XMAS DANCERS TAKEN BY DEATH

Carelessness or Vengeance Responsible.

3 DEAD, 8 FATALY HURT

While Men and Women Were in Mazes of Dance Mining Powder or Dynamite Was Exploded—Dancers Wrapped in Deadly Flames.

Three persons are dead, eight may die as the result of their injuries, and ten more are in the Westmoreland hospital with painful burns, as penalty either for somebody's carelessness or somebody's vengeance, while miners were holding a Christmas celebration at Keystone Shaft near Greengburg, Pa.

The accident occurred at the home of Michael Wilding, while he was entertaining a party of about twenty-five men and women, some of whom had come from Youngstown, Ohio, to seek work in the mines there.

It is believed that one of the men in the party while a dance was in progress threw a cigarette butt carelessly under the stairway of the house. Twenty-five pounds of black mining powder are said to have been stored there in an open can.

Rumors were current that striking miners had thrown a bomb under the stairway, but there was no confirmation of the report.

Flames from the powder shot through the room and the acid smoke blinded the dancers as they broke away for escape.

The clothing of nearly all the dancers took fire from the explosion, and although the room was burned and blackened, the house was not seriously damaged. Men in adjoining houses rushed in with blankets and wrapped them about the burning women, saving many from death. Superintendent H. F. Bovard, of the mine, arranged for a special train which brought the injured to Greengburg, Pa.

CLEMENTS SUCCEEDS KNAPP.

Georgian May Head Interstate Commerce Commission.

The nominations of the two members of the interstate commerce commission, C. C. McChord and V. H. Meyer, have been confirmed by the senate.

Within the next two or three weeks the commission will organize and the probability is that Judson C. Clements, of Georgia, will be elected chairman of the commission, to succeed Judge Martin S. Knapp, who goes to the new court of commerce.

Judge Clements is now the senior member of the commission and according to usual custom would be the logical chairman. As he is very popular with his associates, his election is considered a foregone conclusion.

A telegram received at Chattanooga announced the death of County Judge Seth M. Walker at Mayo hospital, Rochester, Minn., where he went for an operation for gall stones. He was 55 years of age and a native of Dalton, Ga. He was an alumnus of Emory college, Oxford, Ga., and for sixteen years county judge of Hamilton county. He was recently re-elected.

William H. Troon, president of the Lynn board of trade, is dead at his home at Lynn, Mass., although his wife gave her blood in an effort to save him. He suffered from a series of nasal hemorrhages which weakened his system to such an extent that the transfusion was advised. It failed to prolong his life, however.

Cleora Wood and Marion Gibson, two young men, quarreled at Cullman, Ala., over a young lady and agreed to go to the outskirts of the city and "shoot it out." Wood was killed and Gibson gave himself up to the authorities. Gibson fired five times and each shot took effect, and was himself uninjured.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dearing, a native of Kentucky, who died at Taylorville, Ill., at the age of 93 years, from the effects of burns received when her dress caught fire from sparks from her pipe, had 201 living descendants. Six children of a family of sixteen survive, besides 67 grandchildren, 44 great-grandchildren and 54 great-great-grandchildren.

John Hunter, a well-known farmer, was instantly killed at Sewell Ferry, Ala., by Charles Packer, when the latter struck him with a piece of scantling. Packer claims Hunter had ordered him out of the house and then pursued him, forcing him to strike in self-defense.

E. A. Hamilton, a young farmer living near Laurens, S. C., was found dead at his home with his head almost completely severed from the body and a bloody ax by his side. His wife, who recently returned from an insane asylum, is being held by the authorities. Among her hallucinations before being taken to the asylum was that she had killed her husband.

Mrs. Emily Smith, aged 79, was burned to death in her home at Columbus, Ga. The family had left the house and it is supposed she caught fire from an exploding lamp. Passers-by discovered the fire and when they rushed in found the woman dead.

Five persons were severely injured and seven more slightly injured when a Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railroad passenger train was partially derailed about fifty yards west of High Bridge, which spans the Kentucky river.

AFFLICTIONS.

Afflictions sent by Providence melt the constancy of the noble minded, but confirm the obduracy of the vile. The same furnace that hardens clay liquefies gold, and in the strong manifestations of Divine power Pharaoh found his punishment, but David his pardon.—Colton.

News is scarce in this section, but as I did not write last week I will send a few dots.

Mr. William Heaton, of the Greenville side visited his uncle, Mr. J. H. Heaton, of Pickens R. 4, last week, and reports having had a jolly time. He took a big rabbit hunt while up.

Christmas was very dull with me. Of course old Santa brought me several presents which I appreciated very much.

Mr. R. F. Burns and wife have just returned home from a very pleasant visit to the latter's parents, Mr. W. M. Jones and wife. Mrs. H. L. Jones was a recent visitor also at the home of Capt. Jones.

Mr. Johnnie Capell and family have just moved to their new home in this section and which they report O. K.

Miss Leila Jones visited her brother, Mr. Holbert Jones and family one night last week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Jones gave the young folks an enjoyable pound supper on the night of December 28th. It was greatly enjoyed by all those present.

Mr. Tint Williams gave the young folks a dance on the 29th ult., and Mr. J. H. Capell, of the Dacusville section, gave one on the 31st ult. Both were very much enjoyed by those present.

Well, I guess I've scared the correspondents all to death, or something else is wrong I know, for there used to be a few letters every week in the paper but they are very scarce now. Now let's commence at the first of the year and make it a habit of ours to write to the Sentinel-Journal. I think it would be a very good habit to any one, boys or girls, men or women.

Mr. Fetz Crenshaw, who has been attending Clemson College is at home for the holidays.

Miss Lizzie Sutherland is at home for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hughes visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Jones recently.

Mrs. Sallie Dill is visiting the family of her father. She will remain for some time.

Mr. Dee Johnson and wife are spending a time with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gilliland, of Pickens R. 4.

I'll ring off for this time.
Lonely Sweetheart

Death of R. L. Bryant.

Last Wednesday evening the remains of R. L. Bryant were brought here from Atlanta, Ga., where he died Tuesday Jan. 3. The body was accompanied by his wife and children and a few other relatives, and on arriving here was taken to the home of J. J. Shipman, the wife's father. The interment took place at the cemetery at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, the services being conducted by Rev. J. R. Owen.

Mr. Bryant's death was the result of an attack of asthma. He was 38 years of age, was a native of Pickens county, S. C., and was a conductor on the Southern between Atlanta and Greenville. About nine years ago he was married to Miss Ida Shipman of this place. He is survived by his wife and two children.

T. H. Shipman, who was summoned to Atlanta, returned with the funeral party, among whom was Rufus Bryant, a brother of the deceased.—Sylvan Valley News.
