Some Old Letters.

We have received the copy of "some old letters," for publication. We presume the interesting part of these letters is the bad spelling. For instance: "skool," "malisher" company; "sed," "akers," etc.

In the first place no man has a right to spell in this way unless the phonetic style is adopted.

A man is justified in wrong spelling only when he wishes to print provincialisms or home-made words, that are not in accord with our language.

To mispell words, is an offense against the language, and we all offend, often enough, even when doing the best we can. We intentionally put no bad spelling in our paper, however often it may occur. Our rule is to do the best we can under the circumstances.

The Election.

The election for six delegates to the State Convention came off yesterday. As far as we have heard the day was a quiet one, though considerable interest was felt in all parts of the county, and generally a pretty fair vote was cast.

At Abbeville the vote was, we believe, the largest ever cast at this precinct.

Mr. W. C. McGowan the Conservative candidate, ran right along with the leading Reformers, receiving the votes of both factions, and the Conservatives, without regard to previous factional bias, voted for the reform candidates. Only a few men remained away from the polls at this place.

The campaign was one of the pleasantest that we have had for years. The candidates were cordial in their relations, and the people had none of the factional feeling.

The result has proved the wisdom of not going into a trade, combine, or armed neutrality, by which the delegates were to be divided between the factions. The race was every man's race, and as a result, we believe that harmony has been restored to our people. It is true, and we believe it is true, that this campaign has resulted in good.

FUNERAL MARCHES.

Hearse for White and Colored People.

Mr. John W. Sign has recently procured a hearse, especially for the use of colored people. It is the "St. Paul" design.

His hearse for white people has been recently repaired and made more beautiful than ever.

Mr. Sign has had thirty years experience in the undertaking business, and has in store almost anything that might be needed on funeral occasions.

The Colored Institute.

The Institute for colored teachers of Abbeville county, will convene in Poplar Grove Graded School building, on Monday morning, August 12th, at 9 o'clock.

Every teacher is expected to be present during the whole session. Board and lodging can be had reasonably cheap at Mrs. Francis Lomax's and DeVore's boarding house.

The Institute will be in charge of that veteran Institute conductor, Prof. J. E. Wallace, of the Howard Graded School, Columbia, S. C. The County Teachers' Association will convene during the week of the Institute for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing scholastic year.

J. W. Lee, Pres. County Teachers' Association.

Primary Election, June 30, 1895.

As far as heard from last night at the time of going to press the following is the result of the vote:

TROY'S TEACUPS.

People You Know and People You Don't Know.

Troy, S. C., July 29, 1895.

Prof. S. P. McGregory, after spending two weeks in Doarville, Ga., returned home last Thursday.

Mrs. John Latimer and children, of Greenwood, are with relatives here.

Mrs. J. S. Jay and little Ethel, of Greenwood, are down with her daughter, Mrs. O. E. Fronties.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Chatham and Mr. E. H. Chatham, of Fellowship, are here with her father, Mr. A. A. Chatham.

Miss Edna Griffin and Miss Mamie Chatham two pretty and accomplished young ladies of Fellowship, are here with their father, Mr. A. A. Chatham.

Miss Lillie Childs, of Greenville, is visiting her grandfather, Mr. James Wideman.

Dr. Arthur Wideman and his sister, Miss Eula, are attending the Baptist meeting at this place.

Rev. O. G. Burton's meeting is well attended. Rev. Blalock's sermon added much to the music yesterday.

Protracted meeting will begin here in the A. R. C. church on Friday before the 2nd Sabbath of next month and will commence here in the M. E. church next Sabbath morning.

Rev. Johnson, of Abbeville, and Mr. T. J. Britt, of Buffalo, attended service here last night.

The young people of Long Cany. picniced at Mr. A. Kennedy's school house last Saturday.

Miss Lillie Williams, of Verdery, is here with her cousin, Miss K. Neal.

Rev. and Mrs. R. F. Bradley entertained a number of friends last Wednesday night in honor of Mr. Jim Bradley and wife of Wilmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Clinkscales of Antreville are royally entertained at the brother's, Mr. J. F. Clinkscales.

Mr. Henry Agnew, of Due West, was in town last week.

There seems to be very little interest here over the election which comes off tomorrow, Tuesday.

