Campbell Chosen As President Of State 'Y' Retreat

Madelyn Campbell, of Columbia, a rising senior at the university, was elected president of the state Camp Long retreat held from April 4 to 6.

Other officers are: James Callahan, Clemson College, vice-president; Jimmy Audrey, The Citadel, secretary; and Mary Huggins, Winthrop College, treasurer.

Other students attending from the university were: Jeannette Beasley, Glenn Bell, Bentley Rivers, Libby Mahaffey, Jane Kirk, George Couch, M. F. Stough and Sarette Flake. Faculty members from the university were Chaplain L. E. Brubaker and Harry Jenkins, of the school of journalism.

Chaplain Brubaker held the communion service on Sunday morning and Professor Jenkins led a forum on "God in my Vocation." Also present from the university 'Y' were Ted Leden, director; Marie Edwards, and Jim Leiby.

The retreat was planned by Jeannette Beasley, Carolina; Burns Nesbit, Wofford College; Donny Crouch, Clemson College; and John Stanley, also of Clemson.

Another Camp Long retreat will be held in the fall for students from the state-wide 'Y' groups.

Gurney Trying For Olympics

Emmett Gurney, outstanding Gamecock pugilist, still has a chance to make the U. S. Olympic Boxing team.

The University Air Force ROTC unit is sending Gurney to represent it at the national AAU semi-finals, which will be held at San Antonio, Texas, on May 22-23. The unit is also sending Coach Jess Alderman to accompany Gurney.

Gurney qualified by receiving a direct invitation of the chairman of the Olympic tryout committee. If he wins the National AAU title, he will meet the national NCAA champion in his weight class, and the winner will go to the Olympics.

Gurney recently was named the outstanding boxer in the Southern Invitational Boxing tourney and last week reached the semi-finals of the NCAA tournament before being beaten in a split decision.

Guy Nichols of Florence is heading the ROTC student committee which is making all arrangements. Other members are Stanley Hamilton, Bob Jernigan, Gene Witt, and Bill Novit.

Campus Crowns Horrible Stream As USC's Ugliest

Ronnie Stroom, Phi Epsilon Pi candidate, was crowned the ugliest man on the Carolina campus at the Ugly Man Dance held at the Naval Armory last Friday night under the auspices of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity.

Runners-up in the Ugly Man Contest were "Rabbit" Hare, Pi Kappa Phi candidate, with $39.30, and Rondel Tarte, Lambda Chi Alpha candidate, with $36.50, as compared to $45.34, for "No Dream Stream."

Pat Matheson, homecoming queen for 1951, crowned Stroom, and presented him with an authentic Ugly Man Key and a scroll engraved by Jim Simms with the winner's name and that of the organization which backed him.

Dalton Stokes, dance chairman, acted as master of ceremonies and introduced Al Lane, president of Alpha Phi Omega.

A total of $170 was put into the jars during the three days of voting. This money will be contributed to the World Student Service Fund and will be used to help provide educational facilities for war devastated areas.

Clarence Braxell's orchestra provided the music for the dance which ended the first Ugly Man Contest on the Carolina campus. Members of Alpha Phi Omega are now beginning plans for next year's contest.

POST OFFICE

Joe M. Lawrence, university postmaster, has announced that the post office will be closed Friday and Saturday, in accordance with the Easter holidays of the University. Regular post office service will be resumed Monday, April 14, at 10 a. m.

Placement Bureau To Hold Interviews

The Placement Bureau has scheduled three interviews for April 17 and 18.

On Thursday, April 17, a representative of the Mathison Chemical Company, will meet interested students in room 117, Hamilton college, at 10 a. m. The Liberty Mutual Insurance Company will have a representative on the campus on Friday, April 18. A group meeting will be held in room 24, McCutchen House, at 10 a. m.

The Charles T. Main Company, which is interested in engineering seniors, will have a representative in room 117, Hamilton, at 10 a. m., April 18, for interviews.

Seniors can make appointments for individual conferences with the various representatives instead of attending the group meetings.

