Promotion.

Captain Mazyck, has been at Hodges for the last week attending to Mr. Rowletts business, who is absent at Washington for a time. During Captain Mazyck's temporary absence, the train from here to Hodges has been under the charge of Mr. Tom Taggart, well known in this community. Mr. Taggart has been in the employ of the Railroad, for only about five months, but he went there for business and for work, and he has done hard work, and this advancement shows that the Railroad authorities appreciate his energy and have confidence in his capacity. We hope there is high promotion in store for Mr. Taggart.

Bradley.

The town of Bradley, now the head of the Augusta and Knoxville railroad is bound to become a town of note. It is the centre of one of the best agricultural communities to be found in the up-country, where there will be always a good demand for all kinds of merchandise. It will be a good centre for the shipment of crops, and enterprising capitalists who desire to build and grow with its growth should now bestir themselves. All the surroundings are favorable to the development of a good town.

First Honor Man.

Mr. W. H. Parker, Jr., son of Mr. W. H. Parker, of this place, was awarded the first honor in his class, at the recent examination in the Charleston College. Abbeville has a just pride in her sons, and they always do her honor wherever they may go, and Mr. Parker has done himself and his home great credit in the high position that he has attained. We congratulate him on his advancement, and hope he may climb in the high Temple of Fame.

Gone to California.

Mr. James M. Lawson of our town is off for California, where he goes prospecting for a new home. We predict that he will find no better place than Abbeville, and California will welcome to her borders no better man than James M. Lawson. Mr. Lawson is sure to come back.

Good Sermon.

This week we reproduce a most excellent sermon from the Rev. Dr. Talmage on the subject of Profanity. If it does not restrain you from this evil practice, it certainly will entertain you for fifteen minutes. Commence it, and you will be sure to finish reading it.

Garfield and Rosecrans.

We give much space to the Garfield-Rosecrans troubles, and believe the reader will find it well worth his trouble to read it. As to the merits of the questions involved we do not speak, but as a matter of history, it is well to be informed.

Poor Clyburne.

Read what the Governor says of the case of J. J. Clyburne of Sumter, who has been sentenced to be hanged. It seems that he was justly convicted, and that the Governor will not interfere to prevent the execution of the sentence of death.

Greenbackers.

Col. Samuel Wallingford will speak at Hodges next Saturday, and at Ninety-Six on the first Saturday in April. At 1 o'clock at each place. The people of Troy may expect a visitation from the same orator on Saturday April 8th.

If the candidates do not soon begin to send in their $5 bills to announce their names as candidates we fear that we may go hungry this spring and summer. The great trouble is, that a very few, like to become candidates. Some of our people are so modest that they almost hide from public places, for fear some office will be shoved on them any way. This modesty is bad on printers, and we shall not hereafter aid the election of any man who declines to become a candidate. We do not believe in thrusting honors on people who do not want them.

The Anderson Journal seconds the nomination of Major R. F. Whitner as a candidate for Attorney General, and makes some beautiful speculations as to how his fellow bachelor editors are to be disposed of (matrimonially) in restoring peace and good will between the North and South, without once saying what was to become of the Journal editor the last account we had of him, he was visiting "relatives" in Spartanburg.

The Orangeburg Times and Democrat has been recently very much enlarged and greatly improved. It is now an eight column patent outside paper, and the home printed inside is all that skill and business tact can make it. This is really an excellent paper, and we are glad to note the evidences of progress which that paper is making. The people of Orangeburg should be abundantly satisfied with the Times and Democrat.

The Lord Loveth a Cheerful Giver.—Mr. G. A. Visanska has been requested to make a collection of money for the relief of needy immigrant Jews, who are fleeing from the persecutions of the Old World. This is a good cause and we hope that our people may find it in their hearts to do something for the "scattered nation."

Miss Anna Black a lady of experience taste and ability will assist Mrs. Bowie at the Emporium this season, and she having selected in person their elegant stock of millinery goods, the ladies may rest assured of all the very latest styles, and novelties being on exhibition at this establishment.

Some of our young men have bought patent churn dashers, and will henceforth "churn a churning of butter milk," when they go visiting. One of these gentlemen expects to furnish every family in Texas with one of those incomparable hack-action dashers—and Texas is a big State, too.

Gun Burst.—A shot gun burst last Saturday in the hands of Willie Burkhead, a colored tenant on Mrs. Jones' place in Fort Pickens. The thumb was torn off and another finger so badly injured that amputation was necessary. The hand was otherwise injured.

Accidental Shooting.—Master James W. Perrin, son of Captain J. W. Perrin, while out hunting last Thursday accidentally discharged his gun, some of the shot passing through one of his toes. The wound is somewhat painful though not of a serious nature.

The Abbeville Medical Society is under a debt of gratitude to Hon. D. W. Aiken for the Official Gazette, issued from the patent office at Washington, D. C. It is kept on file at Dr. Parker's drug store, where it may be inspected at any time.

