appointments assist them in securing jobs as teachers met in Room 121 of the Education building, Wednesday, Feb. 23, at 4:30 p. m.

SAFETY FIRST

An automobile was exhibited here the other day with a device that: Flashes a white light on the dashboard when a car is going 15 miles an hour.

Flashes green at 25 miles an hour. Flashes red at 40 miles an hour. And plays "Nearer My God To Thee" on a music box at 60 miles an hour.

PREHISTORIC PLANT

The fossil of a reed several million years old is among a collection of specimens presented Professor Taber for the geology department of the University of South Carolina.

The reed once grew almost as high as a tree and the specimen is well enough preserved to show its shape.

The collection was given by Frank H. Haskell, an engineer of Columbia, but collected by him in Michigan and contains other uniquely formed orris and fossils.

MRS. BABCOCK ILL

Mrs. Havilah Babcock, wife of Dr. Havilah Babcock, professor of English at the University of South Carolina, was taken to the hospital Monday night for an appendicitis operation.

Mrs. Babcock is now resting as well as can be expected.

GOLD CRYSTAL

A perfect specimen of gold crystal panned in this state has been presented to the geology department of the University of South Carolina according to Professor Taber.

Prospecting for gold in his spare time, Mr. S. W. Boozer discovered some crystals which he took to Professor Taber for analysis. One of the crystals was geometrically perfect. No other of its kind ever having been recorded. This Mr. Boozer presented to the University.

GARDEN CLUB

A large crowd attended the illustrated lecture sponsored jointly by the Garden Clubs and the extension division of the University which was presented at Drayton Hall, Monday morning, Feb. 21.

Howard S. Haddon of Spring Bank Plantation, Kingstree, lectured with the use of slides and motion pictures on the gardens of the South and South Carolina.

HUSKY TONSILS

Since September, 1937, Prof. Kershaw Walsh of the University psychology department has filled more than 20 speaking engagements.

These speeches include addresses before Kiwanis Club, Pi Gamma Mu, and business women groups. Professor Walsh has also spoken to various parent-teachers association groups, and during December he gave a radio address on the home as an education influence.

For the past three years, Professor Walsh has been leading and directing the program of the Schneider school parent-teachers association study group.

CASTOR OIL BEANS

A garden to raise drugs has been planned, according to Professor W. D. Strother of the University of South Carolina pharmacy department.

Over 100 plants native to South Carolina are used in the compounding of medicines. Eventually it is hoped all of these will be represented in the space allotted at the University botanical garden.

This collection is designed primarily for its educational value but according to Professor Strother some of the plants may be used in the pharmacy laboratory.

OLD SOLDIER

Dr. Isadore Schayer, M.D., professor of hygiene at the University of South Carolina went Tuesday to Charleston, to attend a Washington Light Infantry banquet at which he will be one of the honored guests.

This organization has been celebrating Washington's birthday for 138 years. It is the oldest military organization in the South and one of the three oldest in the United States.

TO ATLANTIC CITY

Mrs. A. R. Childs, Dean of Women, University of South Carolina left Columbia Tuesday for Atlantic City, N. J., where she will attend the national Dean of Women's association. Mrs. Childs will be gone until Sunday.

SOCIETY ELECTS FIVE MEMBERS

Mr. Weeks, distribution engineer of the South Carolina Gas and Electric Company will address the local chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers here at 4 p. m. this afternoon in the physics lecture room, in Sloan building.

Electrical problems will be discussed at the meeting. The public is invited to attend the session.

SHORT STORIES GO TO CRITICS

The short story writing class taught by Dr. Havilah Babcock is not an organization of "hand-shakers" or "pat-ters-on-the-back." Neither is it composed of "knifers-in-the-back," the author is told to his face just what the class thinks of his story.

The method is this; the author reads his story to the class, or rather, begins to read it, and if it proves to be dull or impossible, the class members are not required to suffer in silence until the end. They can raise their hands to signify disapproval.

HOWARD BURNS

STUDENT UNION GIVES DANCE

The Board of Directors of the Student Union Building will present the fifth in the series of Saturday night dances tomorrow night from 9:30-12:00 in the Student Union lobby. The proceeds from these dances go toward furnishings for the lobby.

The following organizations held meetings in the Student Union Building since the beginning of this semester, and the number of times they met: Carolinian, 7; University Players, 6; Freshman Y.W.C.A., 3; French Club, 1; Dance, 2; Wesley Foundation, 4; B. S. U., 4; Alpha Kappa Gamma, 1; Y.W.C.A. Square Dance, 1; Chi Delta Phi, 2;

The second Selden Society Year Book organized on the same general lines as the last will be published around May first, Howard Burns, editor, announced today. It will contain treatises on constitutional and administrative law, the law of sales, notes on current South Carolina decisions, and a few biographies of past law school professors and prominent bar members.

Among next issue's contents will be: "The Constitutionality of the Proposed Anti-Lynching Bill," by Robert Hemphill and J. H. Woodward; "The Privileges and Immunities Clause," by Tom Pope and Richard Palmer; "Some Administrative Problems of the Workmen's Compensation Act," by Howard Burns and Hummel Harley.

Burns assistants on the Year Book are Sam Rogol, former editor W. H. Blackwell, and Ben Geer, Jr.

The publication is sent to every member of the bench and bar of South Carolina, and to numerous law schools throughout the country.

The object of the Selden Society Year Book is to treat current legal problems in South Carolina, and to put in a permanent form primary information concerning recently deceased leaders of the profession. This Year Book endeavors to synchronize the efforts of the law school with current problems of the bar.