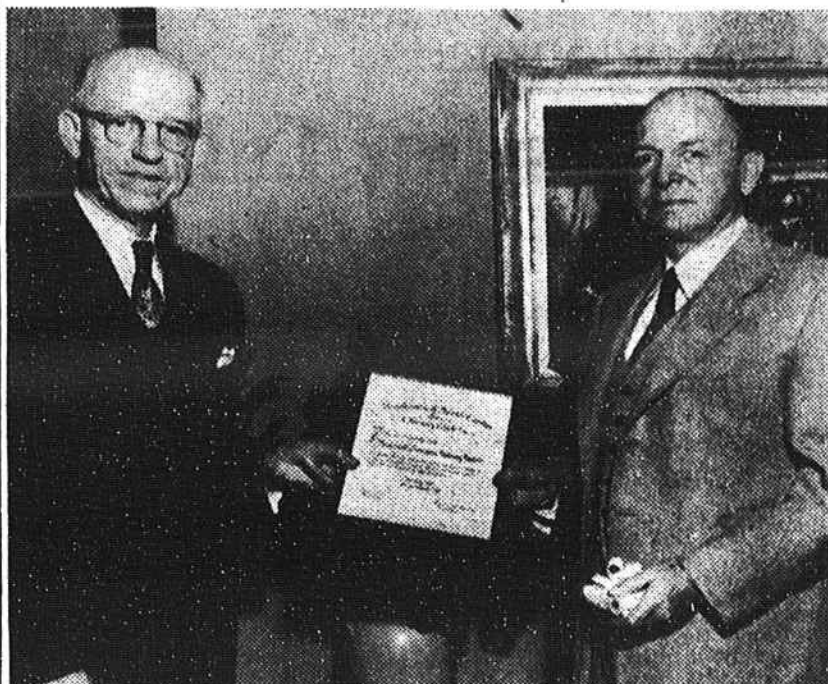

Two companies have also offered summer jobs to junior students. The Deering-Milliken Cotton Mills, located at various places throughout the state, and the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, which has plants in northern cities, will hire students through the University Placement Bureau, reports Basil M. Parks, director of placement.

Campus Election Results

Bland To Be May Queen

Allene Bland was selected to reign over the beauty court as May Queen. She defeated her two opponents, Adele Allston and Barbara Fowler on the first ballot. Barbara Fowler, with the second highest number of votes, will serve as Maid of Honor to the Queen.

May Day festivities will begin Thursday morning, May 1, with the annual awards and the clean-up program. Thursday afternoon the queen and her court will take over McKissick library's lawn with the annual May Day procession.

Elliott Lawrence, nationally known bandleader, will come to the campus the night of May 1 and provide the music for the May Day dance. The dance, planned by Student Council, will be open to all students. Permission has been obtained from Admiral Smith for the dance to be held on a weekday night. The ball will be in honor of Miss Bland and her court.

Throw Pies At Your Professors May 1

Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity will sponsor their First Annual Pie Throwing contest on May 1, announced co-chairmen Bill Novit and Phil Garfinkel. All profits will go to the ODK Scholarship fund.

Students may bid against each other to determine which will be the target of the pie, which will be thrown from a distance of three feet by the high bidder.

Ten professors have already volunteered to be on the receiving end. Bidding on professors will be $1 at $1.

Geology Dept. Reveals Openings

The University of South Carolina Geology Department has received a request from the Geology Department Service Company of Abilene Texas, reveals openings for graduates in geology. Spring term male graduates are needed for work in New Mexico, Wyoming, North Dakota, Montana, Colorado, Texas, and in foreign countries.

Women are desired for employment in offices, for map work, reports, drafting, and stenographic work.

Persons interested in these positions should submit college transcripts, a photograph, a detailed letter of application, marital status, age, and health condition to Geology Service Company, 230 White Building, Abilene, Texas.

Nine Students Tapped By Blue Key Fraternity

Nine students at the university have been tapped by the campus chapter of Blue Key, national men's honorary fraternity.

The boys chosen are: Frank Boensch, Mt. Pleasant; Joe Bull, Georgetown; Melvin Burton, Columbia; Andy Gary, Columbia; Ralph Gregory, Aiken; Victor Laurie, Columbia; Isadore Lourie, Columbia; Bentley Rivers, Columbia; and Buddy Whitaker, Camden.

Blue Key members served as guides and worked on the various student committees at the Vocational Guidance Day for high school seniors held on the campus on Saturday, April 5.

A large wooden standard with the Blue Key emblem is placed on the horseshoe with the names of the chosen students so everyone will know the new Blue Key members.

