. . . A BIG JOB . . .

The biggest business in America is education.

Education has the largest number of owners, the most extensive and costly plant, and uses the most valuable raw material. It has the greatest number of operators. It employs (except for national defense) our greatest investment in money and time—and its product has the greatest influence on both America and the world.

We have in America a highly complex industrial civilization. To operate it successfully, our young people must—to an increasing degree—be educated in the technical arts. And to enjoy the fruits of a vastly productive economy in freedom, they must at the same time be educated to an understanding and love of traditional American principles, political and economic.

It is a big job, indeed, for our biggest business. Our individual interests in our local schools, our cooperation with our teachers and our students, can play an important part in successfully accomplishing this important job.

A Preacher's Life . . .

A PAPER COMMENTS as follows: "The preacher has a great time. If his hair is gray, he is old. If he is a young man he hasn't had experience. If he has ten children, he has too many; if he has none, he isn't setting a good example. If his wife sings in the choir, she is presuming; if she doesn't she is not interested in her husband's work. If a preacher reads from notes, he is a bore; if he speaks extemporaneously he isn't deep enough. If he stays home in his study, he doesn't mix with people; if he is seen around the streets he ought to be at home studying up a good sermon. If he calls on some poor family, he is playing to the grandstand; if he calls at the home of the wealthy, he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does, someone could have told him to do better."
