Debaters Seek Win At Auburn Meet

The University debate team is participating in the Ninth Annual Tau Kappa Alpha debate tournament this week end at Alabama Polytechnic Institute (Auburn), Auburn, Ala. According to Dr. M. G. Christophersen, the team is looking for another win to follow last week's victories in debate. The University team defeated 17 other colleges and universities competing in the Carolina Forensics held here.

Members of the debate squad making up this week's team from the University are Fred LeClerc and Pete Martin, affirmative; and Stewart Clare and Peggy Jo Sasser, negative.

Subject for debate is: Resolved: That the U. S. should discontinue direct economic aid to foreign countries.

Approximately 15 teams are participating in the tournament at Auburn. Dr. Christophersen named the Universities of Florida, Alabama, Duke, Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Mississippi and Louisiana State; Memphis State College and Mississippi Southern.

Participating in last week's tournament were Fred LeClerc and Robert Bell, affirmative; and Stewart Clare and Pete Martin, negative.

Both teams went through six rounds of debate without a defeat, according to Dr. Christophersen.

In addition, Fred LeClerc won first place in extemporaneous speaking and second in impromptu.

First place team award went to the University of Florida negative team last week. The South Carolina team declined all trophies since it was host to the tournament.

Individual winners in the tournament went to Roger Martinson, University of Georgia, first; Joe Schwartz, University of Florida, second; and Steve Slepik, Miami, third.

AKG Tapping, Song Fest Set December 13

An all-sorority Song Fest will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 13, in Drayton Hall after which Alpha Kappa Gamma, honorary leadership sorority for women, will hold its annual fall tapping, according to Carol Knight, secretary of the organization.

Fraternity Song Fest will not be held this semester, AKG reports. In previous years, participation in Fraternity Song Fest has been poor and indications show that the fraternities do not wish to take part in the event this semester.

Rules for Song Fest are:

1. Song titles must be sent to Carol Brandenburg, Box 494, or Neil Reid, Box 3463 by Monday, Nov. 12.
2. No groups may sing over two songs. If any group wishes to sing three songs, two of them must be a medley.
3. There will be no solos. No small groups may sing a complete verse of any song alone. (Ten or less is considered to be a small group.)
4. Girls must wear black skirts and white blouses.
5. No props may be used. Steps will be furnished by AKG.
6. No backdrops may be used.
7. No accompaniment except the piano, which will be furnished by AKG, will be used.
8. All participants must pay the $5.00 admission fee.
9. All participants must be members of the groups they represent. No alumni or professionals may participate.
10. Each sorority must have one member to pull the curtain for its group.
11. There will be a fine for dropping out of the Fest after the sorority has signed for participation.

Festivities Start For Homecoming

By Bill Black
Staff Writer

Carolina's first all-campus Homecoming Dance tonight at the Memorial Youth Center will climax a full day's activities in preparation for the annual Homecoming celebration. The dance, which features the music of Hal MacIntyre and his orchestra, will begin at 9 p.m., according to announcement received late yesterday from Virgil Duffie, Jr., Homecoming Program committee chairman. Disclosure of this year's Homecoming Queen will be made at the dance.

First on the agenda is a parade scheduled at 4 p.m. this afternoon which will include floats, convertibles, old-model automobiles, and a multitude of Carolina students and supporters for tomorrow's ACC clash with Maryland at the football stadium. The three homecoming queen finalists will ride on the floats, while the runners-up will ride in convertibles. Old model automobiles will be driven by alumni of Carolina, representing the year they graduated by the year of the make of the auto they drive.

Women's Dorms Off Limits To USC Males

The city block which surrounds the women's dorms has been made off limits for men after 11 p.m., according to a new University rule released this week.

A memorandum sent by Dean of Women Arney R. Childs and Dean of Men James T. Penney to Dr. Patterson contained the rule which reads: "Beginning immediately the quadrangle bounded by Green, Pickens, Bull, and Devine streets is off limits for men after 11 o'clock at night. Students returning from dates after that hour must identify themselves on request by showing an ID card. Both campus and city police have been authorized to carry out this regulation."

