Brian Comer

Brian Comer

—Personal key-chain calling device, more call boxes
—Co-programming; improved visitation policy
—Tenure review; reduced advertising rates for off-campus dining establishments that offer discounts
—Need-based tuition grant; voting student on Board of Trustees

"It's a given that the student body president lobby for higher education. Specifically, I'd like to explore the possibility of a need-based tuition grant that 49 other states have and South Carolina does not."

September LeFevre

September LeFevre

—Student opinion poll
—Eliminate executive officers' salaries
—Checklist for juniors
—Relax visitation policies
—SG affirmative action officer
—Security guards in Blossom garage

"Visitation hours desperately need to be expanded. One of the main reasons students live off campus is because of the visitation hours, and RHA is losing money."

—Make USC justify spending decisions

—Expand Carolina Shuttle routes

—Lobby legislature

"After I balance the books and look at the budget, I want to head to the State House. Of course that would offset the tuition we pay here and give us better facilities on campus."

College of 21st century 'forum without borders'

By College Press Service

What will the college of the 21st century be like? Totally different from campuses today, according to Stanford University President Gerhard Caspar.

A university of the future likely will be a "forum without borders," Caspar said, suggesting that higher education should return to the ancient idea of universities such as the Socratic gymnasium or the Platonic academy.

Speaking at a session on global education, Caspar said in the near future, the "small world phenomenon combined with information technologies" could well "eclipse the importance of the university as a corporal unit."

As an institution, the university will become more precarious because faculty will be able to communicate easily with colleagues across the country or across the world and will rely much less on their own universities and departments.

"The sub-specialist in physics will find it much easier to be in touch with another member of his sub-specialty than to get his intellectual nourishment and support from colleagues in the physics department," Caspar said. "In the very near future, students who are dissatisfied with the lecture courses in Economics 1 at the University of Beijing will be able to gain video access to Economics 1 at Stanford."

He said it's likely that videos of introductory courses such as economics taught by a Nobel Prize-winning economist will be marketed worldwide.

If such a situation arises, the losers probably would be young faculty members who're just starting out; there would be less demand for their services, but the positive aspect of such changes would be the elimination of large lecture classes. Instead, universities would have to become communities in which the search for knowledge is conducted in seminars and laboratory settings, Caspar said.

Spend the Summer in Russia

Join Russian students at a resort hotel just outside Moscow. Study the Russian language and/or Russian literature with the latter being taught in English. The program is open to students with no prior Russian.

The Russian students, with hopefully future Yeltsins and Solzhnitsyns amongst them, will be taught economics & western history.

The mornings will be devoted to the class room courses leaving plenty of time for other planned and unplanned activities with the Russian students.

Total cost for the 8 week course, books, room and board, bicycle rental, airfare: Only $2395

A local tour package and a weekend in St. Petersburg are offered at $150 each as optional extras.

Nine credits possible for the 8 week Russian language program from the State University of New York (SUNY)

New Paltz for an additional fee of $150/credit. Call us for names of students at your school who have already indicated an interest in this program.
