

Pleas For Honesty Made By Board

This year it's "Do or Die." The Honor Board is calling upon the student body to revive the Honor System, Boopa Pritchard, honor board chairman, has said. Designed to booster fair play and eliminate cheating, the Honor System has been on shaky foundations for the past few semesters.

The value of such a system has been pointed out to the freshmen during orientation, and old students know from past semesters that the Honor System can be of great help to the spirit of Carolina.

According to the Honor Board eight cases were tried at the end of this past semester. Seven were convicted and one acquitted.

The board also said that if not successful this semester, the Honor System may be eliminated from the campus.

The honor principle was created by the first University class, which asked permission to initiate a procedure whereby the students would take sole responsibility for the punishment of cheaters and establish an atmosphere of honor among all students.

The student who observes an infraction of the honor principle can fulfill his obligation to the system by following any one or a combination of these procedures:

1. Warn the offender at the time of the violation and request a member of the Honor Board to discuss the matter with the offender.

2. Request the offender to report himself to the Honor Council; then inform the council chairman of this action.

3. During a quiz, write out an unsigned statement to be read to the class by the instructor to the effect that cheating has been observed.

For the convenience of the student body the Honor Board members are listed below: Boopa Pritchard, Jo Kirven, Dickie McCants, Charlie Cate, Bill Herring and Bobby Hunt.

Also, David Coates, Johnny Hagins, Vicki Rumph, John Saunders, Archie Hardy, Sue Nettles, Anne Valley, Carolyn Wingate, Bill Crolley, Mike Lacy, and Harold Sturm.

Also, Jane Workman, Lil Mood, Bob Herndon, Buzz Hoagland, Betsy Mills, and Alberto Alvarez. Let's help make the Honor System work.

USC Offers 'Continental Classroom'

An early morning televised chemistry class will enable South Carolinians to earn credits at the University beginning Sept. 28, Dr. Nicholas P. Mitchell announced recently.

Dr. Mitchell, director of the USC Extension Division, said the University will participate in "Continental Classroom" which will be televised by the National Broadcasting Co. and its Columbia affiliate, WIS-TV Channel 10.

The half-hour television classes will begin at 6:30 a.m. daily, Monday through Friday.

The course is "Modern Chemistry" and the instructor is Dr. John F. Baxter, professor of chemistry and head of the General Chemical Division of the University of Florida.

Graduate credit will be given by the University for those who register with the Extension Division for the course and complete its requirements.

The University will give three hours graduate resident credit for the course provided that the students:

1. Register for such credit at the Extension Division and pay the customary fee, $36;

2. Comply with the regular entrance requirements of the University;

3. Attend a three-hour discussion period on the University campus every third Saturday morning, with a member of the USC Department of Chemistry as instructor;

4. Prepare assignments and take examinations as required by the Department of Education which has accepted the course in its teacher's certificate program.

IFC Hop Scheduled Tonight

Orientation of new students will end tonight with a campus-wide dance sponsored by the Interfraternity Council in the Jefferson Hotel from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m., George Leventis, IFC president, has announced.

The dance will be informal, and admission will be $1. The "Hearts" are scheduled to play. Stag girls are welcome.

Orientation Program

The orientation program, which followed YM-YWCA Freshman Camp, began Sunday as the new students arrived on campus. Vespers were held in Rutledge Chapel Sunday night.

Johnny Hagins, senior class president, was orientation committee chairman for student council, and Bobby Hunt, sophomore class president, was freshman week committee chairman.

Faculty Orientation

Faculty orientation took place Monday, followed by a drop-in for the new students at President and Mrs. R. L. Sumwalt's home.

At the drop-in the Sumwalts were officially welcomed to campus by members of the Forty-Niners committee, a group of 59 students organized to promote school spirit.

Bill Bates, chairman of the committee, presented Mrs. Sumwalt with a bouquet of roses from the students.

Student Orientation

Student orientation took place Tuesday and lasted for only one day. About 75 students acted as counselors.

During the day the new students heard speeches by President Sumwalt; Jim Leventis, president of the student body; George Leventis, president of the Interfraternity Council; Boopa Pritchard, chairman of the Honor Board; Johnny Hagins, orientation chairman; Staci Gaffos, YMCA president; and Sue Nettles, YWCA president.

A dance and pep rally followed the student orientation.

