

Drugs, gambling could spell jail term for High

By The Associated Press
Former South Carolina football player Tim High could face up to six months in jail if convicted of charges that he bet on college and professional basketball games as well as NFL teams.

Assistant solicitor Greg Hembree said Wednesday he rejected High's application for a pretrial intervention program because of a previous conviction. That program allows first-time criminal offenders to perform community service instead of going to jail in return for keeping a clean record.

Hembree said High, 22, did not qualify for the program because he had a 1987 conviction in Raleigh, N.C., on a misdemeanor charge of damage to property.

High also was arrested in Columbia in February 1989 for possession with intent to distribute drugs. Though those charges were dropped, Hembree said it indicated High was "back getting involved in criminal activity."

High, a South Carolina nose guard from 1987-1989, has not been indicted on gambling charges, and Hembree said he did not know when High would go before the Richland County grand jury.

Richland County sheriff's Capt. Leon Lott testified at a preliminary hearing last month that High was an experienced gambler who bet on college basketball games and professional basketball and football games.

Softball team sweeps Furman

From Staff Reports

The USC softball team took both games of a doubleheader with Furman Wednesday, 2-1 and 11-1, at the Lady Gamecock Field.

In game one, both teams were scoreless until the top of the ninth when USC took a commanding 8-1 lead. USC answered in the bottom half of the inning when Cheri Laskowski drove in Andrea Beall from second to make it 1-1.

A Leslie Adams' single then scored Laskowski to win it for the Lady Gamecocks.

In the game Michelle Dellosa was 2-for-2 from the plate while Beall was a 1-for-4 with a double. Laskowski was 1-for-1 with a double and an RBI, and Adams was 2-for-3 including the game-winning RBI.

Angie Lear, 27-11, was the winner for USC while Furman's Nancy Chrisler took the loss.

Homeruns by Laskowski and Jana Zimmerman keyed a seven-run fourth inning in the nightcap as USC took a commanding 8-1 lead. The Lady Paladins also committed two errors in the inning.

USC opened the second game by scoring a run in the first inning.

After the run-scoring barrage in the fourth, USC added three more runs in the fifth for the final 11-1 margin.

College softball games are called when one team builds a 10-run margin.

In game two, Tricia Popowski was 2-for-4 with a double while Michelle Dellosa was 3-for-4 with 2 RBIs.

Zimmerman was 1-for-4 with a homerun and two RBIs and Laskowski was 1-for-3 with a homerun and an RBI.

Zimmerman was the winning pitcher in game two for the Lady Gamecocks to boost her record to 14-1. Linda Whitcomb was the losing pitcher for Furman.

Head coach Joyce Compton's Lady Gamecocks improved to 47-12 on the year with the two wins.

Next action for the Lady Gamecocks will be Saturday when they meet the University of South Florida. USC will then face the Florida State Lady Seminoles on Sunday.
