Among the features offered are quartets, duets, songs in costume, reading with vocal accompaniment, emotive posing, also violin and vocal solos and readings. The following are a few press comments, taken from the many in which they are endorsed: The program rendered by the Ariel Quartet was the finest heard for a long time. The members are all stars. Their selections were heartily enjoyed.—Chester (Penn.) Times. The Ariel Quartet gave a rare musical treat. In addition to the quartet work which was exceptionally good, the individual talent displayed was of high order. Worcester (Mass.) Spy. The Ariel Quartet was pronounced one of the best attractions of the season.—La Fayette (Ala.)

Mr. A. B. Veazey, in Abbeville. A few nights ago this editor, in company with number of other guests, was entertained at the home of Mr. W. W. Bradley. Amongst those present was Mr. A. B. Veazey, Rural Route, Inspector in this Congressional District. Mr. Veazey is from the North, and we presume, like most Northern people is a Republican. It was pleasant to note, however, to note from his conversation that he fully sympathizes with the South in its problem. He advanced the idea that aside from the Booker Washington incident President Roosevelt would not have been seriously objectionable to the South; and he believes that despite the hostility shown toward the President since the Booker Washington incident, he has no unkindly feeling for this people. Mr. Veazey is a whole soul and congenial and is very much liked by those with whom his business has brought him in contact. He talks interestingly and takes a large and liberal view of the South's political policy. We hope he may come again soon and renew pleasant acquaintances.

When Success is a Failure. When you do not outstep your vocation; when you are not greater as a man than as a lawyer, a merchant, a physician, or a scientist. When you are not a cleaner, finer, larger man one account of your life-work. When you have lost on your way up to your fortune your self-control or any other quality of manhood. When the attainment of your ambition has blighted the aspirations and crushed the hopes of others. When your highest brain cell have been crowned out of business by greed. When all sympathy has been crushed out of your nature by your selfish devotion to your vocation. When you plead that you never have time to cultivate your friendship, politeness, or good manners. When you have lived a double life and practiced double-dealing. When it brings no message of culture, education, travel, or of opportunities to help others. When it dwarfs, cramps, or interferes with another's rights; when it blinds you to the interests of man at the other end of the bargain. When there is dishonest or a deceitful dollar in your possession; when your fortune spells the ruin of widows and orphans, or the crushing of the opportunities of others. When the hunger for more money, more land, more houses and bonds has grown to be your dominant passion. Orison Sweet Marden, in Success.

Rules for the One-Hundred Year Club. Sir James Sawyer, an English physician, has formulated the following nineteen rules for prolonging life to one hundred years: 1. Eight hours' sleep. 2. Sleep on your right side. 3. Keep your bed-room window open all night. 4. Do not have your bedstead against the wall. 5. No cold tub in the morning, but a bath at the temperature of the body. 6. Exercise before breakfast. 7. Eat little meat, and see that it is well cooked. 8. (For adults.) Drink no milk. 9. Eat plenty of fat, to feed the cells which destroys the disease germs. 10. Avoid intoxicants, which destroy those cells. 11. Daily exercise in the open air. 12. Allow no pet animals in your living room. They are apt to carry about disease germs. 13. Live in the country if you can. 14. Watch the three D's—drinking water, damp and drains. 15. Have a change of occupation. 16. Take frequent and short holidays. 17. Limit your ambitions; and, 18. Keep your temper.

A Certain Cure for Croup.

When a child shows symptoms of croup there is no time to experiment with new remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended. There is one preparation that can always be depended upon. It has been in use for many years and has never been known to fail, viz: Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. M. F. Compton of Market, Texas says of it: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in several cases of croup with my children, and can truthfully say it always gives prompt relief." For sale by C. A. Milford, Abbeville, S. C. H. M. Young, Due West. J. W. Morrish, Mt. Carmel.
