Anderson Check Mystery Baffles Carolina Alumni

Unsigned Draft Starts Wild Search For Some Grad's John Hancock

An unsigned check for three dollars in an envelope post marked Anderson, S. C. was delivered to the Alumni office on September 25. A state of total emergency was immediately declared by executive secretary Ralph E. Lewis, and an all-out search to locate the sender was begun.

In his form letter to every alumnus and alumna in Anderson county, Secretary Lewis expressed his belief that some former graduate will be disappointed if he misses his membership in the association because of such carelessness. "This may seem to be a rather expensive procedure," read the letter, "but we believe it's worth a little time, paper, and postage to keep from disappointing just one interested Carolina alumnus."

Besides, it's a well known fact to one and all that an unsigned check is worthless to the bearer.

Garnet And Black Rates All-American Award From National Scholastic Press

1941 Annual Receives Praise From Association For Second Successive Year; Garners 980 Points

Gaines Appointed To Music Faculty

New Instructor Here From Mary Baldwin

Miss Elizabeth Gaines, pianist, has been appointed to the staff of the department of music at the university, it was announced recently. Miss Gaines came to Carolina from Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va., where for the last four years she served as professor of piano and theory.

After her graduation, magna cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa, from the University of South Carolina, Miss Gaines studied piano at the Institute of Musical Art of the Juilliard Foundation of New York, where she received the piano diploma. She studied piano under the direction of Arthur Newstead, theory under George Wedge and Bernard Wagenaar, and musicology under the late W. J. Henderson.

In 1937 she received the M. A. degree in music at Teachers College, Columbia University. Since then she has continued her study of piano with Edwin Hughes and Gorondnizski of New York, and with Cassadesus of the Fontainebleau School of Music, Fontainebleau, France.

Miss Gaines' experience as a teacher of piano has been wide and successful. For three years she was a member of the faculty of Lander College, Greenwood, S. C., and for four years at Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va., which position she resigned to come to the University of South Carolina.

The 1941 Garnet and Black was one of seven college annuals to rate All-American honors in its class, the National Scholastic Press association announced this week. Edited by Paul Sansbury the book gained 980 points to make the honor.

The USC annual was placed in the class with annuals from schools having between 1,000 and 2,499 students.

The Garnet and Black was given high praise for its work on features, writeups and general appearance. The book rated superior in several departments.

This is the second straight year the Carolina yearbook has made All-American. The 1939 annual, edited by the late Hubert Harmon, was placed in the top ten of the nation's annuals.

Veteran critics judged last year's crop of annuals, basing their judgments on the average annual presented in each class.

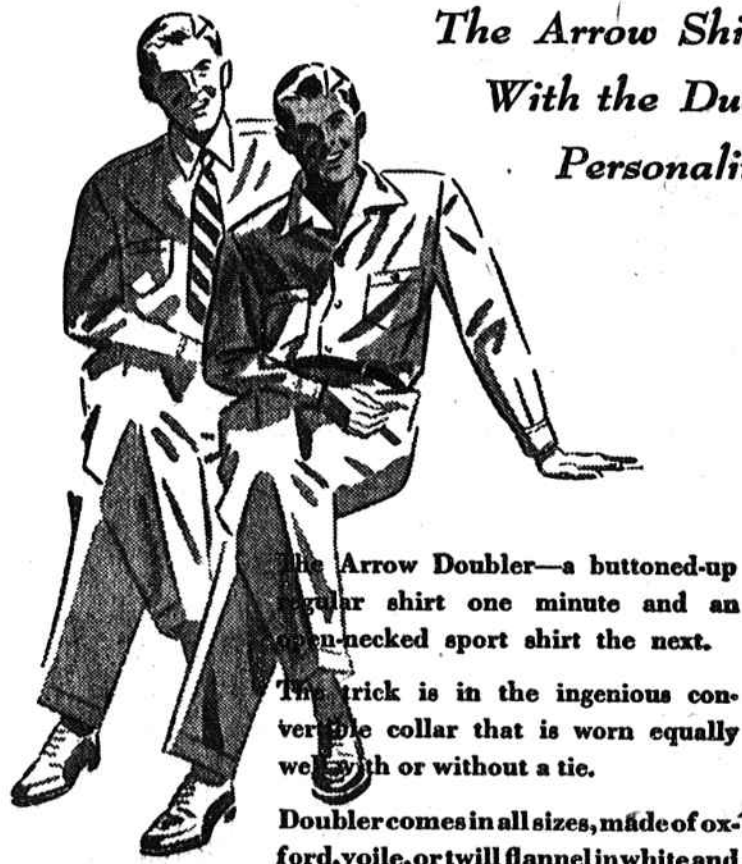

Swimming Pool Thief Captured By Students

A trap made of a few pieces of string, an electric alarm bell, and bait in the shape of a wallet, caught the University's swimming pool thief this week. Over a period of two semesters an estimated $75 has been taken from the dressing rooms at the pool, student swimming instructor Roger Kirk declared.

The culprit, one of the street urchins who frequently play around the gym and swimming pool, was caught running from the dressing rooms by the pool's caretaker, who was warned by the clamorous alarm bell.

Many attempts have been made to catch the young pickpocket, whose raids had become more daring of recent weeks. Kirk and Cox decided to set the trap last week after the loss of more than $22 in one day.
