"Late" Man at Church.

I have often wondered why men sidewalk for the ladies to drag their skirts through, barefoot boys to step in and create an inward feeling of disgust in the breast of every person that passes by this "congregation of tobacco phases". There's always one in the society into the kneedress summer to the waters. It is the revoit of nature against art.

It is this feeling that empties our scalmly as a child falling to sleep in the society into the kneedress summer to a close.

But the tobacco chewer is not the only nuisance, there are others.

There's the knocker for instance. He never sees any good in anything or anybody. The town, county, State and nation is going to the devil in an automobile on the down grade. He never hears the birds sing nor sees the bowers bloom. He hasn't enough goodness in his soul to spend a smile on the sweetest child or prettiest girl in the neighborhood. You can tell him when you see him coming. His chin is elevated in the air. His brow is furrowed with wrinkles. He frowns of everybody. Before I close this article I have one more person to deal with. In fact, several persons can come under this head. Every time you go to church you see him. He's always late—never was known to get there on time. He to him whether it interrupts the preacher or molests the congregation on account of his late arrival. That's his business. He can do as he plea-es He generally stands in the door several minutes, surveying the audience with a critical eye before he enters, and feels hurt if the entire congregation does not turn completely around to look at him. He is there every Sunday on the threshold of the Lord's edificelate-and if he doesn't look out when the last trumpet sounds and old Saint Peter has passed all those who are entitled to enter through the pearly gates he will walk up just as the doors are being closed. He will then find out what it means to be "too late." I hope I will be on the other side and old Saint Peter will let me peep through the key hole at him as he saunters off down the road to stop just this side of the place where Knockers and Kickers are sojourning.

Next week I will tell you more about "The People You Meet Every Day," and maybe some of them will be just he opposite of the ones you have read

Congressman Johnson Tells of Pana-

At the conclusion of the State campaign meeting held in the court house here yesterday, Congressman Johnson was called on for a speech, and gave a brief outline of the coming campaign. His remarks on Roosevelt, whom he spoke of as an uncertain spectacular accident, were recieved with great applause. He said he hoped every Democrat would turn out and vote at the election this fall, not because there was any danger of South Carolina not going $200,000,000. for Parker, but because he wanted as large a majority as possible to show the Seeking Homes.

The United States government is opening up some nine million acres of public lands lying in Nebraska, Wyoming and South Dakota. The lands are divided into sections of 640 acres for which the settler is required to pay the nominal sum of $14.00. The officials of the land department say there has never been such a demand for homes. The government lahds about Bonesteel, S. D., are to be thrown open to settlers July 28th. Already a city of tents has sprung up on the border, and it is estimated that by date of