"Because we continue to have trouble with men prowlers after hours, we thought it necessary to take some action," Dr. Patterson said.

He said that one prowler who was not a student has been caught in the girls' dormitory area this semester.

It was announced that both campus and city police have been authorized to enforce this regulation.

Additional lights are being added to the area, and a fence was erected between a wall and freshman dorms on Bull Street.

Society Says Do Not Mix S. C. Schools

The Euphradian Society went on record Tuesday night as being opposed to the "integration of South Carolina schools," after a spontaneous motion to that effect was introduced on the floor by Charles Davis.

Since no discussion preceded the voting, the Euphradians will debate the issue formally during its Senate session Tuesday, Nov. 20, when the topic will read: Resolved, "Integration of South Carolina Colleges should be effective by the fall of 1957."

While the liberal party will defend the affirmative, a number of liberal senators have indicated that they might switch to the conservative faction, according to Carl Reynolds, program chairman.

Parliamentary debate during Tuesday's senate session concerned the present world crisis, as the liberals urged that the United States increase its military power in view of world tension, in the Middle East.

So controversial was the debate that several visitors gained the floor to express their views on the subject, which was won by the liberal wing, Reynolds reported.

Class Rings May Be Purchased At Bookstore, Balfour's, Sylvan's

Class rings may now be bought by candidates for degrees at the Campus Bookstore in Russell House, Balfour Jewelers or at Sylvan Jewelers in Columbia.

The Gamecock of Oct. 19 erroneously implied that the Bookstore was the only place at which rings could be bought. Both Balfour's and Sylvan's are recognized by the school as official sellers of the class rings.

Students desiring rings must first obtain a certificate of entitlement from the office of the registrar. The approval must be presented when the ring is being bought or ordered. The bookstore has the B.S. rings in stock. Other rings may be ordered after a deposit of $5 has been made. The Bookstore fills all orders in about nine weeks.

Balfour's has both the A.B. and B.S. degree rings in stock in every size for men.

They also have women's rings in almost every size and delivery on orders is made in seven weeks at the maximum.

Rings at the Bookstore sell at $27.12 for male students and $23.73 for women. Prices include all taxes.

At Balfour's male rings in regular weight are $26.90 and women's rings sell for $19.75, tax included.

Sylvan's also carries a large selection of rings in stock. During the past two years the construction of the rings has been considerably improved so the date and degree of the ring can be more easily read and the seal of the school has more protection.

The stores also carry in stock or can order rings for the Air Force and the Naval ROTC units.

The stores will engrave some initialing in the rings free of charge.

Advertise In "Gamecock"

Do you need a date? Want to sell one of your old books? Need a ride home on the week end? Have you lost or found something and don't know how to find the finder or loser?

Then advertise. For a small fee you can place a want ad in The Gamecock. Place your ads in The Gamecock office, Room 208, Russell House, by Tuesday of each week. Due to Thanksgiving holidays next week, want ads will have to be in by next Monday night.

Money Lost In Machines From Abuse

Abuse of vending machines is the primary cause of money lost by students in the machines, according to a report from the committee appointed by student council to deal with complaints.

The report resulted from a meeting of the signers of a letter to the editor which appeared in a recent issue of The Gamecock, with student body vice-president Alan Davis and Ben Fowler, who is in charge of the machines on campus.

A cycle has developed from loss of money in machines and abuse of machines by irate students, Davis reported to student council Monday. Certain students who lost money have taken out their wrath on the machines by various manner or means. As a result of these vindictive measures, other innocent students lose money, he said.

Fowler assured student council that his office will compensate any student for money lost. The student must notify Fowler as to which machine he lost the money in and the approximate time of the loss.

Severe disciplinary action will be taken in regard to students caught tampering with machines, Davis said. He urged every Carolina student to report violations.

Fowler and the vending company's engineer will, in the near future, check all machines
