Sorority Rush Week Continues Until Oct. 13

By FRANCES LaBORDE
Pan Hellenic Representative

Sorority rush week for the fall term began Tuesday when Pan Hellenic council gave a tea for all coeds in the music room of Sims college.

Those who were unable to attend the tea Tuesday will be able to register in the lobby of Maxcy college today. Mem-

Campus Briefs

The extension division is organizing field classes which are set up at different centers throughout the state, and are taught by the principals and superintendents of the various schools.

Field classes meet once a week for three hours, and centers are established according to demand.

The chess club will hold its first meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m., in Flinn hall, President Hugh Gibert has announced.

New Gamecock staff members are: Rice Felder, Susan Forest, Bob Turner, Sandy Cranford, Mary Evelyn Rogers, Charlene Cain, Don Hayes, Fumey Hemmingsway, Molly McGregor, Betty Bellinger, J. M. Blalock, Jr., Jo Ann Sprott, Betty J. Campbell, Cleve Laird and Martha Wood-dall.

The publicity chairmen and presidents of campus organizations are invited Monday afternoons to aid the Gamecock in more accurate coverage.

Dr. J. B. McConaughy, of the political science department, will address the International Relations Club on the "Re-armament of Germany," Thursday at 7 p. m. in room 10, Building C. Cokes and smokes will be furnished free.

Surplus copies of old issues of the "Carolina Review" will be placed in the post office Monday for those students who desire them. These issues, dating from 1946 to the present, will acquaint new students with the "Review" and give the students a chance to read the literary expression of their older brothers and sisters.

There will not be enough copies to give each student one of each issue so students are urged to take only those issues which he plans to read.

Mu Psi will hold its first formal meeting next Thursday at the home of Dr. Erland Nelson on York Avenue.

This meeting is primarily to plan a project of social conformities. All present members and psychology majors interested are invited.

Transportation will be available at Building C at 6:45 p. m. The Mu Psi bulletin board will carry additional information.

Pre-med students interested in joining Alpha Epsilon Delta, National Pre-Medical society, should submit applications by Thursday, October 5, to Dr. J. W. Bouknight, faculty advisor, or to Don Saunders, president.

To be eligible for membership, a student must be enrolled in pre-med and must have second semester sophomore rank. The student must be in the upper 35% of his class scholastically.

The local chapter of A. E. D. is planning trips to several medical schools this semester. Meetings are held twice a month.

George W. Tomlin, university director of student activities, urged students to make appointments for their Garnet and Black pictures if they have not done so.

The photographer will be on the campus until October 1. Appointments and pictures may be made at the student activities office in McCutchen House.

bers of Pan Hellenic will register them any time between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. This, however, will be the last opportunity girls will have to register. Those who attended the tea on Tuesday do not have to register again and there will be no registration fee.

Today at 5:30 p. m. all rushees will meet in the Chapel with Mrs. Arney Childs, Dean of Women, who will explain any questions about the rushing procedure.

Routine teas, which each girl must attend to be eligible to join a sorority, will begin Monday, October 2, and last through Friday, October 6. The purpose of these teas is to enable each girl to visit every sorority on the campus, and to give the sororities an opportunity to meet all girls participating in rush week. Group numbers, which will be kept throughout these teas will be posted on the bulletin board in Maxcy lobby Saturday, September 30, and will show each girl the time and place of every routine tea she is to attend.

Preferential parties to which rushees go by invitation are on October 10, 11, and 12 from 6:30 to 9:30 p. m. On Friday, October 13, rushees must go to Dean Child's office before 12 noon and fill out preference cards on which they will list the sororities of their preference according to first, second, and third choice. If a coed is undecided as to her sorority preference there will be a place on the cards where she may designate so.

From now until the end of rush week sorority girls and rushees are not allowed to talk to one another unless they are in a class where it is necessary, and on Saturday, October 14, rushees will not be allowed to talk among themselves. From the beginning of rush week rushees will not be allowed to talk to male students. According to rush rules, any girl violating these rules will be dropped from the fall rushing list, and sororities violating rules will receive the same penalty.

R. Glenn Bell, director of the 'Y' activities at Carolina, is critically ill in the Columbia hospital as a result of a heart attack Saturday afternoon. The hospital reported that Mr. Bell's condition was slightly better than it had been a few days ago.

Garnet and Black Announces Editors

New members for the Garnet and Black staff were signed up at a meeting held September 25, editor Suzanne Moye has reported.

Editors met with Mr. Edward O'Caïn of R. L. Bryan Printing Co. on September 26 to discuss plans for the 1951 yearbook. The "dummy" was constructed this past summer and was received by the staff at the Tuesday meeting. For the first time in five years, plans are underway to have the book entered in competition for an All-American rating.

