

Work-study jobs now available

A large number of work-study positions are open to USC students who qualify for the Federally-assisted program, according to Robert B. Jeter of Student Aid.

In order to qualify for work-study, Jeter said that a student must first fill out a confidential statement from parents, which is analyzed to see if the student comes from a "financially needy family."

"There is actually no maximum income for a family," Jeter said. "We also take into consideration how many other children from the family are in school, how many additional persons are being supported by the family and how much in debt the family is. Much more is considered than just income."

Students who are living more or less independantly away from home and who wish to qualify for work-study must fill out a students' financial statement, Jeter said. The stipulation on this program is that a student may not have been claimed as a dependant on his family income taxes for the past calendar year.

Jeter said that students who are accepted work in such places as the libraries, food services and as typists in various academic departments. There is no required minimum number of hours to work a week but the student may not exceed 15 hours. Work may be scheduled around class hours.

The pay is $1.60 an hour and Jeter said applications for the program may be picked up in room 110 of the Pendleton Building.

WITH EASTERN'S YOUTH PROGRAM YOU CAN AFFORD TO SEE THE WORLD WE FLY TO BEFORE YOU TRY TO CHANGE IT.

At Eastern Airlines, we've taken steps to make the world we fly to more affordable to America's youth.

We have a youth card and youth fare that lets you fly at reduced rates to just about any place we fly to. In addition, we have a new way to fly called Leisure Class. It gives you a chance to fly free.

Just use our youth fare card (or any other airline youth card) and ask for a Leisure Class conditional reservation when you book your travel.

You buy a coach ticket at the reduced youth fare price. You must present your ticket at the boarding gate at least 20 minutes before departure.

If coach is full and there's an empty seat in first class, you fly first class without spending another penny. If the whole plane is full, Eastern will refund your money on the spot, and you get the next available seat on a plane to your destination absolutely free.

Of course the number of Leisure Class reservations is limited per flight, and Leisure Class is not available on all our flights to all destinations or on all fares. Nor when the plane is grounded due to weather conditions or equipment substitutions or failures.

Eastern's youth fare card can be used for travel anytime except between 2 p.m. and midnight on Friday and Sunday.

Take advantage of Eastern's programs for youth. If you're under 22 years old, for only $3 and proof of age, you can get a youth fare card, and go Leisure Class. You may lose a couple of hours getting to the part of the world you want to see.

But with the extra money, you would be able to enjoy more of it once you get there.
