EAST END.

R. F. D. NOTES OF INTEREST.

Mrs. Maggie Noel of High Springs Florida is visiting relatives in an around Abbeville; at present she is the guest of Mrs. S. S. Nelson. Dr. Moment will commence a series of sermons at Lebanon church beginning tonight (Wednesday) Rev. S. L. Wilson of Ninety Six preached at Lebanon from last Friday evening until Sunday night, a series of sermons that attracted the earnest attention of his hearers who were much pleased with him socially and as a minister.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gilliam of Abbeville were the guests of their aunt Mrs. S. B. Nelson of Lebanon last week.

Mrs. Mattie A. Wilson is spending a while with her sister Mrs. Ira B. Cannon near Hodges S. C.

Messrs J. R. Thornton and J. E. Wilson attended the Farmers Institute at Clemson last week as delegates from Abbeville; they had a very pleasant trip, but times up there were not as they "used to be" as they say it.

Miss Lucy and Lella Evans two of Clemson's pretty young ladies will entertain the social circle of Lebanon for a while, visiting around among relatives and will leave today for the Presbyterian Manse at Lebanon is now being built by the members of the congregation at least those who handle a hammer and saw, and when their part is finished the ladies will do the rest.

One of Lebanon's young ladies is now sporting in a brand new rubber tire top buggy. If this lady were a gentleman we would ask "what next?"

Prof. J. S. Gilbert is now enjoying his vacation, or rest from the school at Lethe.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Parker have been quite sick for the past two weeks, but we are glad to report both now convalescing.

Miss Sallie Wilson of Grading returned home last week after a pleasant stay with relatives at Lowndesville.

Mrs. Jane McGowan and daughter Miss Nelle, also her sister Miss Ellen Link have all been sick the past week but are now some better.

Mr. H. W. Lawson is helping Gilliam Bros on their new ginney which is being rushed to completion. Remember this plant will be larger, more conveniently arranged and filled with the best and latest improved machinery. Remember they will be ready for the business of this season, so march right along to the "old stand" and you will be treated better than ever.

The dwelling of Mr. C. F. Graves narrowly escaped being burnt down last Friday, the fire originating from a spark out of the stove pipe and burning through from the ceiling above before it was discovered Mr. Graves fortunately was at home and the fire was soon extinguished.

Mr. John L. Maxwell of Greenwood has been visiting relatives in the Sharon section the past week.

Mr. Andrew McNeil after a pleasant stay with relatives along route 3 returned to his home at Homes Path last Saturday.

Miss Emma Evans after a delightful stay with relatives at Clemson is expected home this week.

Mr. Lamar Gilliam is now at work for the Seaboard in his far off home, Avondale, Alabama. His many friends here wish him great success in his new work and are sure they will give his employers, entire satisfaction as he is one of the few young men that can be depended on.

The R. F. D. Boys have just rounded up a week that beats the record in these parts, for it was "hot, hotter, hottest" every day, but at this writing the thunder is rolling and the lightning flashing with charged atmosphere and indications of rain.

Mr. A. J. Penney carrier No. 1 is enjoying his vacation at Seneca, tramping over his old "stamping ground" of more than thirty years ago.

Mr. Eugene McMillan carrier No. 2 is also resting from his labors, he is taking in the pleasures and enjoying himself.

Mr. W. E. Penney No. 4 will round up this week and will rest at his pretty old country home at Sharon.

"M" and Lomax have their hands full keeping the "Subs" straight. We are a jolly crowd and

"Rain or shine, Sleet or snow, We always go."

Mrs. Mattie Adams of Sharon is now at the bedside of her daughter Miss Beatrice who has been quite ill at the home of her sister Mrs. W. H. Edmonds of Augusta. At this writing, news has been received that she is a little better.

Mrs. E. F. McNeill-nee Miss Ada Penney is still quite ill at her home in Alabama, her father, Mr. J. H. Penney and are sure they will give her home so as to be with her during her extreme illness. His many friends hope she will soon be better.

The condition of Mr. W. H. McAllister is about the same. His many friends hope he may soon begin to improve and soon be well.

Mrs. J. T. Baskin is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McAllister.

GOOD NEWS FOR ABBEVILLE.

The Superintendent of the Seaboard Air Line with about 50 of the most prominent employees of the Seaboard, arrived in Abbeville yesterday and fully as many more will be here tomorrow.

