

GCSS denounces ridiculous score

USC has taken its ruffled feathers and retreated to the practice field in preparation for the powerful Tennessee, and the more the Gamecocks think about those big, bad boys from the SEC the more they must wish to be able to replay the Maryland and N. C. State games.

Last week, 20-7-0.806 (fantastic). Overall 158-60-2.725 (not bad). Some people have been tossing around such ridiculous scores as 49-0, Tennessee, but the Sootsayer sees no such farce. Not with Tommy Suggs and Dickie Harris in the lineup, Tennessee 48, Carolina 7.

Wake Forest and Duke meet in the battle for the league lead. Duke is 4-0 while Wake is 3-1. A Wake win would tie the conference race and really tangle things. GCSS likes tangled to see things. The Wake express, outmuscled by Tennessee last week, surprises Duke with a 28-21 win.

Clemson got off a long loss streak with a win over Maryland last week but things get bleak in a hurry in those hills as Florida State slugs out a 32-10 win.

And speaking of Maryland. Funeral services will be held for the entire team directly after the Terps play Penn State. The final score reads like like a New York telephone number and 'is, therefore, unprintable.

North Carolina gets a chance to try and regain the total offense lead that they lost this week to Duke (See page 5) against a weak VMI contingent. UNC 57, VMI 2. Virginia took a beating at the hands of North Carolina despite jumping out to an early lead last week. Soph Larry Albert guns the Musk-a-teers to a 24-0 win.

Chi Psi wins playoff, faces Sigma Nu for title

By DAVID DRAFFIN
Sports Writer

Alpha Tau Omega coming off a 39-0 slaying of Phi Delta lost in a hard contested playoff game to Chi Psi, 6-0.

Chi Psi will go on in the playoffs to play last years campus champ Sigma Nu for first place in the Fraternity League. Sigma Nu downed Phi Kappa Sigma late Tuesday 18-0 to advance into the playoffs last night against Chi Psi. ATO unleashed their offense Monday with Ron Coleman hitting Stan Byrd for three touchdown passes of 25, 35 and 40 yards. Coleman ran one for 25 yards and passed to Teddy McKeivin for another.

Larry Tapp made three of the PATs to complete the scoring.

This potent offense, however, was completely stifled by the very next day by an extremely adept Chi Psi defense.

Laborde upset Maxcy 12-0 to earn themselves a place in Tuesday's playoffs against quick Horseshoe.

In this contest it was Laborde getting the better by deftly picking the Horseshoes secondary apart with three touchdown passes. Stan Quinn caught two passes from Mack Ash and Bill Sherlock collected a third to completely rout the Horse shoe by a 18-0 score.

Laborde will advance to play Town Men in Thursday's round of the playoffs. TMA beat Douglas in an extremely crisp game.

Butch Hatfield ran a punt 50 yards for one score for Douglas. TMA's other score came on a 60 yard pass from Chuck Williams to Benny Gregory.

Fred Magner and Gary Fralley put up a tough defense against TMA's offensive machine but were unable to earn the win. Town Men won by a 20-12 decision.

Lambda Chi Alpha finished their season strong with wins over Sigma Phi Epsilon 13-0 and Pi Kappa Phi 13-6 last Thursday and Monday afternoons.

In their victory over the Sig Eps, Lambda Chi Alpha stayed mostly on the ground.

Soccer Club seeks win

The USC soccer club hosts Columbia Bible College tomorrow at 10 a.m. on Intramural Field A. The rematch with CBC will find the USC squad out for revenge since CBC won the first encounter several weeks ago, 8-1.

New coach Richard Parnell has installed a long pass offense and augmented by new faces, the USC group hopes to improve their playing skill.

Previously the soccer club's offense was based on short passes, an attack which requires considerable skill and which takes years to perfect even among European enthusiasts. The long pass offense is intended to bypass the dribbling requirements of the more demanding short passes, thereby eliminating a weak area of execution.

In addition to the CBC loss, the soccer team has split 1-2 with Vorhees College of Denmark, S. C.

Current plans call for the club to play eight or nine more matches with opponents mostly from South Carolina.

MOUTH of the SOUTH

Over the years the University of Virginia has distinguished itself in many significant and worthwhile ways. It has achieved an international reputation for its academic excellence, and scholars have flocked to its shaded grounds to capture some of the culture which was established by Thomas Jefferson and spawned such luminaries as Edgar Allen Poe. Virginia's academic effort has been crowned with such dazzling success that its athletic shortcomings have, for the most part, been overlooked. But no more.

CORRIGAN NEW BOSS

Now the Cavaliers have brought back to their ranks one who never should have been allowed to leave. Gene Corrigan is the new boss of all athletics and physical education at Charlottesville. As such, he will provide strong and wise leadership which will give Virginia the true course to greatness. Not even the remaining presence of Steve Sebo as athletic director can dim the luster of the move which brought Gene from Washington and Lee.

Exactly what function Sebo will serve under the new regime is not clear, but it has been made certain that Corrigan is the boss. Gene will think big, and strive for growth and improvement. Sebo's theory of collegiate athletic operation is that if one is small and weak, the proper administrative theory demands that one work for the destruction of those who through effort and prudence have succeeded. Thus everyone can be made--if not equal--at least competitive. Neither a person nor a university can get big being small, and that, in essence, has been the trouble with Virginia athletics all along. From now on Gene will be working to get BIG, and I'm thinking now that the Cavaliers will have to be dealt with in every bid for a conference championship.

Corrigan is the guy who coached lacrosse and, I think, swimming at Virginia, had a stint as assistant basketball coach before they made him sports information director. In this capacity, he walked on the water with the quarrelsome bunch which writes and broadcasts in the ACC area. He made the mean ones happy and the dumb ones seem smart, and he even managed to strike a kind and unobtrusive blow for sobriety in certain much needed quarters. Virginia began to get headlines where it had failed to get into the column fillers.

RAN ACC SHOW

Then the ACC conference office plucked him out of Charlottesville to become--well, he ran the show. Jim Weaver was getting along in years, and Gene had a knack for making himself agreeable and forceful at the same time. I think I wrote once before that he could say "no" with the brightest smile in the world. He did a splendid job for the conference, and then the Generals of W & L hired him as athletic director. The fact that Gene has a house full of young'uns induced him to go to W & L where a college education was assured for all his progeny.

CLASS WILL SHINE

Now at Virginia you will see class shine through. Scott Stadium is an ancient edifice hardly in keeping with the tempo of today's football. But it need not be run down and in poor repair. In fact, if the stadium were properly grassed, and the facilities were brought into good repair, the place would have a charm all its own.

Yes, Virginia, you are in for some bold new concepts, and not even the remnants of past administrative fiascos can deter the progress that is as certain as sunrise with Genial Gene Corrigan at the helm.
