Adviser award committee accepting nominees

KEITH BOUDREAUX News Editor

Nominations will be now being accepted for the Ada B. Thomas Outstanding Faculty Adviser Award. The deadline for submitting nominations is Dec. 9.

The award is meant to promote excellence in faculty advising.

"It recognizes a person who is an outstanding adviser in the eyes of students, the faculty and the chairman of their department," said Steven Stancyk, chair of the Ada B. Thomas Outstanding Adviser Award Committee.

The award is also meant to improve other adviser's skills with a cash reward of $1,000 and a runner up award of $750.

"It is meant to provide incentives to other faculty to improve their advising skills," said Paul Fidler, director of Research, Grants and Planning for the Division of Student Affairs.

Stancyk said the award is significant in that it is the only award that recognizes excellence in advising and that the nominations come from students.

"In the opinion of the award committee, advisement is important in the educational process," he said. "This is the only award for advisement on campus. It is a student-generated award, the students do the nominating for it."

The award, started in the 1990-91 academic year, was named after Ada B. Thomas, a professor in the business college who is currently a professor emeritus.

"James Holderman and the University Chaplains Association started the award. The Student Alumni Association cosponsors it as well," Fidler said.

To be qualified for the award, an adviser must be a full time faculty member on the Columbia campus, and be nominated by a student. The nominee must also:

■ Have never won the award before.

■ Demonstrate a personal concern for students and a high commitment to USC.

■ Act as an adviser mentor, giving time to understanding and advising students.

■ Be accessible to students through out the academic year.

■ Be knowledgeable and competent in academic requirements, alternatives and procedures.

■ Be willing to improve advising skills and keep up with changes in regulations and procedures.

■ Know how, when and where to refer questions.

The names of the winner and the runner up will be announced at USC Awards Day on April 20 next spring.

Nomination forms are available at any college's dean's office, the Student Government office and at the Russell House Information Desk. They must then be sent to Ada B. Thomas Award, Office of the Vice-President for Student Affairs, Russell House, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208.

Geography team wins Southeast regional title

MATT PRUITT Staff Writer

The geography team representing the state of South Carolina captured its third regional title on Nov. 21, after defeating North Carolina and winning the 1994 Southeast Regional World Geography Bowl.

Ten teams from states throughout the Southeast traveled to Virginia Beach, Va., for the annual competition. South Carolina's team, which won seven of its first nine rounds of competition, consisted of nine students from USC and one from Francis Marion. The North Carolina team came into the final competition undefeated, having won all of its first nine rounds, before falling to South Carolina in the hour-long final round.

South Carolina teams featuring only USC students had won Southeast regional titles in 1990 and 1993. USC's team also brought home a national title from the National World Geography Bowl in April.

The geography team is led by captain Timothy Stakes, a graduate student coached by Michael Scott, also a graduate student. Other members of the team are graduate students James Bryan, Richard Deal, Bill English, William Proger, Sean Matthews, and undergraduate student Tracy Fehl. Also included was Francis Marion senior Will Davis. Bryan, Deal, English, Fehl, Scott and Stakes all participated in the final competition against North Carolina.

The format of the national competition has been changed for 1995 so that an all-star team from each region of the nation as opposed to individual colleges will compete for the national title.

Deal was chosen as one of the five members of the 1995 Southeast regional all-star team, and Stakes was chosen as an alternate. The 1995 competition will be held next March in Chicago.

Two of Cobb's other students finished near the top this year. They are Miss S.C. Teen USA Garianna Phillips and USC sophomore Carrie Vernau, who finished in 12th place behind Corley.

"She's the best coach I've ever had," Corley said. "I used to be so shy. I would get so nervous, I just couldn't talk."

Even with her coaching and assistance, Corley said she wants to improve her presentation.

"My nerves are my worst competition. I'm my worst critic," she said.

Corley may be critical of herself, but she has a boyfriend and a family of fans rooting for her.

Her boyfriend, USC senior Jo Jo House, said when she goes to the competition in Texas, "she's not just representing South Carolina, but she's a representative of USC."

Corley, the daughter of Wayne and Norma Corley of Lexington, said her family is the backbone of her support team.

She said that when she won the crown Saturday night, she made her grandfather, Leon Corley of Gaston, proud.

"He's been in the hospital for two weeks," she said. "When he found I won, he told everyone in the ward."

Quayle hospitalized for clot

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Former Vice President Dan Quayle underwent treatment Tuesday for a blood clot in his lung just weeks before he was expected to announce whether he will run for president in 1996.

"The doctors are very optimistic about Mr. Quayle's condition right now. He's doing extremely well and he is progressing very nicely," said Pam Perry, a spokeswoman for Indiana University Medical Center.

The 47-year-old Quayle was expected to make a full recovery, the spokeswoman said.

He was being treated with anti-coagulants to prevent further clotting while natural enzymes in Quayle's body dissolve the lodged clot, said the physician treating him, Dr. Homer Twigg. After four days, he likely would be put on another blood thinner for about three to six months.

Twigg said it can take up to a year for a clot to dissolve completely.

While clots can be life threatening because they interfere with breathing, Twigg said Quayle had required only a small amount of oxygen when he was admitted to the hospital and wasn't in immediate danger of dying.

Twigg said at a news conference that Quayle is otherwise in excellent health. Twigg said it isn't known what causes such clots, called pulmonary embolisms. They often occur in people who are sedentary for long stretches, such as truck drivers, and can be hereditary, but Quayle had no such predisposition, the doctor said.

SENIORS & GRADUATE STUDENTS*Your smile could be worth $50!

Thornton Studios will once again be on campus today through Friday to take FREE portraits for the GBQ Year In Review. Anyone can have their portrait taken for FREE!

At the end of each day, a $50 gift certificate from the University Bookstore will be awarded to a lucky senior or graduate student who had their portrait taken that day.

Students who have their FREE photo taken can also purchase GBQ's Year In Review for only $10 (normally $12)!
