

All I want for Christmas is...

Money, bikes and vacations sound like gifts on the wish list of junior high students, but the wishes of student leaders and administrators are not too different. We asked leaders of USC what they wanted for themselves and for the university.

Chris Carroll,
Coordinator of Student Media:

"I would like to have a couple hundred thousand dollars for WCFG-TV. For me, I want a long vacation to New Orleans, back to my home.

Eddie Fogler,
Head basketball coach:

"I'd like good health for our team, to be injury free and be able to play to the best of our ability. I also want health and happiness over the holiday season and into next year."

Brian Comer,
SGA vice president:

"For the university, I want $30 million from the Legislature. And for me, my college ring and a navy suit."

Mike McGee,
Athletics director:

"The best recruits in the state."

Brad Holt,
SGA treasurer:

"I want to know I can pay for school next semester. For the university, I would like to get a cut in tuition."

Jerry Brewer,
Director of Student Life:

"I think I would want the state and the people in the state to recognize and appreciate the University of South Carolina. I want a new bike, and I want to finish my dissertation."

Kerry Sharp,
Sports Information director:

"For the athletics programs, I wish a successful and winning sports teams and 100 percent graduation rate. And for myself, a relaxing time with family and friends."