While a gloating Gamecock looks on from the right, "dat ole Blue Debbil" (Shorty Hilliard) is administered a treatment of shocking justice by members of the electrical, chemical, civil, and mechanical engineering societies. It's all part of a stunt presented during half-time at last Saturday's football game between the Gamecocks and Blue Devils of Duke. In the skit the engineers managed to electrocute the Devil, but in the ball game, Duke scored in the first and third quarters to defeat the Birds 14-0. (USC Photo by Munn-Teal)

Prof. Bentrup Attends Meeting In North Carolina

W. C. Bentrup, director of the school of social work, will be in Raleigh, N. C., October 11 to take part in the North Carolina Public Welfare institute.

There will be a panel discussion with the overall title, "Institutions and Other Group Care for Adults." Mr. Bentrup will speak on "The Place of Institutions and Other Group Care in Providing Service for Adults."

The institute will be attended by persons in various public agencies in North Carolina and faculty and members from schools of social work in North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Mr. Bentrup said that these meetings are being held generally throughout the United States today because of the increasing proportion of the population falling into aged groups.

"Frequently they are without families," he said, "and there is considerable discussion for the creation of institutions of various kinds for them. The big problem, however, is to keep from re-creating the old 'poor house.' Institutions should be specifically planned to provide the services necessary to meet the requirements of aged and chronically ill people," Mr. Bentrup emphasized.

On Thursday, October 19, Mr. Bentrup will be on the program of the southeastern regular meeting of the American Public Welfare association at Old Point Comfort, Fort Monroe, Va.

He will take part in a session entitled, "A Decade of Merit System Experience in Public Welfare." Mr. Bentrup will be one of two speakers and will talk on "How Merit Systems have Influenced Training for Public Welfare."

"This is the tenth anniversary of the establishment of the merit system in departments of welfare in the United States, and this particular program will attempt to evaluate the results," Mr. Bentrup concluded.

The other principal speaker will be Miss Robbie Lou Fitzgerald, personnel supervisor of the Tennessee department of public welfare at Nashville.

Open House At Clariosophic Hall Tuesday

Clariosophic literary society will hold open house next Tuesday night.

The motion was made at this week's meeting to invite all persons interested in debating or other types of public speaking to attend the next meeting of the society. Freshmen are especially invited to attend.

Subject of the debate for next week will concern the question, "Should hazing be permitted on the Carolina campus."

Members of the organization discussed problems relating to the decoration of their hall which has recently been renovated and turned over to the society at this week's meeting.

"All persons interested in joining the Clariosophic society should attend the meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Clariosophic hall on the third floor of Legare college," Ingram said.

Vogue Press Prints Intramural Sports Book For University

A new booklet has recently been published by Vogue Press for the athletic department. It is devoted to coverage of intramural sports at the university.

Included in the 25-page booklet are messages by Norman M. Smith, president; Rex Enright, athletic director; and rules and regulations concerning the various sports. These rules were drawn up or adapted by the intramural staff led by Joe Grugan, athletic instructor. Other staff members are Billy Davis, Brooks Harrison and George Fair.

Major sports covered by the program are football, basketball, and softball, and the minor sports include volleyball, track, swimming, foul shooting, boxing, badminton, tennis, golf, handball and bowling.

Attention, Sophomores
There will be a meeting of the sophomore class Monday at 10 a. m. in the chapel. At this meeting plans will be made for "Rat Week." All interested sophomores should come prepared to make suggestions.

Euphradian Soc. Discusses Hazing At First Meeting

By BILL NOVIT

"Resolved: That hazing of all Carolina freshmen should be a standard practice," was the topic of discussion at the Euphradian Society smoker and meeting last Tuesday night.

The body appeared to be in favor of ridding, which is a mild form of hazing — but not actual hazing, which is in violation of a state law. The consensus was that the practice of giving haircuts should definitely be abolished.

Louis Colbus, transfer student from Pennsylvania State college, said, "Hazing is an excellent practice because it gives the new student an opportunity to meet and become acquainted with old students."

The opposition was led by Arthur Rosenblum and Louis Merritt, both of whom saw no practical purpose which hazing served. Merritt also said that hazing often does permanent physical damage to a student.

Before the discussion, past president William Seals presented a review of what the Euphradian Society is for the benefit of the new students who were present. He said that the society has done more to give him self-confidence than any other organization on the campus.

The society accepted the resignation of its vice-president, Harvey Golden, who has entered the armed forces. A successor will be named at the next meeting, which will be held in the Euphradian hall Tuesday at 7 p. m. Party leaders and whips will also be elected.

