What a Docked Horse Tells. (1) That the owner does not care one straw for the suffering of dumb animals. (2) That the owner does not care one straw for the good opinion of nine-tenths of his fellow-citizens who witness the effects of his cruelty.

Glenn's Majestic and Alpine flour every sack and barrel guaranteed-300 lbs. bought at lowest-You share the profits.

Refuse to ride in any cab, herd or carriage drawn by a docked horse, and tell the driver why.

Every unkind treatment to the cow poisons the milk-even to the extent of making it unfit for use.

It is cruel to keep a horse locked up in a stable without exercise? Answer: Just as cruel as it would be to keep a boy, or girl, or man, or woman in the same condition.

If to this is added solitary confinement without the company of other animals, then the cruelty is still greater. Geo. T. Angell.

There is a vast difference in the quality of cheese and macaroni. If there is any better made than we are now selling, we have been unable to find them. S. J. Link.

Glenn will give you good values in Trunks, $1.50 to $3.00.

Terrible.

The News and Courier promises in case of emergency to ship out of his brethren of the press. We are scared.

Rev. C. P. Bridwell of Atlanta, was suspended from the ministry because of immorality to which he confessed. He asked forgiveness to which the Presbytery commends him to the grace of God.

"A ray of light for the work of the A. R. P. Church in Mexico Associate Reformed Presbyterian."

Quite a number of editorials have been written about Sam Jones since his death. In none that we have read did we recognize a better pen picture than in the editorial of the News and Courier.

Writing About Sam Jones.

Brother Galloway, local editor of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian notes that "the greatest quantities of pea vines has been saved."

Preachers and religious editors, we have been taught to believe, labored to "save" a more valuable crop than pea vines.

Mrs. W. K. Douglass of Due West has lost her cameo necklace, and she would be glad if the finder would return it to her.

Mrs. Lila Morse Bonner is in Due West, her old home. She is the honored widow of the late revered Dr. J. I. Bonner.

Link has just received 40 dozen cans finest tomatoes ever brought to Abbeville.

He also has everything else you may need in first quality canned goods.

The Beauty of the Morning.

Oh, the beauty of the morning! It showers its splendors down From the crimson robes of sunrise, the azure mountain's crown;

It smiles amid the waving fields, it dapples in the streams, It breathes its sparkling music through the rapture of our dreams.

It floats upon the limpid air in rainbow-clouds of mist, It ripples through the glowing skies in pearl and amethyst;

It gleams in every burnished pool, it riots through the grass, It sweeps in waves of glory on the shadows as they pass.

It steals among the nodding trees and to the forest's croon, In airy note and gentle voice, 'neath waning moon;

It comes and lingers in the wooded brakes, the hills and tangled ferns— A world of life and mystery—swarm with its dreams.

It luscious in the perfumed breeze, and where the ardor runs, A thousand light-winged choristers pant forth their organs;

A thousand voices clap their hands, and from their dewy beds A million scarlet throated flowers peer forth with startled heads.

Oh, the beauty of the morning! It rains upon our ears the music of the universe, the chiming of the spheres; From cloistered wood and leafy vale its tune fills all the earth is drenched in light and all the world in song!

Elisabeth Safford, in Will Carlton's Magazine June, 1905.

If you have any hats or caps to buy you can save from 25 to 50 cents each on them by taking advantage of our job lots.

We Doubt. It seems to be well established that cruelty inflicted upon animals shortly before their death makes their meats more or less poisonous and that cruelty or suffering to animals mothers at any time may make their milk more or less dangerous.

On a hot August afternoon we have been looking at some of the grazing on a low piece of land where they seem to be constantly tormented with flies and other pests, keeping their tails, their feet and their noses in constant motion in their endeavor to protect themselves, and we wonder whether some of the suffering of children do not come from the sufferings of these creatures upon whose milk they are fed. Geo. T. Angell.

For saddles, breeching and horse collars, call at Link's; he has them in abundance from cheapest to best and his prices are right.

MASTER'S SALE.

THE STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA, County of Abbeville, Court of Common Pleas.

Mary E McIntosh against Amanda Murray, et al.

By authority of a Decree of Sale by the Court of Common Pleas for Abbeville County, in said State, made in the above stated case, I will offer for sale, at Public Outcry, at Abbeville C. H., S. C., on Sale day in November, A. D., 1906, within the legal hours of sale the following described land, to wit:

All that tract or parcel of land situated, lying and being in Abbeville County, in the State aforesaid in Bordeaux Township, containing ONE HUNDRED and FORTY Acres, more or less, and bounded by lands of John Harmon, J. A. Moragne, W. T. Jennings and others.

Terms of Sale—One third of the purchase money cash, balance on a credit of one and two years in equal installments. The credit portion to be secured by bond of the purchaser and a mortgage of the premises and to bear interest from day of sale at eight per cent per annum, payable annually unpaid interest to become interest bearing principal at same rate, and ten per cent attorney's fees, if same is collected by an attorney with privilege to purchaser to pay all cash.

Purchaser to pay for papers. L. W. Perrin, Master A. C. S. C. Abbeville 12th Oct. 1906.

Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union.

Communications for this column should be addressed to J. C. Strubling, Pendleton, S. C.

Sell a few bales of your cotton at, or about the Farmers' Union minimum of 11 cents you can pay your creditors all, or at least, half. Better still, if you can store your cotton in a good warehouse do it, and turn these cotton certificates over to your creditors and keep all the cotton of the market that it is hard for money don't put a bale on the market now and let the price go up to 12 cents where our South Carolina Unions put the price in the market.

It does no man any credit to do a shabby two to five cents with his unfair creditors. Two wrongs don't make one right act.