Church Night

After registration Wednesday morning and afternoon, campus religious centers had special programs for the new students during their regular Wednesday night meetings.

Last night a student union mixer was held in Russell House. A pep rally is scheduled for tonight, followed by the campus-wide Interfraternity Council dance.

Sunday will be University Day in Columbia churches. Students are invited to assemble in the lobby of Russell House at 9:30 and 11:00 to form groups to go to their preferred churches.

'Gamecock' Staff Meets Today at 3

The Gamecock staff will meet this afternoon at 3 p.m. in Room 208, Russell House, according to Glenna Bryant, editor.

This will be a very important meeting and all business and editorial staff members are urged to be present. Anyone interested in joining the staff is invited to attend this meeting.

Chertok To Head Yearbook

Mike Chertok has been chosen as 1960 editor of the Garnet and Black, Carolina's annual, the Board of Publications has announced. Assistant editor is Sandra Ussery and managing editor is Gene Jones.

Others serving on the staff for the year are Larry Weber, associate editor; Frances Baskin, class editor; Harriet Moorehead, features; and Jo Kirven and Ben Pendarvis, social editors.

Also, Judy Andrews, organizations; Linda Driver, honoraries; Ann Bruner, religious editor; and Kent Anderson, sports editor.

The business staff will be announced at a later date.

Chertok, a senior English major from Spartanburg, has served on the Garnet and Black staff and is vice-president of Blue Key and a member of Kappa Sigma Kappa and Sigma Nu. Sandra, a senior from Columbia, is a member of Kappa Delta, Alpha Kappa Gamma and a cheerleader.

Trust Fund Recognizes R. L. Walker

Recently the University announced its first endowed professorship since the War Between the States.

The trust fund endowment to pay the annual salary of the holder of the new post was set up by former President Donald Russell and Mrs. Russell.

It will be known as the James F. Byrnes Professorship of International Relations in honor of the former Secretary of State, U. S. Justice, Senator, and Governor, now retired.

The first to occupy the post is Richard L. Walker, professor and head of the Department of International Relations.

In addition to the endowed professorship, the trust fund set up by the Russells provides for an annual award to the professor making the greatest contribution to research and a second award to the professor honored for teaching proficiency at the University.

The remaining income provides scholarships for deserving students.

AFTER 9 P.M.

Students Appeal For Noise Rule

In response to an appeal from many dormitory residents, the dormitory presidents will enforce an anti-noise regulation after 9:00 p.m. Any dormitory student reported to the housing office for creating a disturbance after this hour will be denied the privilege of living on campus.

Rooms are to be available for inspection at all times by University officials (accompanied by hostesses in Women's Residence Halls).

Students are responsible for the following rules governing the maintenance of their rooms and the residence halls:

Trash is not to be swept into the halls at any time. It must be deposited in the waste baskets.

These are stenciled for every male student's room on campus. Students are to place the baskets outside their doors between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m. It will be picked up and emptied at 8 a.m. every morning except Sunday and put back. It may not be placed in the hallway except between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m.

Also, beds must be made and belongings in order before attendance of the first morning class.

Requests for building services or repairs are to be made to the manager of residence halls, hostesses in women's halls, or the student hall supervisor and dormitory president.

Custodial personnel will clean rooms periodically, and they are to be permitted entrance for this purpose.

Alcoholic beverages and gambling are not permitted at any time on University property. Other rules and regulations can be found in the "Carolina Community."

The University assumes no responsibility for lost, stolen, or damaged articles belonging to students. Any losses, however, should be reported immediately to the University Chief of Police.

Permission for guests staying in rooms must be obtained from the housing office or hostess. A nominal charge of $1.00 a night will be charged for a guest.

No food, bottled beverages, or bottles of any kind may be kept in rooms.

New Majorette Corps Searches For Name

Attendance, Withdrawal ID Cards Regulations Change

Students are reminded that regulations concerning class attendance have changed from those of last year.

A student is now permitted only four unexcused absences in each course for which he is enrolled, whether it be a basic or higher level course.

The one exception to this regulation is that students with a grade point ratio of 4.0 or a "B" average on all work carried (minimum of 12 semester hours) in the previous regular semester's work at Carolina are allowed voluntary attendance as long as the 75 percent attendance requirement is met.

This is a change from the regulations of last year in that voluntary attendance was allowed all students registered in a higher level course.

