Author Offers Instructions For Life: H. Jackson Brown's "Life's Little Instruction Book, Volume II" will be published this month. The book is a continuation of the list of simple truths that ended with instruction No. 511 in the first volume.

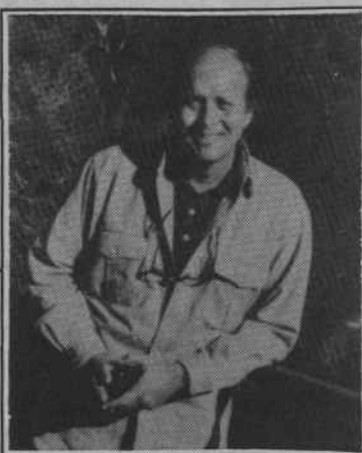

The first book was originally a gift from Brown to his only son as he began his freshman year of college. The book went to the top of the New York Times bestseller list and has remained a bestseller for more than 75 weeks.

Brown said the second book is not so much a sequel as it is a continuation of a father's conversation with his son. "Shortly after completing the list that became 'Life's Little Instruction Book' and presenting it to my son, Adam, on his first day of college, I began to think of other suggestions and observations I wish I had included in the list," Brown said.

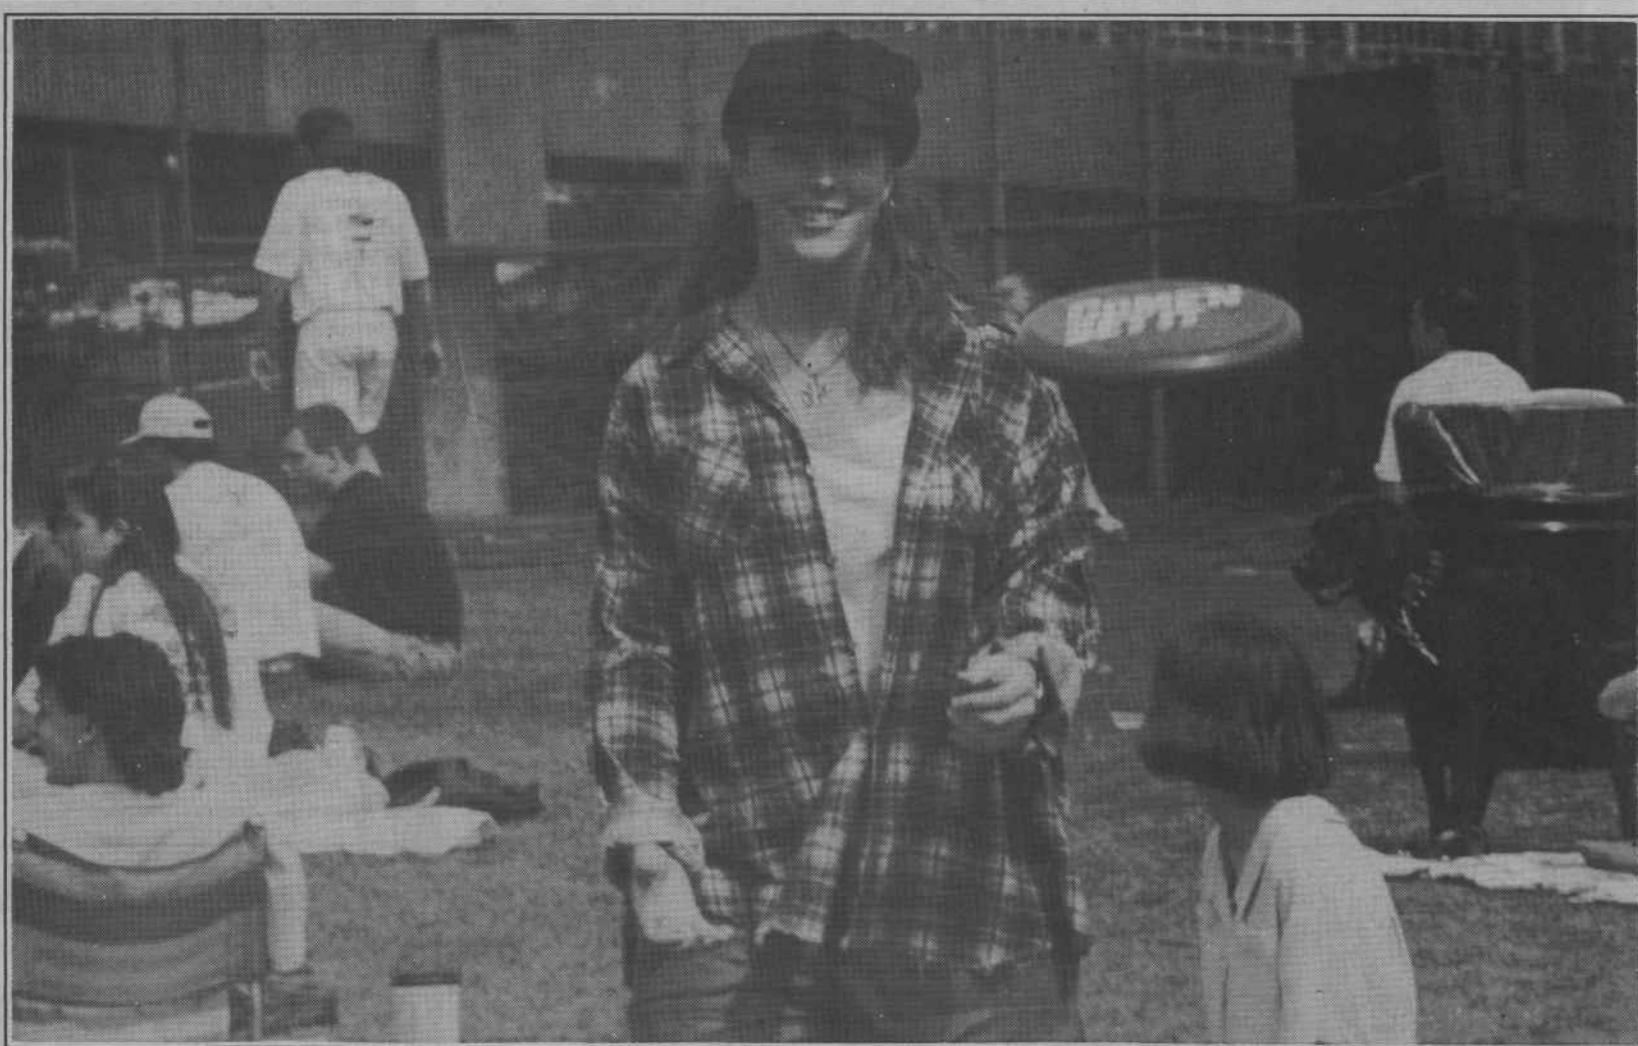

"All of these instructions have added a degree of joy, meaning and efficiency to my life," Brown said. "And I assume that's part of the appeal they have for everyone else."

Among Brown's words of wisdom are these suggestions:

- Believe in love at first sight.
- Never ask a barber if you need a haircut.
- When there's a piano to be moved, don't reach for the stool.
- Accept a breath mint if someone offers you one.
- Rake a big pile of leaves every fall and jump in it with someone you love.
- Never miss an opportunity to have someone rub your back.
- Never say anything uncomplimentary about another person's dog.
- Check for toilet paper BEFORE sitting down.
- Don't expect anyone to know what you want for Christmas if you don't tell them.
- Trust in God but lock your car.
- Don't let weeds grow around your dreams.
- Every so often watch "Sesame Street."
- Life is short. Eat more pancakes and less rice cakes.
- Call your dad.