Miss Basabel Smart is off to Bluffton, to spend a month.

Mr. Tatum Bradley, of Clemson College, is home for a few days.

Mrs. Francis Bradley is spending sometime at Little Mountain, with her daughter, Mrs. T. F. Thompson.

Miss Maggie Cresswell gave a pleasant ice cream party last week.

Miss Laura Robinson and Miss Lilla Wideman, two pretty little girls, were placed on the roll of the A. R. C. Sabbath school for having been present every Sabbath for twelve months. A fine record, little girls.

Rev. T. M. Galtin, of Augusta, who is assisting in the Baptist meeting, illustrates his evening sermons with stereotypical views.

Our boys are enjoying the afternoon playing base ball. They are getting ready for a challenge, and they are hard to beat.

Our streets are worked a little "cyclone" in spots, so to speak.

Mrs. Willie Bryant, who has been here for a week, leaves today for an early September, and two of our young people will be as one.

AN OLD MAN GONE.

Death of Albert J. Clinkscales at an Advanced Age.

Albert J. Clinkscales of this county died at his home in the Lowndesville section on last Sunday, aged 76.

Mr. Clinkscales had been in feeble health for years, and his death was unexpected. He had felt for years that the end might come at any time, and he had made all his arrangements to the minutest detail, even going so far as to buy a burial case, which was left with the undertakers Messrs. McGill & Tolly, at Abbeville.

In many respects Mr. Clinkscales was a wonderful man, and his career has been a remarkable one.

Possessed of good judgment and indomitable energy he was one of the notable successful farmers of this county, and though he met with reverses when he went into ventures, whose result was left to others, yet he never lost his spirit, and always was equal to the emergency.

By the war large tracts of land and adapted himself to the new order of things. Although he had lost an arm, and was feeble in body, he was a large more brick and put a large estate. He invested his money in a Pendleton enterprise, where in the hands of others it was a great success.

Retaining his spirit and pluck he went to work with renewed energy, and soon regained a competency.

Mr. Clinkscales belonged to one of the oldest, as well as one of the most numerous families in Abbeville county, and like his many kinsmen and kindred, he was noted for his honesty and integrity. Honest himself, he accorded the same high standard to others, and this confidence in human nature, sometimes cost him dearly.

THE FACTORY.

Everything Moving on Nicely—Subscriptions Still Coming In.

The first kind of brick for the factory has been burnt, and is now ready for the walls, and the contractors, Messrs. McMillan & Wilson, are busy making more brick and putting them into kilns. About one hundred and fifty thousand are already in the second kiln.

Since our last report some subscriptions to the capital stock have been received, and it is thought a considerable additional amount will be subscribed within the next few days.

If the subscriptions are received that we expect a meeting of the stock holders will be called to instruct the directors as to their future course.

It is altogether probable that efforts will be made to build the house before Christmas.

The factory, when completed will be a great thing for our town. Even the money expended in putting up the building will be a help to our people. The five or six thousand dollars for brick alone will be a help to the whole of which will be paid to Abbeville men, the most of which will be spent right here in town.

The people of Abbeville will note with pleasure the fact that Dr. Ancrum has been identified himself with us by taking stock in our chief enterprise, the Abbeville Cotton Mill. He is in thorough sympathy with us, and expresses his confidence and gives us by giving a liberal cash subscription, with more to come.

THE SICK HEALED.

From a Bed of Affliction to Health and Good Spirits.

Editor Press and Banner, S. C., July 30, 1895.

Four weeks ago Mr. A. E. Norris, the well known insurance man from Cokesbury, S. C., after an illness of five months, left his sick bed and went to Chester, S. C., to receive treatment at the Hospital of Dr. M. DeVega.

After a long and arduous journey, that skillful surgeon found that his system was thoroughly septic. It was determined that two dangerous and delicate operations were the only means for relief, and these were most skillfully performed, and have proven wonderfully successful.

Mr. Norris returned home last Friday, the 26th ult., much improved in every way, and says he feels like a new man. He glories in the accounts of his visit to Chester, and of the magnificent treatment he received at the Devaga Hospital.

For several days after the operations recovery seemed almost impossible, but the able and dexterous manner in which Dr. DeVega treated the complicated disease, and the constant attention he daily administered, soon proved most effective and for two weeks past Mr. Norris has been improving rapidly.

