THE ARMY IN REVOLT.

Russian Authorities Fear to Bring Soldiers Home From Manchuria—The Revolution Spreading. St. Petersburg, Nov. 27.—Today's news in regard to the outbreak among soldiers of the Manchurian army shows the situation to be serious. Soldiers are demanding they shall be sent home immediately and threaten to kill the officers unless their demands are granted. The soldiers have received full information in regard to recent happenings in Russia and are in a revolutionary mood. Thousands of revolutionary pamphlets have been circulated among the troops and many subordinate officers have joined the revolutionists in urging the men to revolt.

The situation is extremely grave, and authorities at St. Petersburg do not know how to meet it. They fear to bring the soldiers home and are afraid on the other hand if they do not do so there will be a general revolt in the army.

Semi-Teetotalism.

(From the New York Evening Post.) Mr. Osborne's account of his convivial habits—an abstainer here, but a moderate drinker over sea (Note to compositor: Do not set this, half-seas over—suggests a peculiar form of temperance society coming into vogue in England. It is called the "Semi-Teetotal Pledge Association," and is now a department of the Church of England Temperance society. A report from it was read at the recent church congress. The pledge which its members take is as follows: "I solemnly undertake, by God's help, to abstain from all intoxicating drinks except at my midday and evening meals." It is easy to laugh at this. Some will assert it is only a variant of the Irish saying: "Do it aisy, and if ye can't be aisy, be as aisy as ye can." But in actual fact it is found that semi-teetotalism has had a beneficial effect in doing away with drinking between meals and with "treating," or, what is still more pernicious, "nippling."

Bargains in green and roasted coffee at Link's.

Pointed Paragraphs.

A man always sympathizes with a homely boy. Sound judgement is responsible for a lot of success. Enthusiasm always starts off well, but soon springs a leak. Pretty servant girls are responsible for a lot of domestic trouble. It's now up to young men to propose—either marriage or a job. Some women use their husbands to make other women jealous. Those who have once loved can never be satisfied with common friendship. When a man becomes to shiftless to give advice he has reached the limit. Most people meander down the path of life and never realize their own unimportance. A woman has brains to be able, without any, to do so much more than men. A woman thinks she is slender when she can get in her waist without a buttonhook. It is a awful way to marry a girl when she has fooled you into thinking you are doing it. The average woman worries when she is in a dress made, or when she can't have one made. If all marriages are arranged in heaven, the Satanic majesty must have an influential friend at court. A doctor is bound to lose a few patients occasionally; but that's because they refuse to do as he tells them. Mile wagon horses are so accustomed to seeing women with their hair up in curl papers that they refuse to stare at anything.

THE "Yellow Leaf Blight" and "Red Leaf Blight," so disastrous to cotton, are both attributed, by the highest authorities, to impoverished soil—lack of Potash and nitrogen. In fact, these authorities advise liberal fertilizing with mixtures containing Kainit as the prime preventive.

"Cotton Culture," an authoritative book of 90 pages—shows, from actual photographs, healthy cotton plants fertilized with Kainit, alongside diseased plants not fertilized with Kainit—yours for the asking, absolutely free.