Downes Speaks Here In Chapel

Olin Downes, America's foremost music critic, will speak in the university chapel on Friday, April 18 at 10 a. m. His lecture will be entitled, "Ideas Behind Music." Musical illustrations for the lecture will be provided by Lenord Eisner, pianist.

Downes was born in Evanston, Illinois. He had his first music lesson at the age of eight. He was regarded as somewhat of a prodigy, playing in numerous recitals and often acting as an accompanist.

In Boston, he studied piano under Dr. Louis Kelterborn, studying such modern composers as Franck and Debussy as well as the older classics. Kelterborn recommended him as a disciple to Carl Baermann, to develop greater piano technique, but Downes was more curious about music itself than about becoming a virtuoso.

Downes started as a music critic with the "Boston Post." In 1924 he became music critic of the "New York Times," a position he still holds today.

In 1939, Downes was director of music at the New York World's Fair. He is a constant contributor to encyclopedias and national magazines, and he is the author of "Symphonic Broadcasts" and "Symphonic Composers."

Music Department Starts New Course

The university music department will sponsor a three weeks' master class for pianists and teachers from June 9 to 28 to be conducted by Edwin Hughes, New York pianist.

The class will consist of both private and class lessons and principles of interpretation. Tone production and style will be discussed and illustrated. A course in modern technical development will be laid out, including study material.

Edwin Hughes studied, taught and gave concerts in Europe for seven years. He was a pupil of Theodore Leschetizky in Vienna for three years and has been soloist with many important European orchestras, and the New York Philharmonic, the Detroit Symphony, the Kansas City Symphony and has been on numerous tours in solo recitals.

A past president of the Music Teachers National Association and the first president of the National Music Council, Mr. Hughes received a citation "for patriotic service" from the War and Navy Departments for work in music during World War II.

First Voting Fills Offices

Monday morning's first balloting for campus officers made several of the elections certain without a necessary run-off.

Honor Board seats went to Dolly Dennis of Charleston for the school of business administration; to Charles Davis of Saluca, Ala., for the school of journalism; and to Betty Jean Wood of Johnston for the school of pharmacy. Honor Board electees serve throughout the rest of their time at the university.

Student Council positions went to Jackie Southerland of Decatur, Ga., from the school of journalism; to William Penn of Little Rock, Ark., and Harold Norman of Columbia, from the school of engineering; to Esther LaBruce of Columbia and Buddy Derrick of Greenville from the school of business administration, and to Libby Lewis of Whitmire, Madelyn Campbell of Columbia, Pat Davis of Georgetown, and Jane Marshall of Anderson, from the school of education. Student Council positions are held for one school year.

Run-offs for the remaining campus offices had not been held when the Gamecock went to press.

AROTC Unit Gives 100 Pints Of Blood

More than 100 pints of blood were donated recently by members of the Air Force ROTC unit when the Bloodmobile was on the State House grounds, announced Cadet Col. Robert Blackmon.

The cadets had marched, accompanied by the color guard and band, in formation from Davis Field, where they had assembled, and down Sumter street to the Capitol.

Gov. James F. Byrnes greeted the cadets and commended them for their "fine showing."

Anthropology Dept Sponsors Speaker

"Anthropology in the Modern World," will be the topic discussed by Dr. Ralph Linton on Monday, April 21, at 10 a. m. in the Chapel, sponsored by the university anthropology department.

Dr. Linton, Sterling professor of anthropology in Yale University and in the Institute of Human Relations is considered one of the greatest American anthropologists and scholars. He was born in Philadelphia in 1893, and received his undergraduate degree at Swarthmore. He obtained graduate degrees from Pennsylvania, Columbia, Harvard and Yale and has a star listing in American Men of Science.

He is one of the world's leading authorities on the South Pacific and has been on expeditions to the Marquesas, Tuamotus, Society Islands, and is an authority on Madagascar. He has been editor of American Anthropologist and Viking Fund Anthropological Papers, a member of the National Research Council and Social Science Council and a fellow of the Royal Anthropological Institute of Great Britain.

He has been curator in the Bernice P. Bishop Museum, in Honolulu, and the field (Chicago Natural History Museum) and the University of Pennsylvania Museum. An anthropology professor also, he has taught at the University of Wisconsin, Columbia University and Yale.
