CRIME REPORT
compiled by Patrick Rathbun

Jan. 14
• Larceny of a firearm. Coliseum Lot 1. Complainant stated unknown persons removed a Smith and Wesson 38-caliber pistol with an estimated value of $250 from his vehicle by unknown means. The investigation continues.

Jan. 15
• Driving under the influence. 400 Pickens St. While on patrol, officer observed truck traveling south on Pickens Street at a high rate of speed. Officer observed vehicle cross the railroad tracks at 400 Pickens St. almost going airborne. Officer also observed subject's vehicle driving left of the center line. Officer activated blue lights and stopped the vehicle at 100 Pickens St. A strong odor of alcohol was noticed as the officer approached the subject's vehicle. The subject attempted unsuccessfully to remove his license from his wallet when the officer asked. Subject said he consumed three beers when asked by the officer. Officer asked subject to exit the vehicle to undergo field sobriety tests. Subject performed poorly on all tests given. Subject was then placed under arrest and placed in the front passenger side of the patrol vehicle. Officer returned to find subject had spat on the patrol vehicle windshield and officer asked for caged vehicle to respond. Subject then refused to be handcuffed and necessary force was used to detain subject. Subject continually used profanity and downgrading statements to officers, beginning at the traffic stop.

made me feel better about helping the community rather than just our school." Interested students can choose which school they would like to tutor at, which teacher they would like to help and at what time they would like to tutor the students. CFK offers its services to more than a dozen local schools. This semester, CFK has decided to tutor at places besides schools. Members can also work at the Epworth Children's Home and The Salvation Army as part of an after-school program.

"These people came to us for help, and we are offering our services to them," Winslow said.

CFK provides carpools for students without a means of transportation.

Placement officer Faiyaz Dossaji said he has enjoyed tutoring students.

"Working with the kids for an hour and seeing their improvements is my favorite part," Dossaji said. "At the end of the semester, I know I've really made a difference."

Students tutor from the first week of February until classes end.
