Association names scholarship recipients

Southern Medical Association recently announced the names of students to receive medical school scholarships sponsored by the association for 1993-94.

Among those named was Amy Stough, daughter of Elizabeth Stough of Col-

Stough attends the USC College of Medicine in Columbia and is a graduate of the College of Pharmacy.

- 53 percent of Americans smoked marijuana, compared with 51 percent of New Zealanders.
- 11 percent of Americans said they had stolen from their roommates, compared with 9 percent of New Zealanders.
- 20 percent of Americans said they had carried a concealed weapon, while 17 percent of the New Zealanders admitted doing so. ■ 20.7 percent of American
- women students said they had been raped, compared with 17.6 percent of the female New Zealanders. However, only 6.4 percent of the American men students said they had forced a woman to have sex against her will, while 4.7 percent of New Zealand men admitting the same crime.

Eskridge said he found the statistics "extremely disturbing," although he suspected that students of the 1980s and 1990s just might be more upfront about their criminal activity than those of previous generations.

"I don't know if young people are lying and cheating any more than their parents did," he said. "It's just that we're more aware of

There were some obvious weaknesses with the surveys, including the possibility that students might lie or exaggerate, but the similarities between the responses of the American and New Zealand students indicated there was some general validity to the findings, Eskridge said. Other studies, including some done by the FBI, have shown similar results, he said.

The statistics that Eskridge said he found the most disturbing were the ones that indicated some "cognitive dissonance" on the part of students who feel that their criminal behavior is fine but others'

87 percent of the American students and 81 percent of the New Zealand students said they considered themselves to be law-abiding citizens, and 74 percent of the Americans and 65 percent of the New Zealanders advocated giving harsher penalties to criminals.

"What seems to keep the majority of students from being legally defined as criminal seems to be the mere fact that they have not yet been caught and/or convicted," the professor said in the study's conclusion.
