

If I find in myself
a desire which no experience
in this world can satisfy,
the most probable explanation
is that I was made for another world.

- C.S. LEWIS

The Contemporary University Program offers you the kind of personal experience you are seeking. In CU you are not a number but an individual in a dynamic learning community. In CU you can overcome usual student-faculty inhibitions. As two individuals seeking answers to the same questions, you and a faculty advisor of your choice will work closely together.

If your educational needs are not satisfied by your experiences of this world, enter a semester of personalized education in Contemporary University. Applications are due on Wednesday, May 12. Pick one up at Russell House Information Desk or Room No. 1, Humanities Office Building or your dean's office.
