

USC hopes to extend dominance over Duke

By JIM HANEY

Carolina's Gamecocks will attempt to continue their dominance over the Duke Blue Devils tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 as the two clash in a regionally televised game in Carolina Coliseum.

The Gamecocks beat Duke, 67-55, in the teams' first battle in Durham, as the Gamecock front line held Randy Denton, the ACC's second leading rebounder, to six rebounds and 17 points.

Denton carries a 22.6 point scoring average and a 12.6 rebounding average into tomorrow's game.

The Blue Devils beat Wake Forest, 67-65, Wednesday night as Rick Katherman hit two free throws with :32 seconds remaining.

Duke Coach Bucky Waters, in his first year as head of the Blue Devils, has tried using five different starting lineups this season. Against Clemson Monday night, Waters started Denton, Rick Katherman, Dick DeVenzio, Larry Sanders and Ray Kuhlmeier, and the Blue Devils won, 91-75.

Only Denton and Katherman have started all 16 Duke games. Waters could choose to start Don Blackman, Brad Evans, John Posen or Stu Yarbrough.

The Blue Devils are 13-5 on the season, losing to Kentucky, North Carolina, North Carolina State, Maryland and South Carolina. They have already beaten Wake Forest twice, once by eight points and by six in overtime.

Duke has only three probable starters who are more than 6-6 in height. Denton is 6-10, Katherman is 6-7, Sanders is 6-9 and Blackman an even 6-6.

The Gamecocks will probably start a front line that includes 6-10 Tom Owens, 6-8 John Ribock and 6-10 Tom Riker, with All-America John Roche and captain Bobby Cremins in the backcourt.

The Gamecocks record is 18-2 following Wednesday night's loss to the Davidson Wildcats.

class stamped on them but this incident will not reoccur. In response to the seniors who feel they are getting a raw deal, so do the grad and law students. The ticket distribution is carefully checked before any tickets are handed out each morning.

The president of the student body, by statute, gets six seats. (Sec. N. Row AA, Seats 1-6) He may use them as he wishes, for example the president of the student body of Clemson, Danny Hunt, recently was his guest.

As a final note, tickets are always rearranged so students by higher class get better tickets, and the tickets left for the general public are the worst—if one doesn't believe this, look way up into the corners at the next game.

Mike Maloy

Davidson's Mike Maloy bends over backwards to put up a reverse layup despite the efforts of Rick Adyette. Maloy was held to six points and six rebounds, but was instrumental in the Davidson defense under the boards.

Swimmers dunk Tigers as Weinzettel ties record

By JOHN GASH

The Carolina swimmers ended their dual meet season with an impressive victory over the Clemson Tiger squad Wednesday, beating them 57-46.

The outcome brought the Gamecocks record to 4-7. It was the third win in the last four outings for the swimmers.

Trying not to run up the score, Coach Pete Combes experimented in several events. Preparing for the upcoming Southern Intercollegiate Invationals and

ACC Championships, Combes added events to his swimmers' usual ones.

Trond Williams, seeking to combine a third event with his usual two, won the 200 freestyle, just missing his best time of the season.

George Fairey, the team's middle distance freestyler, won the 200 backstroke.

In other events, Toby Kerr, a freshman, won the 200 individual medley, and Mike Hewitt, a junior, took the 200 breaststroke.

But the most outstanding display of talent was provided by Carolina's Jim Weinzettel. Swimming in a special 100 breaststroke race, Weinzettel both tied his school record time of 1:01.3 and qualified for the NCAA championships.

"If he (Weinzettel) had been in better shape, he would have beaten the record considerably," commented coach Combes. "He went out fast but he dies in the last 50."

Weinzettel's qualification puts the list of Carolina swimmers who have made the NCAA Championships at four. He joined divers Mike Mayfield and Gary Wetherhold and sprint swimmer Williams.

Since Clemson doesn't have a three-meter board in their pool, the three-meter diving was omitted.

Jack Moffatt and freshman diver Bob Edens took first and second in the one-meter diving.

The swimmers' journey to Athens, Ga., to participate in the Southern Intercollegiate Invationals Feb. 19-21. After that, they will go to Chapel Hill, N. C., to compete in the ACC Championships.

(Continued from Page 2) equality; they have experienced the humiliations of inequality. Yes, they are resolved that all men are free; but, they are also resolved that they, in 1969, are not equal. They cannot wait because they fear that their lives, like the lives of their parents and grandparents, will also end without experiencing and without having equality—the equality that is long over due—equality that was guaranteed and that was a written obligation in 1776, and that has not yet been fulfilled. How long are blacks expected to wait for equality? It is already one hundred ninety three years late.

Aggressive Davidson defense

John Roche watches helplessly as Davidson's Brian Adrian, and Jerry Kroll try to scoop up the loose ball (partially obscured by Adrian's knee). The Wildcats played very aggressive defense throughout the game, completely shutting out Carolina under the boards.

Wildcats 'put it all together' in upset of the Gamecocks

By JIM HANEY

"I think we put it all together tonight," Davidson's Doug Cook said. "Maybe we've got the unity we need now, like we had last year."

Cook and the rest of the Wildcats had indeed put it all together and they beat the Gamecocks, 68-62. Cook, Mike Maloy and Jerry Kroll blocked the Gamecock front line off the boards, and guard Brian Adrian supplied the necessary outside shooting in the second half. Adrian hit eight of nine shots during the final 20 minutes and finished the game with 26 points.

Gamecock Coach Frank McGuire said he thought Davidson was the most aggressive team the Gamecocks had played all season. "I give Davidson a lot of credit for the game they played," McGuire said.

NEWLINEUP

To get more height into his lineup, Davidson Coach Terry Holland had moved Adrian into the point position in the Davidson offense and put 6-6 Steve Kirley into the lineup in place of 6-0 Ron Stelzer.

"There's a good chance we'll stick with that lineup," Holland said. He explained the Davidson game plan simply. "In the first half we said we'd have to shoot from the outside against the USC zone. They went to a man-to-man and we went inside."

The Wildcats stayed in a man-to-man defense the entire game. Holland said he felt the Wildcats had to block out Owens, Riker and Ribock from the basket to minimize the Gamecocks' height advantage.

"We said we couldn't give them two shots," Holland said. "If you give John Roche two shots, he'll stick one of them in the basket." Roche scored 34 points, but the Gamecocks could not get the ball to Tom Riker and Tom Owens so they could score from the inside. Owens finished the night with two points. Riker had six.

69.6 PERCENT

The rebounding battle was a draw — 33 for each team, but the Wildcats shot 69.6 per cent in the second half. The Gamecocks hit only 37.8 per cent of their second half shots.

The Gamecocks led by 10 points at halftime, 29-19, as Davidson shot a cold 23.1 per cent from the floor, but the Wildcats came back to tie the game at 39 when Ribock was called for goaltending.

Carolina never led again as Adrian went on a scoring spree, and Cook and Maloy began to work inside against the foul-plagued Gamecock front line.

McGuire said he didn't think the foul situation had anything to do with Carolina's losing the game.

He concluded, "This game will help us win other games."