Law Quarterly Elects New Staff Members

Publication officers for the "South Carolina Law Quarterly" were chosen in an election held at New Petigru on September 22, according to a report by Arthur Rosenblum, editor of the magazine.

The newly elected staff members are Benjamin Goldberg, note editor; John Cumbee, case editor; Billy Duncan, book review; Robert Schumpert, business manager; Buck Grant, ass't. business manager; Douglas Lipscomb, advertising manager; and Wallace Dickson, circulation manager.

Dr. Durant Speaks Today At 10 O'clock

Dr. Will Durant, historian and philosopher, will speak in the field house this morning at 10 o'clock. He will be the first of a series of monthly speakers presented by the university and arranged by a committee of faculty members and students.

Doctor Durant was born at North Adams, Mass., in 1885, of French Canadian parentage. He received his formal education in the parochial schools of that city; St. Peter's college, Jersey City, N. J.; and Columbia university where he received the doctor of philosophy degree in 1917.

Doctor Durant worked as a cub reporter with the "New York Journal" during the summer of 1907, and taught Latin, Greek, French and English at Seton Hall college for four years. While doing graduate study at Columbia university, he specialized in biology and philosophy. He taught philosophy at Columbia one year.

In 1914 he began, in a Presby-

Film Society Shows Movie Monday Night

"Topper Takes a Trip," starring Roland Young and Constance Bennett, will be shown at 8 p. m., Monday, in Drayton hall. This will be the first of a series of movies sponsored this fall by the university film society. Season tickets are on sale now for this and the following movies, which will be shown every Monday.

On October 9, "The Tawney Pipit," an English release, will be shown, followed by "Freida," a post-war German film, on October 16; "Don Q, Son of Zorro," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., October 23; "The Love Parade," with Maurice Chevalier, October 30; "Ivan the Terrible," a Russian release, November 6; "The Overlanders," an English film about Australian shepherds, November 13; "The Grand Illusion," a French picture, November 20; "The Brothers," an English release, November 27. The movie scheduled for December 4 will be announced later.

The officers of the society are Jane Brooks Marshall, president; J. Donald Dial, vice-president; Mrs. Smith Harrison, Jr., secretary; and Dr. Robert D. Ochs, treasurer.

The advisory board members are Prof. W. H. Patterson, Prof. A. R. Lewis, W. M. Bray, Prof. R. M. Stephan, Mrs. Elizabeth Belser, Prof. Daniel W. Hollis, and H. Thomas Walker.

The society was organized four years ago with the help of an English exchange student, George Curry, who realized that films being produced in England were not being shown in the United States. The objective of the society is to bring outstanding films to Columbia. "Hamlet," "Henry V," and "The Red Shoes" are among films the society has helped bring to Columbia in the past.

The society meets each Monday just before the movie is shown.

Churches To Hold World Communion

All Columbia churches will participate in a world communion service Sunday, October 1.

This custom came about after the first World War when there was felt a need for all churches to celebrate Holy Communion together. Loyalty Day, which is the first Sunday in October, was chosen for this occasion.

All students are urged to attend the church of their choice and participate in the world-wide communion this Sunday.

Blue Key Dance Set For October 18

Blue Key, honorary fraternity, will sponsor the annual Carolina-Clemson dance, to be held October 18, Grady Decell, president, has announced.

Decell, said that Blue Key is working on this and other similar projects in an effort to establish better relations between the students of the university and Clemson.

Blue Key will also sponsor publication of the university directory. This publication will contain the names and addresses of members of the student body, the faculty, and college organizations.

terian church in New York, to lecture on philosophy, literature, science, music, economics, biology and history.

"The Story of Philosophy," the first of five books published by Doctor Durant, appeared in 1926. "Our Oriental Heritage," "The Life of Greece," "Caesar and Cleopatra," and "The Age of Faith" have been published since.

Doctor Durant has said that he expects to publish "The Renaissance and Reformation," in 1955 and "The Age of Reason," in 1960.

Other speakers scheduled to appear at the university are: Romney Wheeler, former chief diplomatic correspondent for the Associated Press, London bureau, on October 13; Louis Untermeyer, editor, anthologist, critic and lecturer, on November 10; Hodding Carter, southern editor, on December 15; and Dr. Franz Polgar, Hungarian hypnotist, on January 10, 1951.

Malcolm D. Coe Joins Journalism School Faculty

Malcolm Donald Coe, of New Haven, Conn., has joined the faculty as an adjunct professor of journalism.

Professor Coe received the bachelor of journalism and the master of arts degrees from the University of Missouri. He also attended the University of Connecticut, and taught at the University of Alabama before coming to Carolina. His newspaper experience includes three years as a police reporter with a New Haven daily.

During World War II, Professor Coe served as a public information officer with the United States army. He is married and has a small son.
