Taneyhill, teammate to pay hotel damages

Associated Press
CHARLESTON (AP)—South Carolina quarterback Steve Taneyhill and a teammate have agreed to pay for furniture damaged in a hotel room this past weekend.

Taneyhill and John Healy were staying at a Day's Inn in downtown Charleston Saturday night, and the pair have agreed to pay $75 for a broken chair, according to a police report. Two telephones also were damaged, according to the report.

The Day's Inn has decided not to press charges, police spokesman Charles Francis said.

Taneyhill met with South Carolina football coach Brad Scott Monday morning to tell him of the incident, said Kerry Sharp, USC's associate athletics director for media relations.

"No action was taken other than that meeting, and it's our understanding that those involved have apologized and will pay for the damages," Sharp said.

Sharp said Taneyhill was at the hotel with a group of USC students, most of whom were not athletes. It was not immediately clear who was responsible for damaging the furniture. Sharp said the broken chair was not in Taneyhill's room.

MUSC, private hospital consider partnership

Associated Press
The Medical University of South Carolina has been fielding tough questions about a proposed partnership with a local private hospital.

A crowd of 200 gathered Monday as lawmakers and representatives of other hospitals criticized the proposed partnership between MUSC and for-profit Trident Regional Health Systems.

"Is this merger the proper use of state taxpayer money?" asked attorney Susan Smythe, a board member of Roper Health Systems, a competing hospital system. "The taxpayers are being asked to underwrite the demise of their health care alternatives."

State Rep. Mike Rose, R-Summerville, organized the meeting to discuss the merger.

"Should the government compete in the marketplace?" asked Dr. Jim Hayes, the chairman of Roper Health Systems.

He said not enough information has been made public.

But Marion Woodbury, the chief executive officer of University Medical Associates, the private practice group of MUSC physicians, promised "mammoth meetings and a world of details."

He dismissed complaints that MUSC is "trying to slip this through under the cover of darkness."

Woodbury said the proposed lease of the MUSC facilities must be approved by the Commission on Higher Education, the Joint Bond Committee of the General Assembly and the state Budget and Control Board.

"The bottom line is I don't think the Medical University can get a major merger without the approval of the legislature," Rose said.

State Sen. Ernie Passailaigue, D-Charleston, agreed, saying "they will have a long and arduous process."

found. That's the sixth increase in seven years and close to 1985's all-time high of 13.3 percent. In 1993, 20 percent of the USC freshman class smoked daily, according to a campus study.

The UCLA institute's survey reported that freshmen alcohol use is down. Only 53.2 percent surveyed said they drink on a regular basis, a dramatic drop from 1981's 75.2 percent.

Carolina's Alcohol and Drug Program coordinator, Rick Gant, said the university's study found that 81 percent of USC freshmen drink, but only a third of those drink once or more a week.

"Generally, freshmen drink more, seniors drink less," Gant said. "The process is self-selective. Some of those freshmen aren't in school for their senior year."

Rotary International Scholarship Information Session

Tuesday, February 7, 1995
7:30 p.m. Gressette Room, Harper College 3rd Floor

USC students are invited to attend an Information Session on Rotary International Scholarships. Representatives from local Rotary Clubs will provide information on the scholarship, application procedures and selection criteria.

The Foundation currently offers three kinds of Ambassadorial Scholarships: Academic-Year, Multi-Year and Cultural. Foundation scholars are expected to contribute to world understanding and peace as they pursue their studies and after that.

The Academic-Year Ambassadorial Scholarship, usually nine months, covers expenses for round-trip transportation, all academic fees, some supplies, on campus housing and meals, educational travel, and limited contingency expenses. The award is valued at over $20,000. Applicants must be U.S. Citizens.

Contact the Fellowships Office, Harper College 303, 777-0958, with questions on the Information Session.