Read the communication of "Anti-monopoly." It seems that there are two sides to the tree question, and that there is more in the matter than we first thought. We hope to hear more from this correspondent.

Mr. Eugene Prather, compositor in the Press and Banner office, is convalescent, and his boarding house keeper is alarmed at his appetite, though a new shipment of turkeys is daily expected.

Mr. Jas. A. Bowie of the Emporium having just returned from the Northern markets is now receiving daily, bargains, and all the newest styles, in millinery and ladies goods generally.

It is said, by experienced farmers that the fly in the oats will not injure it much, that the oats are too far advanced to be hurt by them. An abundant crop is predicted.

Capt. L. W. White left for New York yesterday, where he will buy a large stock of the choicest and best goods. Call at the store as soon as his goods arrive.

Miss Josie LeGal, aunt of Miss LeGal, of the Female College, died at Due West last Friday night, after a lingering illness. She was recently from Raleigh, N C.

Knox's hotel is doing an excellent business in entertaining visitors to the town. Good rooms, polite attention, and choice eating, will tell in the hotel business.

Those of our readers who may be threatened with the Texas fever ought to read the letter from Dr. Brooks, which will be found in another column.

The sale of the assigned goods of the Messrs. Norwood Brothers took place last Saturday. The engine was sold to Mr. B. K. Beacham for $205.

We have had very little of the windy weather which we usually expect in March. The winds yesterday afternoon blew for several hours.

It is said that Mr. T. H. Walker will return to Abbeville for the purpose of opening a place at which the thirsty may slake thirst.

A pair of English sparrows have made their appearance in town, and taken quarters in a shade tree in front of the post office.

Messrs. J. H. Hogan and J. B. Wilson proprietors of the Saluda Argus, were in town several days last week.

Capt. J. W. Perrin, County Treasurer, left yesterday for Columbia to have a settlement with the State Treasurer.

Dr. H. D. Wilson, will be absent from his office, at Hodges for three or four days from next Monday.

A party of young men from Abbeville went to the Flatwoods yesterday on a pleasure excursion.

Mrs. S. M. Calhoun and Miss Kate Calhoun, have gone to Georgia on a visit to relatives.

The wife of Calvin Grant and Renta Bailey, both colored, died in town last week.

Mr. H. D. Reese has commenced the erection of his new dwelling on Floral Hill.

Miss McCaw, sister to Mrs. L. W. Perrin, is paying a visit to her relatives here.

It seems that debtors have forgotten the way to the office of the printers hereof.

Mrs. Charlotte Reid, widow of the late Rev. Henry Reid, is convalescent.

And now it seems that the fly, or bug or worm, is destroying our grain crops.

The way faring man has a light unto his feet, in front of Knox's Hotel.

Reports have it that the fly has ruined the barley crops about town.

We now receive the mails twice a day —at 1½ and 6¾ o'clock P. M.

Messrs. A. M. Hill & Sons have white washed their stable.

Miss Mamie Zeigler went on a visit to Cokesbury last week.

Mr. Clarkson, agent of the Register, was in town last week.

The Florence Times wants a cotton factory in that town.

Just arrived a car of hay and wheat bran at Smith & Son.

There was a cotton seed oil drummer in town last week.

50,000 good brick for sale at Kurz brick yard cheap.

Mr. Sprouse is getting ready to grind meal at the depot.

Bran! bran! a first class wheat bran at Smith & Son.

Is the fly eating your barley? It has devoured ours.

When in need of hay and bran, call on Smith & Son.

Hay! hay! Timothy hay at Smith & Son.

Captain Bonham returned last Monday.

The farmers are still hauling off guano.

The sun shined warm last Sunday.

Notes From the Town of Bradley.

Editors Press and Banner:

You have often asked me to write something for your paper, about the Augusta and Knoxville railroad, its progress and prosperity, and what I thought of its ultimate success. I always felt that I had an important part to perform. There were plenty of men to do the talking and writing, while those who were willing to lend a helping hand to push on the enterprise were like angels visits, few and far between. But, Messrs. Editors, the outlook of discouragement and opposition of almost every character, and in spite of the prediction of false Prophets the road reached this place on yesterday, at 2 o'clock P. M. To put a stop to the useless clamour that has been going on almost ever since the work commenced I will try and give you a correct statement of the condition of the road at this time, its present workings and future prospects, and first, the main thing is money, and of that important factor we have enough to complete the road to Greenwood, all the timber necessary for its construction is on the road and paid for, trestling and water ways are nearly all completed. Our only trouble is getting the iron for the track with the necessary fixtures and finding clamps, bolts and spikes. Whilst there may have been some mistakes made in the fore part of last year in not laying in a good supply of those things in time, for the last four or five months I know everything has been done that could have been done to get a supply and keep it on hand, the fault does not lie for that period of time with the officers of the road; there is so much demand for Railroad iron that it is impossible for the foundaries to supply it promptly.

