Briefs

USC oceanographer wins federal award

Dr. Gail Kineke, a coastal oceanographer in USC's department of geological sciences, received a Presidential Early Career Award for Scientists and Engineers on Dec. 16. This award was given to 60 young scientists in the nation and is worth $100,000 per year over five years.

Five Points motorists may experience traffic problems

City work crews will be re-routing a sewer main near the intersection of Greene and Harden Streets from Jan. 9 through Jan. 24. During this process, the work will require one or more lanes of traffic in the immediate section of Harden Street be closed. The bulk of this work will take place at night. The City of Columbia is advising motorists to use caution when traveling in this area.

Freshmen Advocate Award open for nominations

Applications for the Freshmen

Advocate Award are available today. The deadline for the applications is Feb. 14. This award honors any member of the USC community for outstanding service to a first year student. The nominee can be a student, faculty or staff. Applications are available in the University 101 office, Russell House information desk and from Resident advisors.

Spring student organization fair planned for February

Student organizations have a chance to showcase themselves to the USC community in the spring organization fair. The fair is planned for Feb. 5 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the Russell House patio. In case of rain the fair will be relocated to the Russell House Ballroom.