Another change of regulation concerns withdrawal from courses. A student is now able to withdraw from a class at any time, whereas previously the last possible date of withdrawal was two weeks after the midpoint of the semester.

Under the new regulation, if a student is passing a course at the time of withdrawal, the grade of "WP" is assigned; if he is failing at the time of withdrawal a grade of "WF" is recorded.

The grade "W" will no longer be given to indicate withdrawal from a course.

More information on the general academic regulations is found on pages 4-16 in the "Carolina Community." All students are expected to know and be responsible for the University regulations set forth in this booklet.

New Library Open House This Sunday

The new Undergraduate Library, winner of a 1959 design citation from the American Institute of Architects, will be open to the public from 3-6 p.m. Sunday during the University's "open house," J. A. Barnes, housing director, has announced.

Wade Hampton College, new women's dormitory, and Russell House will also be open.

New Library

The new library, the first undergraduate library in the South, was completed this summer at a cost of $900,000, including furnishings but excluding books.

Stacks for 60,000 books are provided on the three floors and basement storage areas have space for approximately 160,000 more volumes. The building accommodates 600 students at a time.

College Week

The Sunday afternoon program will inaugurate Columbia's first University and College Week, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Special programs will be held at other Columbia schools during the week, concluding with "open house" at Columbia College on Sunday, Sept. 27.

NOTICE

Final date for registration is Wednesday, September 23, according to Registrar Bernard Daetwyler. Students are urged to complete all registration requirements as soon as possible.

The deadline for late registration, schedule changes, and payment of fees is Monday at 5 p.m. Those who have not paid fees or made arrangements with the treasurer for later payment by this date will have registration details cancelled.

'Gamecock' Sponsors Contest

Carolina's newly organized corps of majorettes—a line of 16 with one soloist—is searching for a name. The Gamecock has agreed to sponsor a contest for the purpose, with a ten-dollar ($10.00) prize going to the lucky winner.

Any student of the University is eligible and may send in as many entries as desired. In the event that more than one person suggests the winning name the entry with the earliest postmark will be declared the winner.

Contest Deadline

Entries should be mailed to The Gamecock, Campus P. O. Box 49 by 5:00 p.m. Friday, September 25. The entries will be judged by a selected committee and the winner announced in the following issue of The Gamecock.

The names submitted will be judged for originality and aptness of thought. Preferably the name should connect the majorette corps with this University and the South and should not be the same as names already in use by other schools. A short, catchy name is desired.

Examples of names used by other southern schools for their majorettes are the "Dixie Darlings" of the University of Mississippi, the "Georgettes" of the University of Georgia, and the "Hurricaneettes" of the University of Miami.

Names In Use

For more information concerning names given the majorette corps of other universities, interested persons may consult the booklet "Who's Who of Baton Twirling" in The Gamecock office after today.

Britain Offers 12 Scholarships

As an expression of gratitude for Marshall Aid the British government offers 12 Marshall Scholarships annually to enable United States citizens who are graduates of U. S. universities to study for two years at a university in Britain.

Potential graduates may obtain further details and application forms by writing to the British Consulate-General, 403 International Trade Mart, New Orleans, Louisiana.

The closing date for entries is October 31, 1959 and the successful candidates would commence their studies at a British University in the fall of 1960.

Men's House Presidents Assist In USC Functions

House presidents for men's dormitories have been selected by the housing office upon the recommendation of the student council housing committee, J. A. Barnes, housing director, has announced. Presidents will assist in advising new students, in organizing intramural sport teams and other recreation for the dormitories, and in promoting other student functions, Barnes said.

They will also maintain order in the dormitories and prevent damage to property. They will help enforce the new housing regulation which does not permit noise after 9 p.m. in sleeping areas.

Night Office

A student night supervisor's office has been placed on the ground floor of Preston College, Barnes added. The night supervisor will be on duty to assist students who are locked out of their rooms or who have other housing problems.

Each president will be on duty there one night a month. The telephone number of the office is 460.

The presidents are Ellis Boatmon, Tenements 3 and 5; Buzz Hoagland, Tenements 6 and 7; William Griggs, Tenements 9 and 10; William D. Wilson, Tenements 11 and 12; James Elmore Pierce, Jr., Tenements 14 and 15; Paul Boroughs, Tenements 16 and 18; Bunky Joye, Tenements 19 and 20.