To show you we can work when we have the necessary material to work with I will give you the result of one days operations. On last Thursday Capt. Twiggs Superintendent and Chief Engineer, being in charge of the work personally, laid one mile and three quarters of track with the following force: One engine and train, one engineer and fireman, one train hand and fifty-eight hands on the track. The iron was hauled from seven to eight and a half miles; the road bed was leveled up, the cross-ties laid on the track, three water ways put in. The material necessary to do this was three hundred and eight thousand pounds, ten thousand pounds of spikes, thirty-nine hundred and sixty cross-ties, weighing over half a million of pounds, making an aggregate of eight hundred thousand pounds or thirteen thousand two hundred and twent-nine pounds to the hand. I guess it would be very hard to produce a parallel to this. If we could only get material to work with, the road would be completed in a few days.

The prospects of the road are flattering. Even now in its half finished condition it is earning a thousand dollars per month over current expenses. Fine quarries of granite are being worked on the line of the road, a few beds of manganese will soon be opened and ready for shipment. Almost the entire line of the road is lined with wood ready for shipment, all of which finds a ready market in Augusta. Every few miles along the road little towns and hamlets are springing up; evidences of improvement and thrift appear on every side, and what a few years ago was almost a desolate and uncultivated waste, is now beginning to bloom and blossom as the rose. And now, Messrs. Editors, let me say to you and through you, to my fellow citizens: Let us not slack our hands but press on the good work. The Valley Road is yet to be built and must be built, so is the Atlantic and French Broad, and so is the Spartanburg and Laurens, then let our people cease their wrangling about petty lines and grievances, and with united hands and hearts to work and complete all these enterprises. There is no fairer land nor better country than old South Carolina. Let us go to work like men and make her what she is capable of being made—a model State in every respect.

I am often asked why I am so anxious to build a road to Augusta. There are several reasons. Her merchants are pleasant and high-toned gentlemen, she is rapidly becoming the leading manufacturing town of the South. The day is not far distant when she will manufacture all the cotton that can be taken there, and it will be much better for the producer to sell his cotton directly to the manufacturer than to a middle man and pay expenses on it to Fall River or Liverpool. Augusta has also the finest flouring mills in the South, one of the great needs of our community, and with her present rate of growth, she will soon have a hundred thousand inhabitants, that will give us a market for everything, we can raise from a bale of cotton to a blackberry. She is also in close connection with three of the best ports on the South Atlantic -- Charleston, Port Royal and Savannah—these are some of the reasons why I want to go to Augusta.

OUGHT TO BE MADE TO PAY FOR THE TREES.

C. & G. R. R. Co. Against the Landowners.

Editors Press and Banner:

The last issue of the Press and Banner contains an editorial headed "Needless Tears," which suggests the propriety of a short article, giving you further information on the same subject to which you allude. I am aware that editors know all about "building railroads, organizing armies and commanding navies," as you incidentally remarked in your comments on the progress of the A. & K. Railroad, but still you must admit, there are some things editors don't know. The issue between the C. & G. R. R. Co. and the landowners along its route, is not one of sentiment to eventuate in "tears," but it is an issue of stern justice. I will not affirm or deny the right of the company here (in the absence of a tribunal with jurisdiction competent to settle the matter) to any given area, but I do affirm that it has no right to use private property without compensating the owner therefor to the full extent of its value. The C. & G. R. R Co. has assumed the right to cut down all timber within 100 feet of the centre of their track and have entered upon the execution of their work. They have gone through the lands of many of those who did not protest, in some instances they have bulldozed the parties into submission by threats of suit if they interfered with their employees, but in every instance where they have met with a resolute opponent they have gracefully retired and left the trees unfelled. Now, Mr. Editor, if the company greatly desired this thing for improving the appearance or enhancing the value of their property, which is the only effect that could result from it, would it not have been much more equitable and just to have first negotiated with the land owners for a reasonable compensation for the privilege of cutting their timber? Such, however, is not their policy. This unwarrantable assumption is an outrage on the rights of private property, and the people are justly filled with a spirit quite different from that in which effuses itself in "tears." If the company was made to pay, as it should, a round price for every tree cut, it would also have a more enlightened sense of the rights of others—such a course would be a good moralizer, don't you think? There are some other matters about the conduct of Railroad companies which it is questionable whether editors know, of which I will inform you in some future communication.

1882,

SUBSCRIBE FOR IT!

The Chronicle and Constitutionalist is the oldest newspaper in the South, and perhaps the oldest in the United States, having been established in 1785. While thoroughly Democratic in principle, it is liberal, progressive and tolerant. The Chronicle contains the latest news from all parts of the world, and is recognized as a first-class paper.

As an advertising medium, it covers the country in Georgia and South Carolina tributary to Augusta.

We endeavor to exclude sensationalism. We publish no articles of an immoral character.
