Chi Psi Fraternity has initiated the study course "The Man and His College" for its pledge class.

The course, which meets weekly and is held in addition to the regular pledge training and required study halls, is being conducted by Dr. Daniel W. Hollis of the History Department.

Dr. Hollis will cover such topics as "The History of the University," "How to Choose subjects," and "Proper Methods of Study."

He expects to have Dr. Eugene Murphy of the Modern Languages Department to explain how to study for languages and humanities, Dr. John Kice of the Chemistry Department to explain how to study for pure science and University Librarian Alired Rawlinson to present details on the use of the library.

Dr. Hollis himself will devote one session to explaining how to study for social sciences.

LeConte Society To Hear Flinsch

Dr. Harold Flinsch of the University School of Engineering will speak at the regular meeting of the LeConte Scientific Society, at 8 p.m., Thursday, November 14, in Room 210 of LeConte College. His topic will be "Waves and Beaches."

Dr. Flinsch holds degrees from the Institute of Technology, Munich, Austria and from the University of Minnesota. He has engaged in the engineering field in Germany and this country, and has held various teaching assignments and research appointments in the United States.

He was Dean of the School of Engineering at Mississippi State College prior to his appointment as Professor of Civil Engineering and chairman of the division here at the University.

The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Southern people." Destino went on to say that he wished he had 10 more college years to spend at Carolina.

Destino has a high opinion of Coach Giese and also gives a lot of credit to Coach Marvin Bass. "Coach Bass has changed a lot of my thinking about the game and has inspired me more than any other person."

Incidentally, Frank's brother Alec was also a fine football player at Gloucester High and made almost every all-star team around.

Destino, 5'10", 190 lb., is majoring in elementary education. He would like to play pro football after graduation, and he has had several "feelers" from professional teams. After that, he is thinking of opening a spaghetti house.

Frank's biggest thrill in college football came in last year's 7-0 victory over Duke, when he broke up an attempted Duke pass near the goal line.

Frank likes spaghetti and meatballs and his hobby is playing the uke and singing.

EMBARK FOR NEW YORK

Five University students appeared to have mixed emotions as they prepared to board a transcontinental airliner at Columbia Airport last Wednesday. The group is attending the Associated Collegiate Press Convention at the Hotel New Yorker in New York City. They are, pictured prior to take-off Wednesday (left to right), Jim Fuller, GARNET AND BLACK editor; Jim Hicks, GARNET AND BLACK business manager; Roy Williams, managing editor of THE GAMECOCK; Edith Bulluck, THE GAMECOCK business manager; and Coles Cathart, managing editor of the GARNET AND BLACK. Mr. Hicks will participate on a panel discussion and will speak on the topic "The Activity Fee." Melba Corley, editor of THE GAMECOCK, was also scheduled to appear on the discussion, however, she was hospitalized with influenza earlier in the week and did not make the trip. She will be replaced on the panel by Williams who will discuss "Editors' Problems." The convention began Thursday and will terminate tomorrow. (Photo by Ken Sturgeon.)

Hollis' Book On USC Is Praised In Reviews

By Billy Mishoe
Staff Writer

The "Saturday Review of Literature" recently published a review of Dr. Daniel Walker Hollis' book, "College to University, Volume II." This book continues the history of the university from 1865 to 1956.

The account in "Saturday Review" states that "in the second and concluding volume, Professor Hollis covers the turbulent years from 1865 to 1956, during which the university was reorganized six times and, in Reconstruction days, became the only Southern university attended by both Negro and white students."

It added that "Throughout, Professor Hollis' approach is one of critical open-mindedness; the result is a superior university history."

Favorable reviews were also given the book in other publications. "The Georgia Historical Quarterly" stated: "At the outset it should be said that this is a distinguished work, written by a thoroughly competent scholar in an interesting and readable style. It is not cluttered up with a mass of meaningless details, but nevertheless it does contain a great deal of factual material, but so woven together and so interpreted as to make an unusually readable narrative."

"The Journal of Southern History" also reviewed the book and included the following comments: "In telling the story of the university, Professor Hollis has, as in his first volume, related the history of the state also. His background and training as a historian have given him a valuable perspective on his complicated materials, and although his story is dramatic he has told it objec-tively and judiciously.

"There is no chauvinism in his assessment of the conservatism of his state, sometimes expressed in the social snobbery of its post-bellum students, and sometimes in the faculty's unwillingness to broaden the classical curriculum. But there is genuine appreciation for the true value of tradition and a sense of its continuity in the century and a half of the university's existence." This review closes by saying that "This is a competent history, one of the best histories of a state university yet to appear."

Student Union To Present Movie

The Student Union Committee will present the movie "Song to Remember" for Carolina students in the Russell House Assembly Room, at 7 p.m. Thursday.

The movie is in color and stars Paul Muni, Cornel Wilde, Marle Oberon and Nina Foch. It is recognized as one of the truly great screen dramas of all time, recreating Chopin's immortal music amid a setting of nineteenth-century Europe.

WUSC Broadcasts Biography of Kaye

"The Prince of Clowns," a radio biography of comedian Danny Kaye, will be presented by WUSC, the campus station, at four this Sunday afternoon.

The program is one of the "Biography in Sounds" series produced by NBC. It is narrated by Walter O'Keefe.

"Prince of Clowns" tells the life story of Danny Kaye and relates anecdotes from the experiences of one of America's favorite funny-men.

Other programs in this series include the life histories of Alben W. Barkley and Theodore Roosevelt. This Sunday's program will be heard from 4 o'clock to 5 p.m. on WUSC, 640 on the radio dial.

Grad Record Examinations Set Dec. 7, 9

The Graduate Record Examination will be Dec. 7 and Dec. 9, Dean W. H. Calcott of the Graduate School has announced.

The examination is required of all students taking master's degree programs at the University. It is an entrance examination for those seeking general credit in the Graduate School and a qualification for admission to candidacy for a master's degree.

Students who fail to take this examination before beginning graduate work will be without faculty guidance, Calcott said.
