

The cast of Oil City Symphony will appear at the Koger Center Sunday.

'Oil City' coming to Koger

By AMY BARCOMB
Staff Writer

If you like music and are looking for something between the Phantom of the Opera and a Warrant concert, the Carolina Program Union and the Koger Center have just the event.

"Oil City Symphony" is a musical revue that will be performed at the Koger Center Sunday night. The show is about four musicians returning to the high school Oil City High 20 years after graduation to pay tribute to their music teacher.

The music in the show ranges from old-fashioned melodies to original songs to rock standards. The performers sing solo and in groups. There is even a time in the first act in which the audience gets to perform, joining in the Hokey Pokey.

"Oil City Symphony" opened off-Broadway in November of 1987 to great reviews. The New York Times said, "No matter when one went to high school, 'Oil City Symphony' should stir affectionate memories. A musical with charm."

"Oil City Symphony" also won the 1988 Drama Desk Award.

The show will be at the Koger Center Sunday April 21 at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $5 for students and $10 for all others. Tickets may be purchased at Carolina Coliseum and all SCAT outlets. To order by phone, call 777-SCAT.
