

These four boys are enjoying what might have been just another boat ride at the "Y" lake, one of the many facilities offered to university students and faculty members. Located on the back Camden road, 12 miles from Columbia, the new "Y" camp was established largely through the efforts of R. Glenn Bell, university Y. M. C. A. director. Relaxed from a dip in pleasantly cool water, left to right, are Bob Curran, Summerville; Frank Boensch, Mt. Pleasant; Jimmy Lillard, Andrews; and Wynn Dewell, Inman, S. C.

Freshmen Preparing For Furman Game

By BOB WALLACE
The Carolina "Biddies" are on the threshold of another season and Coach Frank Johnson is watching his charges with the optimistic eye of a football mentor. The squad has been working hard and is ready for its baptism into college football. Coach Johnson said this week that it is too early yet to predict what can be expected of these boys, but added that their spirit is excellent and they are looking forward to opening with Furman, September 29. Furman's freshman squad has been reported as one of the best they have had in several years.

These are the prospects for the freshman squad:
Backs Bobby Drawdy of Summerville, J. W. "Jeepers" Jeffcoat of (Olympia High) Columbia, Johnny Gramling of Orangeburg, Jimmy Cox of Camden, Jack Abbot of Saginaw, Mich., Dick Gleichman of Rockford, Ill., Bill Hehrens and Bob Korn of Wheeling, W. Va., Clyde King of (Columbia High) Columbia, Stanley Lewallen of South Bend, Ind., and Joe Tanski of Michigan City, Ind.
Ends Clyde Bennett of St. Matthews, Warren Clark of Orangeburg, Steve Fetsko of Warren, O., and Don Fritz of Lorain, O.
Tackles, guards and centers Bobby Doan of Atlanta, Robert Brunson of Sumter, Billy Evans of Doolington, George Prosser of (Olympia High) and Pat Murphy (Columbia High) of Columbia,

Football Annual Features Carolina, Other State Teams

The Gamecock football squad is one of the featured teams in the new All-South Carolina College Football Annual, published Wednesday and now on the newsstands, available to students all over South Carolina. The Annual is a 52-page pictorial review of the eight major colleges and universities in the state — South Carolina, Clemson, Furman, Presbyterian, Wofford, The Citadel, Newberry and Erskine. It is the first magazine of its kind in the country and is devoted exclusively to South Carolina squads. High lights are features on each team's grid prospects, written especially for the magazine by the head coaches of each college — pictures and statistics on nearly 200 outstanding South Carolina players — articles on Carolina-Clemson "Big Thursday" and the Presbyterian-Newberry "Bronze Derby" series — and action photos from the best games of the season. The Annual, edited by Al Munn, former basketball player for Carolina, is on sale at newsstands throughout South Carolina, in Charlotte, N. C., and Augusta, Ga.

Duke Blue Devils 14-Point Favorite Over Gamecocks In Season Opener Tomorrow

By BOB KEDERICK
Tomorrow afternoon at Carolina Stadium the Gamecocks will open their 1950 football season when they throw their football talents at the power-laden Duke Blue Devils.

The highly touted Blue Devils come to town led by their ace tailback Billy Cox, All-Southern back, was ranked ninth in the nation in total offense last year. He will spearhead the dangerous Duke passing attack in addition to his duties as number one ball carrier. Of Cox, Carolina Coach Rex Enright says, "He is probably one of the greatest backs in the country today."

The Gamecocks will counter with the celebrated one-two punch of the "Chicago Comet" Steve Wadiak and the "Bouncing" Bishop Strickland, two of the better backs in collegiate football today. The game will probably feature the aerial attack of the Blue Devils against the ground offensive of Carolina. The Dukes have been established the pre-game favorite by a two-touchdown margin.

Efforts will be pointed toward stopping the overhead game of the Blue Devils. Cox has two very dependable receivers in Souchak and the speedster "Piney" Field. Pass defense has been the keynote of the past few practice sessions. The defensive backfield will probably find Bayard Pickett, junior from Sullivan's Island, at the safety position, Blackie Kincaid, junior from Ansted, W. Va., and Lockhart McLendon, Darlington senior at halfbacks, with Harry Jabbusch and Ashley Phillips backing up the line.

The forward part of the Gamecock defenses has Dave Sparks, 225 pounds of All-State guard on the left, and Roy Skinner, 195-pounder from Sumter, at right guard. Don Early, 200-pound sophomore, will team with Hugh Merck at the tackles. Wilbur Newman, the only experienced end on the Gamecock squad will be on the left flank. Dick Phiel, sophomore from Lorain, Ohio, will play the right end.

Offensively the Gamecocks should offer the Blue Devils many, many thorns in the side. The ground game of the Carolina backfield has been tested and found true. Stout Steve Wadiak, leading ground gainer of the Southern Conference last year, will team with All-State and second team All-Conference Bishop Strickland to give the Gamecocks as good a running game as can be desired. Ed Pasky will pilot the club from the quarterback slot. Pasky, formerly one of the best defensive backs in the Southern Conference, seems to have everything but the actual game experience.

Vince Gargano, the silent man from Brooklyn, and mammoth Bob King will be the guard combination on the offensive team. Lamar Colie, student body president, will start at the offensive left tackle berth, while Paul Stephens leads the way for the backs from his right tackle position. Paul Sweezy, elongated end from Massachusetts, will team with the recovered "Moose" Kahle, to supply the needed pass receiving and blocking potential on the flanks.

Anchoring the offensive line from his center position is Larry Smith, brawny-armed hefty from Ford City, Pa.

That's the way the University

Bird Sports Book Available

Today and tomorrow "The Little Red Book of South Carolina Football, 1950," will be available to all students at the Alumni office.

Edited by Don Barton, Carolina Athletic Publicity Director, and published by the Alumni Association, this 30-page booklet is a handbook of football news and pictures. It contains facts about each member of the varsity squad, the coaches and the prospects of the season. Included also is the game schedule and the Gamecock all-time record. There is a list of all the captains and coaches through the years.

This book, which has been sent to all members of the Alumni Association, will be given without charge to each student who comes to the Alumni office. The office is located on the main (2nd) floor of Lieber College, which is directly across the Horseshoe from the South Caroliniana Library. Besides the football information there is a basketball schedule and a discussion of the team's outlook for the year.