The cotton market is pushing up, trying to get above 11 cents, but the cotton buyers keep plugging the cotton on the market every time the cotton of the market holds the price down.

The cotton growers are now the worst sort of slaves in our country—they receive good prices from their buyers by dumping on the market every time the market starts on a rise.

The blind, selfish greed that possesses some will never allow them to consider the welfare of their country at any time.

Cotton speculators and the mills will soon get all the raw cotton out of the hands of the unorganized cotton growers. When these speculators prevail the farmer cotton bear will come a bad loser right into the hands of the organized cotton farmer, who has managed to hold his cotton off the glutted market.

Now the Farmers' Union had much rather have the supply of raw cotton in their hands and take care of this weaker class of cotton growers and keep this profit in their own hands than let it go to the hands of the speculators where it will be worked with us, we will, of course, take any help that we can get without committing ourselves with the speculative element.

There is not one interest in the whole South that is not benefited directly or indirectly by the producers of cotton. When the price of cotton is low and every one can receive some benefit from a livelier trade.

The great increase of murders and outrages in this country, and the use of bicycles and automobiles by criminals, make it necessary for farmers and persons living in solitary and exposed places, and many others, to keep powerful dogs for the protection of themselves, their families and property; also make it necessary for police authorities to employ dogs to track and pursue criminals. Geo. T. Angell.

HOW TO ACT AT A HOTEL.

Best Plan of Registering and Getting Wants Attended To.

A man accompanied by his wife should not drag her into the crowd that hangs around the office, as two-thirds of them do. He should first take her to the parlors, leave her there and go to the office alone. When he has registered and been assigned a room, he should go and get her.

When the boy has shown them the room, the guest should not hesitate to say so if he does not like it. There are doubtless others empty, and it is the clerk's place to try to please.

Another great blunder is not to ask the price of the room before looking at it. Many a man feels reluctant to do this, but it is purely business. If the price does not suit, he can kick, but there is no use complaining after the bill is sent in and saying that he has been overcharged, that he has been there before and always had a lower rate and all the many things that a man is apt to think about when he is ready to leave.

When a woman is alone, she should not go to the office. All that is necessary is to take a seat in the parlor and send her card to the clerk, stating whether she wants a bathroom or not and exactly the kind of accommodations she wants.

She should frankly say if she wishes a quiet room, a small room, an inexpensive room or any preference she may have.

Despite all the printed warnings on hotel walls it is almost impossible to get women to send their valuables to the office safe. Why? It is a mystery. But the owners prefer, as a rule, to take the chances. Then, if a loss occurs, they blame not their own carelessness, but the hotel management.

Another thing: Trunks should be kept locked. Every hotel tries to get honest help. No hotel can guarantee that all its employees are or always will be proof against temptation. Every hotel asks its patrons not to tempt them.

How to Make Cocoa Cordial.

One-half teaspoonful of Dutch cocoa, some boiling water, two blocks of loaf sugar and two tablespoonfuls of port wine. Put the cocoa and sugar into a china cup and pour directly upon them some boiling water and add the wine, making in all the usual amount called a cupful. Serve at once. This is an excellent drink for those who are chilled or exhausted or to take after a bath.

How to Make Squirrel Pie.

Six squirrels, a quarter of a pound of salt pork and a pint of oysters. Cut the squirrel into meat joints and put into a stewpan with water enough to cover them. Add the pork, cut into slices, and half a medium sized onion. Cover close and simmer until tender. When done, take up the pieces of squirrel, strain the gravy and set both away to get cold. Line the sides of a deep pie dish with a good paste, put a little layer in the bottom of the dish, then a layer of squirrel and a few oysters and some of the oyster liquor. Sprinkle with flour, season with salt, pepper and a little mace and cover with bits of butter. Repeat until the dish is full. Cover with paste, cut a hole in the center and bake half an hour.

How to Decorate the Table.

A charming dinner table arrangement is of La France roses and maidenhair ferns, with striped grass. A wavy line is formed down the middle of the table of the ferns and grass, and the roses are deftly intermingled in the curves. Another pretty scheme is of holly berries and leaves, with asparagus fern. In the first case the candle shades are pink, in the second red.

How to Care For the Eyes.

When the eyes ache, relieve them by closing the lids for five or ten minutes. When stinging and red through crying, they should be bathed in rose-water or wet a handkerchief with rose-water and lay it over them for a few minutes. If they are bloodshot, you need more sleep or have been sitting in a draft. If they have a burning sensation, bathe them with hot water to which a dash of witch hazel has been added. If the whites of the eyes are yellow and the pupils dull, strict attention should be paid to diet.

How to Cook Hashed Clams.

Melt pat of butter in chafing dish; then put in three dozen Little Neck clams, hashed fine, and their juice. Add a teaspoonful of chopped chives and two of parsley. Cook over open fire until it boils up twice, cover up, thicken with bread crumbs, add two tablespoonfuls of sherry, season to taste and serve on buttered toast.

How to Make Peppermint Cordial.

Peppermint cordial may be made at any time of the year, for the chemist always keeps the necessary preparation of peppermint. Put 60 drops of essential oil of peppermint on to three or four lumps of sugar, pound it in a stone mortar, with a tablespoonful of brandy, till all is thoroughly mixed. Add this to one quart of proof spirits of wine and the same quantity of white sugar sirup. Color the cordial with beet root, and you will have a delicious sirup.

How to Clean Lamps.

Soak lamp wicks in vinegar before using them in a lamp. Wash smoke stained chimneys in warm water and soap and rub while wet with vinegar or dry salt. They can also be cleaned, as may be globes on gas fixtures, in warm water and soda and then in warm water and ammonia.

How to Serve Oranges.

Cut seedless oranges in halves, take out the little piece of white in the center with a very sharp pointed knife and all the cavity with sugar.
