Black's

CHEMICAL MANURE.

The subscriber calls attention to the annexed certificates of practical farmers who have tested his unrivaled Chemical Manure. It is cheap and it is efficacious—accomplishing all the results of the best fertilizers, at one-fifth the expense. It is invaluable to farmers—Apply to the subscriber at Diamond Hill, or agent at Abbeville C. H.

J. R. BLACK, Diamond Hill P. O.

THIS is to certify, That I have used J. R. Black's Compound Chemical Manure, (made on the Farm), cost Eleven Dollars per ton. I am fully satisfied with it. Cotton manured with it does not fire, and its fruit is equal to cotton manured with other standard fertilizers.

CONRAD WAKEFIELD, Oct. 7, 1871.

THIS is to certify, That I have used J. R. Black's Compound Chemical Manure, (Made on Farm), cost Eleven Dollars per ton. I manured with this manure and Etivan No. 2, on the same land, and after careful picking and weighing, find it equal, if not better than the Etivan.

SAMUEL C. SHAW, Oct. 7, 1871.

THIS is to certify, That I have used J. R. Black's Compound Chemical Manure, (made on the Farm), cost Eleven Dollars per ton, and I am fully satisfied that it is the best as well as the cheapest manure I have ever tried. I have used several of the standard fertilizers.

R. L. WILLIAMS, Oct. 6, 1871.

THIS is to certify, That we have examined the crop of cotton grown on the farm of Mr. J. R. Black, and are free to say that it is the largest plant, and the fullest fruited by any of any cotton we have seen. Manure used, J. R. Black's Compound Chemical Manure (made on the farm), at a cost of Eleven Dollars per ton.

J. T. HADDON, JOHN L. BLACK, MCDUFFIE HADDON, J. H. BELL, JAMES CARWILE, W. WICKLIFFE, DAVID CRAWFORD, D. M. MILLFORD, C. JONES, State of South Carolina, ABBEVILLE COUNTY.

To all whom it may concern.

I, Matthew McDonald, Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas and General Sessions for said County, State aforesaid, do hereby certify, That I am personally acquainted with the signers to the preceding certificates, and take pleasure in saying that they are several able honorable gentlemen, and are men of credit and veracity, and are practical and good farmers in the County aforesaid.

Valuable Saluda Lands For Sale

In Abbeville County.

THE Executors of the Estate of J. W. MOORE, dec'd, will sell to the highest bidder on SALE DAY (4th) IN DECEMBER next, at Abbeville County House

600 ACRES OF LAND,

Lying six miles North East of Hodges Depot, bounded on the North East by Saluda River, West by Mulberry Creek, Turkey Creek runs through the center of the land. In this tract there are about 300 acres of cultivable lands;

150 ACRES of the Finest Bottom Lands

In section of the country. The CORN LANDS will average from 25 to 40 Bushels to the acre. 75 Acres of the Bottom Land is suitable for COTTON, and its production is second to no other in the up-country. All of the uplands in cultivation are good. About 125 of this tract is in original forest, and the balance is in old fields—a considerable portion of which may be brought into profitable cultivation.

The place has reasonably good improvements in the way of tenement houses, comfortable dwelling, stables, barns, &c. Owing to the water bounds, very little leveling is necessary to keep up the plantation.

Also, At the same time and place, the Executors will sell

237 ACRES, Known as the "Razor Place,"

Lying on Turkey Creek, bounded by lands of Mrs. R. A. Moore, J. C. Walters, C. L. Smith and others. Of these lands about 75 acres are in a good state of cultivation, the balance being in bottom land. A reasonable portion of the tract is in original forest, and the balance in old fields.

The buildings on this place are sufficiently adapted for tenants. Also, stables, barns, &c.

Terms made known on day of sale.

FURNITURE.—A splendid lot of new BUREAUS, with and without Marble Tops, at very low prices.

Nov. 21 J. D. CHALMERS & CO.

The Love Letter.

She took it in her trembling hands, And broke the careful seal; The wave of life on golden sands, Stood for a moment still.

She read the superscription o'er, And broke the careful seal; The precious burden that it bore, She did not read but feel.

O, earth, so green with summer now, O, sky of heavenly blue! O, mated birds on every bough! Her thoughts are not of you!

The hum of friendly tones below, The life of pleasant care, That away her soul an hour ago, Now rule no longer there.

She knows a love too pure and high, For simple words to speak; Its glory glimmers in her eye, And blushes on her cheek.

He has no promise to allure, No fairy tale to tell; The still of honest love is sure To work its purpose well.

It seems the flatterer's subtle art, The worldling's acted lies; But storms the fortress of the heart, And bears away the prize.

Yet brave as spurred and belted knight, More tender still than brave, He lifts the victim into light, Himself the willing slave.

O, Love, thy kingdom stands secure, Born with Creation's day; The sweet dominion shall endure When earth has passed away.

FRANCE

Parisian correspondence throws more light upon the popular reaction in favor of Napoleon. The result of the recent elections was a surprise to many sanguine and short-sighted Republicans. The Bonapartists voted, but not as large as that party expected, but at the same time it was twice as large as anybody else expected. The most striking point in these elections is that the legitimate vote was very small, and the Orleansists vote result, therefore, is, that the field has been narrowed down to the contest between the Imperialists and the Republicans. The former gain adherents every day. A correspondent relates an occurrence which illustrates the present state of public sentiment. A party of women were making purchases in a shop. "After all," said one, "if things go on in this way two months longer, they'll have to call back the one they have elected to despise so much." "Yes," said another, "say what they may about Napoleon III, he was good to the poor. For my part, the sooner he comes back the better." Public talk has a great effect upon the French, and immediately every one in the shop was eager to say a good word for the Emperor. The numerous taxes levied by the Republicans, whether necessary or not, cannot be borne by the people. They see that they are poorer and not so well governed, and naturally long for a return of the old, pleasant, prosperous days.

The Opinion Nationale says there is a fresh departure of skilled workmen from Paris, among whom some may rank as real artists. These men are seeking employment in England, Russia and the United States. After the iconoclasm of the wholesale burning by the Commune, this exodus seems to be a very singular proceeding, as there must be work enough to do in the ruined city to give employment to thousands of artisans of all descriptions. The truth is, however, that the solid thinking masses of the French people have no confidence in the pseudo republican government which now wields the destinies of the nation. Its weak, vacillating policy forbids any other scene of bloodshed and destruction, and the skilled workmen, therefore, do not care to remain where they may be called upon at any moment to cut the throats of their brethren and be deprived of the means of support. It is an ill wind that blows nobody good, and France's misfortune will prove a benefit to America in providing her with the most ingenious and skilled workmen in the world.

A STRIKING CONTRAST.—Under the head of "A Contrast," the New Orleans Picayune draws an instructive and timely parallel between the present material condition of New Jersey, government, and Louisiana, which patiently and manfully awaits to be allowed to elect one. The State government of New Jersey costs each resident sixty-four cents a year. In the State of Louisiana, with a population of 726,000—or 180,000 less than New Jersey—the expenditures for the fiscal year ending November 30, 1870, amounted to more than $7,000,000, or more than $9.69 for every man, woman and child in the State, or more than fifteen times the rate in New Jersey. New Jersey's legislative department cost $56,980 for the year. For the same year, the compensation and contingent expenses of the Louisiana Legislature amounted to $95,776, or twelve times as much. For the same year, the State printing of New Jersey cost $53,949, while that of Louisiana cost $318,446—or nearly six times as much.

SOUTH CAROLINA BONDS.—The Financial Chronicle (N. Y.) of Saturday last, says:

In State bonds, South Carolinians