After his recovery he returned to his family and work in good health and feeling, he says better than he has in ten years. There are scores of friends all over the State who will rejoice with Mr. Norris in his good fortune.

Reflections as to the Political Result—Personalities of Many Kinds.

Ninety-Six, S. C., July 29, 1895.

Well, Mr. Editor, ere this is published the election will be over, the record be made, and the result be known. For some people the strain has been too much, and they are not in the mood to sympathize with them. All of the candidates could not be elected, and for those who were elected, they will do what in their judgment is best for their country and State, and will try to be satisfied with what will be done.

Camp J. Foster, who has abandoned the bar, and is now in the view of the weather and short crops we think it was eminently proper. So there will be no barbecue this year.

Miss Fannie Brabham, of Edgefield, one of the sweetest and nicest young ladies we know of is here now for a short stay with her sister Mrs. J. S. Wilson.

The town of Dysons was entirely destroyed by fire on last Thursday night. Two stores, two warehouses and some other out buildings besides the contents of the stores. The loss will amount to about $500, with small insurance. Messrs. Field & Crook and Messrs. Walton & Co. were the losers.

Prof. Rice, of Cokesbury, has been visiting here the past week.

The colored people are having a protracted service at the Baptist church. A Sunday school convention was largely attended here yesterday. Speakers from a distance were on hand.

James H. Rice, Jr., editor in chief of the Evening News, of Columbia, ran up on Saturday evening to spend the night with friends. We think he came out first in the late controversy with the State, personal matters however, when lodged into print are generally disgusting and not appreciated by a reading public.

The members of our company thank the veterans of company D, Wyatt Aiken for courtesies extended them at the barbecue on the 24th.

Quite a large party of our young people were entertained by Mrs. C. P. Roberts, Mrs. R. S. Nickels and Mrs. J. C. Weir went over to Harris Livestock on last Tuesday for a day's outing. The day was splendid and everybody had a good time.

The Phoenix nine came over on last Friday evening and played the Ninety-Six nine. The game resulted in favor of the Phoenix nine. Capt. Henry Creswell was the manager of the visiting nine.

Mr. Robert Moore, of Waterloo, was over here the past week.

Mr. Cleburn Anderson and wife and little babe, of Coronaca, were down last Saturday night to visit with friends.

The rule among the young men in town is to cut off their mustache when their girls go on them. Look around and you can tell who has been here.

Messrs. Kinard and McCaslin are still out on the "war path". Evidently their hot dry weather must be irksome.

Miss Kate Carter, a pretty young lady from Edgefield, is visiting her sister Mrs. R. W. Townsend.

Mr. W. H. Frazier was run into by a bicycle at Greenwood and came near being seriously hurt on last Monday.

The writer desires to extend to Comrade Arch Ellis special thanks for courtesies shown him at Greenwood last Wednesday.

If we don't get rain soon the corn crop will be cut off more than half.

Mr. W. L. Anderson and family, of St. George, are here spending a short while with friends. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are great favorites with their friends here.

Prof. and Mrs. Cove have gone to the mountains for the summer.

Dog days commenced on the 27th and continue 40 days.

The Misses Beard have gone to Edgefield to spend some time. Miss Ellie will be so well when she left.

Large watermelons were sold here Saturday at 5 cents a piece. Over 100 melons were sold. Chickens sold for 10 and 12 cents each.

Forrest Wallace, of Edgefield, is visiting her husband's family here.

SOUTH CAROLINA

State Dental Association Met in Spartanburg, S. C.

I returned from this Association last Friday evening. We had a good time indeed. I would like for our people to have some knowledge of its work, but cannot call the subjects to mind, as they were brought before the Association. I will say if not prevented that I will extend to the people an invitation to meet with us after the meeting in Columbia, S. C., which will be two years from this summer.

All the work done in these meetings is free. I can say that the cream of dentistry can be found in this Association.

After opening the meeting the young dentists apply for State License and membership. Among the applicants were Dr. P. J. Crymes, of our town, and Dr. J. C. Crymes, of Edgefield. They were all examined by the State Board of Dental Examiners, and came out successful. We hope they will all make useful members and add much to the Association.

