"SOW WHEAT."

Is the Advice of Mr. Walter S. Cauthen.

To the Editor of The News:

You are aware of the fact that lots of people are "squalling hard times" at the present. The ones now participating in this had better get a hustle on themselves and prepare to meet hard times. Of course the ones that are complaining mostly are the ones that have always grumbled, but the thing to do at the moment is to prepare to raise some more for the next year, and quit talking so much, and be a man of action and not so much of words. As we all know wheat can be grown successfully in our county. For instance, wheat has nearly doubled in price during the last half month, and it will probably go still higher. No other grain makes bread so universally prized. Russia, Austria-Hungary and France, three of the countries now at war, are all large producers of wheat.

Wheat prefers heavy loams and clay subsoils and is not as well suited to our sandy soils as oats, but taking it in general in our county as a whole, it has a fine clay subsoil, and if your soil will not produce so much, take time and prepare and manure well what you do plant, and don't try to plant your whole place and make a failure and then say there is no profit in wheat. Nine times out of ten if we do our part it will do its part.

Land for wheat should be plowed thoroughly, fitted and pulverized with harrows and rollers so that the seed bed will be firm with a layer of loose soil at the surface. Every time you carry a harrow, whichever it may be, you increase your harvest that much. No wonder so many of our farmers have failed with wheat so much. They never prepare the land, they depend upon it making without aid. Why do we prepare, fertilize and cultivate cotton so well? For the simple reason it will not make if we do not go through all these operations, so this is the case with wheat. We have got to help it. A drill is the best implement for seeding wheat, but if the drill cannot be had, the wheat may be sown and a disc harrow used to put it in. Drills apply the fertilizer and sow the seed in such a satisfactory way that it is much easier to use this method of seeding. Good small drills may be had at a moderate cost for seeding a small area. Sow five to six pecks to the acre. November is a good time to sow wheat, though it may be sown a little earlier or later with satisfactory results. The Blue Stem or Purple Straw and Red May are good varieties to plant. Fultz and Fulsider, the latter being bearded, are also good and preferable in this soil.

At planting time if you can spare your cotton seed, apply them to the soil, otherwise if you are going to use commercial fertilizer, a mixture of cottonseed meal and acid phosphate at the rate of 500 or more pounds to the acre. And a top dress early in the spring of 100 or more pounds of nitrate of soda, using the drag harrow plentifully at this time. This opens up the ground and lets air in to the roots. It may seem as if you are ruining your crop in this operation, but drive on, it will be all right.

The average yield of wheat in the United States is fourteen bushels to the acre and the average for South Carolina is still less, but if you will do your part you can easily grow twenty bushels, but I am speaking of a whole or on the average. Now you know wars have gone on for years at the time, so now, Brother Farmer, now is the moment to prepare for the rainy day. You know your cotton acreage has been reduced one-third, so put one-third in grain or food crops and the other for your live stock and get ready to live at home. Hoping these few thoughts will attract some planter's attention, thanking you very much I beg to remain,

Respectfully,

COUNTY NEWS

ELGIN.

Special to The News.
Elgin, Nov. 9.—The health of this community is good at present. The fine weather has furnished the farmers an opportunity which they are using in sowing a good crop of grain, viz: wheat and oats. There has not been for years so much grain sowed in this community, more wheat than for 25 years.

The writer has ordered for this immediate community 120 bushels of wheat, which is being sowed. The Elgin Junior Order is in a flourishing condition, having recently built a new addition consisting of one room for the use of the school and a hall for the use of the order, which has been painted and adds greatly to the appearance of the building. We believe we have now one of the most up-to-date school buildings in the county. We have an up-to-date library costing $155 worth of valuable books and also boards, new globe and desks, a water cooler and an up-to-date Chickerling piano.

There are nice clean surroundings, and on "Clean up Day" the patrons met and mowed the weeds and grass and raked off real nicely, made a sand walk from the railroad to the school house. We have an auxiliary of the Junior Order, viz: the Daughters of America, with 35 or 40 members who are delighted with the order. Come on boys and get in to the Junior Order and help us push the good work along.