Now is Abbeville's golden opportunity, will be business men improve it, or will they remain indifferent? We grow not, as we have learned a lesson once before on this same text, while our neighbors "bustled" and won the prize.

If Abbeville would prosper yet more, let her whole people, and especially her mounted men get a move on them, and build houses and homes for these people who will be our neighbors and friends, and will spend their money here and help largely in the building up of our city.

Capt. C. A. Milford went to Atlanta Monday on business.

Mr. Robert S. Link left last Sunday for Cornland, Alabama, where Mrs. Link has been on a visit to her people. Mr. and Mrs. Link are expected home today.

Miss Ada Whann of Atlanta is expected home today where she will spend her vacation.

Rev. P. B. Wells assisted by Mr. C. V. Hammond held services at Gligal church last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Nance left last Monday for a short stay at Williamson, and Greenville and from there will spend several weeks at Cassara Head and other places of interest.

Mr. George Gambrell and family left last week for Kings Mountain where they will spend a week or so.

Our Merchants are looking towards northern markets with "one eye" and back toward the cotton fields with the other, however they will risk it all as usual bring on large stocks, they are already on the move. Abbeville must have the biggest trade in the fall.

is to hinder? We have the business men, the capital and our people make the cotton. Let all our people get into the cotton and will be well for Abbeville's mart.

SAMUEL R. CADE.

Soldier—Citizen—Christian.

Samuel R. Cade died at his home in Bordeaux, S. C. July 25th, 1906, in the 64th year of his age.

He had been in bad health for some time and the end did not come unexpectedly.

Death came to him peacefully and was met with the calm resignation of the true Christian spirit, sustained and soothed by an unflinching trust in God.

He was a member of the Methodist church and he always manifested a lively interest in all of his church affairs. He was a man of means, and gave liberally to the various causes of church work. In his contemplation of religion he was serious and reverential. He loved the worship of the sanctuary and delighted in the sweet songs of Zion.

He was born Nov. 23, 1842, in Barbour County, Alabama, but he always returned to Georgia as his native State, since while yet an infant, his parents moved to Elbert County, where he lived until the close of the war between the States.

He was only eighteen years of age when this war began, but he responded to the first call for troops in the Southern cause, which was so dear to his heart. He enlisted in Company A, of the 10th Georgia Regiment, Benning's Brigade, and remained at the front throughout the war with the exception of a few weeks when he was at home on a furlough on account of illness. There was no truer or braver soldier among the brave soldiery of Lee than was this gallant young Georgian.

He would have been given a command if he had wished it, but he preferred to be only a private soldier.

His fidelity and courage could not, however, go unrecognized, and early in the war, he was made one of the color guards of his regiment.

In the battle of the Wilderness, while in the thickest of the fight, the color Sergeant received a mortal wound, and as he was falling the flag of the regiment was caught up by Mr. Cade and carried forward.

After this battle, he was appointed color Sergeant of the regiment, and served as such, with marked bravery until the surrender at Appomattox.

It was with pardonable pride that he in his interesting stories of the war, pointed to the fact that in every battle, whether advancing to victory or retreating against odds, he successfully carried the flag of his regiment.

In one engagement the flag received eighteen bullet holes, one bullet striking the staff and shattering it.

Firmly grasping the broken staff, and waving aloft the tattered ensign, he advanced into the thickest of the fight the tide of battle rolled irresistibly forward until the foe was dislodged and the victory won.

He enjoyed relating stories of the war and he did not fail to interest his listeners in these recitals as he had a remarkable memory and a good command of language.

After the war, he returned to the parental home in Georgia, which he soon left however and moved to Abbeville County, S. C. where he went to manage a large plantation which his father had recently bought.

In Feb. the following year, 1865, he was married to Miss Sallie C. Slaughter, daughter of Col. Wm. M. Slaughter of Albany, Ga. Of this union there were born seven sons, five of whom are still living. Three of these sons are married and settled on farms near to the parental home.

Mr. Cade's work on earth is finished. The battles of life are over, the last victory won; the weary soldier rests.

The community has lost a good citizen; the church a ready and willing helper; friends, a safe counsellor; his family, a kind husband and father. His familiar figure will be seen no more, the kind voice is hushed, the good counsellor is taken away; but we are comforted by the memory of his virtues and by the thought that his virtues have made their impress for good on the lives of others which will bear fruit in future generations.