On Wednesday night the Association was invited to an entertainment at Converse College given by the good people of Spartanburg. Prof. Peters favored us with the grandest music of the day. He performed on a pipe organ, and played a grand variety of music. The organ has two doors in it on each side of the keyboard and it looks very funny to see the young ladies come walking out of the organ through these doors.

After the music was over supper was announced and we all went down to the basement and enjoyed that part of the evening entertainment very much. I saw several persons. I knew the only ones I can call to mind besides the dentist, Prof. J. C. Crymes, of Edgefield, Dr. Grier, of Due West and Miss Belle Barksdale from Converse College. I can say with confidence that she looked as pretty and as sweet as any of the Spartanburg ladies. When asked her name, I felt sure that it was not Mrs. Barksdale from Greenwood. I would have been glad to meet more of Greenwood's fair daughters. I could have told their names with gladness also.

On Thursday night we were invited by the manager of the Hotel to go to the opera house and spend the night there, and he would give us an entertainment. All who went enjoyed it very much. The music was fine, and there was back, supper, entertainment, breakfast and all the water we could drink costing only $1.00.

Yours respectfully, E. G. Martin, D. D. S.

A Trip to Savannah River.

On last Thursday morning a party of young ladies and gentlemen from the Sharon neighborhood went to the Savannah river for a few days pleasure.

They were accompanied by Messrs. D. Gilliam, J. Taggart, H. Penning, Mrs. McNeill and Mrs. McKenna as chaperons, who saw to the comfort and pleasure of the party, and did all in their power to make the trip pleasant.

Everything passed off much to their satisfaction. In the evening there was dancing, the music being furnished by the Messrs. Cowans from Wilmington, S. C., who played whenever they were requested, and the music was enjoyed and appreciated by the whole party, for they could for the first time, and hope will soon have the pleasure of listening to their sweet music again.

While there we had the pleasure of meeting Mr. and Mrs. Beal, residents of the Calhoun estate who showed us all the kindness they could for which the party extends many thanks.

We were favored with fine weather, and enjoyed the delightful scenery. A party of young people spent a few pleasant hours on the river in boats.

A part of the young ladies and gentlemen known as the "Ark," drawn by six mules.

On our return we came by the way of "Calhoun's Falls," at which place we stopped for refreshments, then to the mineral spring, and then home.

With plenty to eat and good cooks and no weather to mar the pleasure, the company enjoyed everything excepted in a most enjoyable manner.

"Pulsations": or Peace in Individual.

Some one had just spoken unkind words of and to me. Instantly my blood seemed to have fire in it; very quickly my pulse beat more rapidly; when I had gathered the full import of the offending utterance the blood was coursing madly through my body. I was angry. For the time, the sweet spirit of God's peace was far away. I was angry with the fellow-creature who had intentionally or unintentionally, wounded me, and the only immediate thought I had was retaliation, i. e. "getting even." Three were ready on my tongue such words as I knew would "vanquish" my "adversary"; but at that instant came the thought, "Suppose my friend did not mean to hurt me, did not speak with that wisdom which should always govern and accompany reproach?" Ah! blessed thought! "A soft answer turneth away wrath." Yes, verily, for in that instant, my blood cooled, the pulsations from my angry heart became calmer, more peaceful; my lips kept back the biting words I would have spoken: I gained a victory in personal peace, and preserved a better friend than I had had before.

Ah! those troublesome "pulsations"! How quickly do they come and go, and how much of peace or turmoil do they govern! When the heart beats hot and hard, the divine that is in us is soon swallowed up in the seething passions of the brute, and we are weaker than before, more prone to "give way" to the hasty word.

Strangely appropriate does it seem that this word "pulsation" is recognized as so indicative of passion that it has been incorporated in legal phraseology, denoting "batter." So fully accepted was it in this sense that in the Cornelian law "pulsation" was specifically prohibited. So, if the pulsation of each heart be controlled, the tongue and hand will remain peaceful, and there will be no "batter,"—no, nor ill feelings, one toward another. All will be peace and love; and where peace and love predominate in individual hearts there can be no "pulsations" of hatred and war in the hearts of nations.—A. B. Love, Jr., in Christian Neighbor.

Selections From the Writings of Many Persons.

No. 3.

