was done with the bodies of the white men, and the only possible conclusion is that they were thrown into the sea. All the negroes are slightly wounded. They became greatly excited when they had been put in irons, supposedly from the relaxation of the last few days. Their guarded statements indicate that from the end of the fight on Tuesday until the boarding party came on deck the four men had watched each other unceasingly, fearing treachery. The fifth negro is supposed to have been killed only a short time before the signal was flown to the King. A prize crew was left aboard the Berwind by Captain Taylor, and two tugs have left here to tow in the schooner. There is a fear that the Berwind may be lost, as a heavy gale is blowing, and the short-handed crew may be unable to bring her through in safety. United States Commissioner S. P. Collier and Deputy Marshal C. O. Knox have taken charge of the captives, who still are aboard the King, in quarantine.

Aldermen assert that they are stil municipal ownership, but not on the Dunne plan.

The "contract plan" was to lease to a company for twenty years all the city's rights in the streets, the company to be guaranteed by the city five per cent. on all moneys invested and the city to take the rest of the profits. At the end of the period the company was to turn over to the city its rolling stock and improvements for a fair compensation.

RICH MEN AS CATTLE THIEVES.

Sensation in North Dakota Over Several Recent Arrests.

Fargo, N. D.-The arrest of a banker and several supposedly honest stockmen as cattle thieves up near the Montana line has caused a great sensation. Not only are private citizens along the border of North Dakota and Montana involved, but county officials are said to have assisted the thieves through their official influence. One of the men whom it is said a full exposure will involve is a United States official, who is said to have acted as agent in selling the stock.

WOULD BURN 5000 CHURCHES.

Hamilton College's President Says Bane of Religion is Division.

Binghamton, N. Y .- "It would be better if five thousand churches were burned," was the statement of W. M. Stryker, president of Hamilton College, during his sermon at the First Congregational Church here. Dr. Stryker had for his text, "The Modern Interpretation of Providence." He was telling that the tendency of this age has been division and war.

"This tendency is apparent even in the body of Christ-the Church," said he. "In too many places churches have been erected beyond the need of communities now and for a long time to come. Many are living at a poor.

GAYNOR AND GREENE IN JAIL.

Arrangement Made for Their Comfort at Savannah-Gaynor Talks.

Savannah, Ga.-John F. Gaynor and B. D. Greene, the men who fought extradition to the United States from Canada for so many years, arrived here at 6 o'clock a. m. Their wives, who had preceded them to Savannah, met them at the station, and visited them for an hour in prison later. Ar rangements have been made to supply the men with meals from a hotel. Messrs. Gayrard and Meldrim have been engaged to represent the defendants.

John F. Gaynor, interviewed aboard the train, said: "I am glad that we are going back to Georgia. I know now what a mistake we made in leav-ing. But we cannot always tell what is for the best, and if we had known then what we know now, we never would have gone. We feel justified in every act we committed in Savannah while performing our contracts with the Government. They got value received."

HANGING NOT DEATH FOR HIM.

Prisoner's Neck Ossified, His Lawyer Warns the Court.

Chicago.-When Robert Gardiner, charged with the murder of Agnes Morrison, was arraigned, his attorney declared: "This is a case where it won't do you any good to ask for the death pen-They can't break this man's alty. They can't break this neck if they do try to hang him."

The prisoner is suffering from ossification of the vertebrae and tissues of the neck. According to Prof. Steffenson, of Rush Medical College, only five similar cases have come to medical notice. Gardiner carries his head tilted forward and slightly twisted, unable to move or incline it except with great effort.

peared to be only partly insensible. But all attempts to learn from her the details of the tragedy were unavailing. It was believed she might know the identity of her assailant, but that she was determinedly shielding him. Alexander Merritt, who took her and the body of her daughter, into town, be-came impressed with this idea. The woman made several attempts to arrange her skirts, and three times in the half hour's ride raised her head and groaned. The finding of the little girl, Leila, in the cellar, while her mother was some distance away in the barn, has caused the police to decide that the two brothers were killed before the mother and child were attacked, and that the murder of the brothers was the principal object of the murderers. The police theory is that, after having killed the men, the murderers returned to the house in search of the mother and child, intending to kill them to hide the traces of their crime.

They first made sure of the mother, chasing her into the barn, and then searched for Leila, who was found hiding in the cellar. With the child's death their object of concealment was accomplished, and the murderer or murderers, coming up from the cellar carrying the iron pipe with which the mother and daughter were evidently beaten, dropped it on the kitchen floor, where it was found.

Willis Olney was a widower, whose wife died last August, and Fred was a bachelor. Mrs. Ingerick had been employed as a housekeeper at the farm for about a month. Her husband lives at Wurtsboro, a town not far from Middletown.

In the house no traces of robbery have been found. The only articles of value known to have been taken from the brothers were two silver watches.

The old men owned their farm. They bore good reputations, although Willis C. Olney was arrested on suspicion when Mrs. Norah Gregory was murdered not far from his place in 1902. He was never tried, and Frederick Maguire went to the electric chair for the crime.

Haul Their Cotton Back Home.

An Intelligent Dog.

The owner of an old sheep-dog tells good story of his intelligence. This coolie has been much aumoyed by the conduct of a neighbor's dog. which is too lazy to bury bones for his own consumption, but greatly enjoys unearthing the treasures of others. When Dash had been deprived of several choice stores in this way he evidentiv meditated over the vexing matter, and at last a bright idea came to him.

One day after dinner, when the neighbor's dog was out of the way, Dash began to dig a hole not far from where his master sat watching him, and in it he deposited a big and still eminently desirable bone. Then he covered it well with earth, disappeared for a moment, and came trotting back with a small bone, which had seen its best and second-best days, but was still good enough, in Dash's opinion, for a thief. This bone he had laid on the earth which hid the big one, and scraped the earth over it with elaborate care. His master had the satisfaction of knowing that the ruse was successful. for the next morning he saw the thief hastily leaving the premises with a small bone in his mouth. Later in the day Dash reaped the reward of his wisdom as he sat munching the big bone at his leisure.-Scottish American.

"COLD GOLD" 'Good," He Says, "But Comfort Better.

"Food that fits is better than a gold mine," says a grateful man.

"Before I commenced to use Grape-Nuts food no man on earth ever had a worse infliction from catarrh of the stomach than I had for years. "I could eat nothing but the very lightest food and even that gave me great distress. "I went through the catalogue of prepared foods but found them all (except Grape-Nuts) more or less indigestible, generating gas in the stomach (which in turn produced headache and various other pains and aches), and otherwise unavailable for my use. "Grape-Nuts food I have found easily digested and assimilated, and it has renewed my health and vigor and made me a well man again. The catarrh of the stomach has disappeared entirely with all its attendant ills, thanks to Grape-Nuts, which now is my almost sole food. I want no other."
