

Geer Drug Establishes 12 Awards

Geer Drug Company of South Carolina has established twelve scholarships in the School of Pharmacy at the University, according to Acting Dean Robert W. Morrison.

The scholarships were awarded to William Paul Melton of Winnsboro, George William Morrow of Edgefield, and Alfred D. Parker, Jr. of Pacolet Mills, seniors.

Also, John Evans Brantley of Chester, Joe Bernard Meek of Hickory Grove and Sloan James Satterfield of Walhalla, juniors.

Also, Julian Fincher of Union, George Gregory of Aiken, William Wansley of Columbia, sophomores; and Charles Bedell Metz of Lexington, Harold Roger Price of Aiken and Walter Smith of Camden, freshmen.

Awards amount to $200 each academic year provided the recipients maintain the necessary academic standards. The awards will continue until the recipients complete the full course leading to a degree of Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy.

The awarding committee which selected the twelve candidates was composed of Dean Morrison, University President Donald Russell and Edward Murray of Charleston, past president of the South Carolina Pharmaceutical Association.

Geer Drug Company, of which B. Owen Geer of Charleston is president, has established the new scholarships to enable worthy young men to prepare themselves as pharmacists.

Annual awards will be made to three men in each of the four college classes. Incoming freshmen will be selected to replace the graduating seniors, to keep the total number of scholarships at twelve. These awards are available to South Carolinians only.

'Y' Handbook Offers New Outlook For '56

The "Carolina Handbook," a publication of the "Y" for new students, has a completely different outlook this year. The handbook is devoted exclusively to information about the "Y" and the religious groups of the campus.

The reason for the change is the different role of the handbook. Previously "The Carolina Community," the official handbook of the University, and the "Carolina Handbook" worked in conjunction in telling students about the professional fraternities, forensic societies, intramurals, and other student organizations. "The Carolina Community" has now taken over these phases of student life in addition to containing information about University rules and regulations.

New students do not receive a copy of "The Carolina Community" until after they arrive at school. "The Carolina Handbook," however, is sent to all new students as soon as they are accepted at the University.

This year's "Carolina Handbook" in addition to telling about the campus religious groups, also contains information about Religious Emphasis Week and the "Y." There were also special articles for the freshmen new students on what to do before leaving home, when arriving at school and during registration. The freshmen are also told what was expected of them as a class and given helpful hints for college life.

Bertha Gardner and Bob Freeman were editors of the handbook. University Chaplain L. E. Brubaker and Ted Ledeen were advisors for the manual.

Seen, Heard, Spoken ON CAMPUS

Truck bearing sign, "black oil," backed up to the rear of swimming pool, apparently unloading.

Students crossing Horseshoe, dodging and darting from quicker and unpredictable new sprinklers. Several people who couldn't, getting wet.

English professor claiming that he recently added balconies to his personal library for the purpose of making dramatic entrances.

Baby stroller parked alongside a wheelbarrow on sidewalk in front of Sims dormitory.

Old friends meeting each other for the first time this fall failing to remember the names of each other.

Euphradians Set Meeting

A rush smoker and the regular meeting of the Euphradian Literary Society will be held at 7 p. m. Tuesday in Harper College.

All male students of the University are invited. Officers for the fall semester are Robert Bell, president; Hillier Rudsill, president pro tempore; Thomas Blakemore, secretary; and Fred LeClerq, critic. Also, Ken Sturgeon, treasurer; David White, custus foxum; Robert Freeman, historian; and Edward Prettyman, corresponding secretary.

Also, Howard Bradley, financial secretary, and Francis Moise, reporter. The Euphradian Literary Society was founded in 1806. Its primary purpose is to discuss and debate important issues according to parliamentary procedure.

Foxworth, Watson Win Scholarships

The Beaufort Watts Ball Scholarship of $100 was recently presented to John E. Foxworth. William F. Watson was the recipient of the $300 J. Rion McKissick Scholarship.

The Ball scholarship is based on academic work.

The McKissick scholarship is presented annually to a student beginning his studies in the School of Journalism.