BY JOHN HEMMENWAY.

The reason why we urge Friends to move forward in the great Peace reform is, that they as a church have always borne a testimony against war. We think all other Christians ought to occupy the same ground on this question that the friends do. So clear and plain are the teachings of Christ and the Apostles on the subject, and the example of the Church of Christ for the first three centuries of the Christian era, it would seem that no follower of the Lamb could have any doubts that the Gospel of Christ was a Gospel of Peace. But it is a sorrowful fact that nine tenths of those who claim to be the followers of Jesus do not regard this subject in this light, hence the Society of Friends has a mission to her sister churches as well as to the world on this section.—Daniel Hill in the Messenger of Peace.

The life of the whole Christian world depends on prayer. If prayer should cease it would wither and die. O how important is prayer.

Suppressed Testimony Brought to Light.

In the Episcopal Recorder, of June 13, is an interesting and clearly instructive communication by Josiah W. Leeds concerning the suppression of the testimony of John de Wyckliffe against war and in advocacy of the principles of peace as maintained by the Primitive Christians. This suppression of testimony by men who wrote about Wyckliffe may have been from inexcusable ignorance or was designed to leave out the testimony of so good and great a man against the abominable villainies of war. The communication is rather long for our columns. We quote a paragraph in which friend Leeds says:

"I have lately made an excursion into the bibliography of that sturdy English reformer, who has been often referred to as 'the Morning Star of the Reformation,' to ascertain to what extent publicity was given to a certain one of his Christian testimonies not commonly associated with his name; for, it is not generally known that John de Wyckliffe, called the greatest of all Reformers before the Reformation, was an advocate of the principles of peace as maintained by the Primitive Christians."—From Christian Neighbor.

Kindness to Dumb Animals.

Though horses and mules cannot speak, yet the cruel treatment which many of them suffer appeals the more earnestly and feelingly for relief. Owners of these animals should not trust thoughtless or reckless men or boys to manage their stock. They should see to it themselves that not only their working stock do not suffer for food and water, and are not unnecessarily exposed to the hot sun, but that they are not over-loaded or over-driven and that they are not whipped or otherwise abused. The torture suffered by the overhead check-rein must be regarded as an unmerciful affliction to the horse. Surely no thoughtful or humane person should allow it. "The righteous man regardeth the life of his beast." Let owners and managers of all dumb brutes only think, think, and do as they would be done by.—Christian Neighbor.

A Wife's Due.

During the trial of an important divorce case before the superior court of Cook county, Illinois, recently summarized a portion of what a wife has a right to claim in the following forcible language:

"When a woman gives up her soul and body to a man in marriage, she is entitled by the spirit, the sanctity, 'the divinity of the relationship, to more than a mere husband-at-law, to more than a house for a shelter, 'clothes to wear and food to eat; she is entitled to respect, to confidence, to companionship, and to unfaltering love; she is entitled to chastity, as 'spotless as is demanded of her; not 'chastity born of ice, but chastity like 'charity, that doeth no evil and thinketh no evil."

There is not a husband in this broad land worthy of that name who will in his heart dissent from this declaration of what is due to a wife. Too many men are, however, prone to persuade themselves that when they provide all needed material good things for home and wife and keep their personal lives clean, they are meeting all and really marital obligations. They are too apt to be forgetful of the confidence, unfailing respect, and more than all the companionship, to say nothing of the love, which are due every good wife. These things were hers in the girlhood home from which she was transplanted, and they are essential needs of her woman's nature. Had these things been freely yielded to the wife in thousands of now wrecked families the door of the home would have been effectually closed against the approach of evil.—Chicago Chronicle.

Water as a Disinfectant.

It is not generally known, perhaps, because it may not be always credited, that pure, fresh cold water is one of the most valuable disinfectants, inasmuch as it is a powerful absorbent. Every sick room should have a large vessel of clear water, frequently renewed, placed near the bed, or even beneath the bed. This not only absorbs much of the hurtful vapor, but by its evaporation it softens and tempers the atmosphere, doing away with the dryness which is so trying and depressing to an invalid, or even to persons in health for that matter. It has frequently been shown, by actual experiment, that troubled and threatened insomnia are corrected by so simple a thing as the placing of an open bowl of water near the sufferer's bed.
