THE PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Washington, D. C .- When the present Congress reassembled for its last session the annual message of President Roosevelt was submitted and read in both branches. It is, in substance, as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

'As a nation we still continue to enjoy a literally unprecedented prosperity, and it is probable that only reckless speculation and disregard of legitimate business methods on the part of the business world can materially mar this prosperity.

No Congress in our time has done more good work of importance than the present Congress. There were several matters left unfinished 'at your last session, however, which I most earnestly hope you will complete before your adjournment.

I again recommend a law prohibiting all corporations from contributing to the campaign expenses of any party. Such a bill has already passed one house of Congress. Let individ-uals contribute as they desire, but let us prohibit in effective fashion all corporations from making contributions for any political purpose, directly or indirectly. Another bill which has past one house of the Congress which it is urgently necessary should be enacted into law is that conferring upon the Government the right of appeal in criminal cases on questions of law. The President says that the wheels of justice are sometimes blocked for lack of this power and that "failure to pass it will result in seriously hampering the Government in its effort to obtain justice, especially against wealthy individuals or corporations who do wrong, and may also prevent the Government from obtaining justice for wageworkers who are not themselves able effect-ively be contest a case where the judgment of an inferior court has been against them."

After referring to the absurdity of permitting a district judge to declare a law passed by Congress "unconstitutional," the message states that the importance of enacting into law the particular bill in question is further increased by the fact that the Government has now definitely begun a campaign in those trust and interstate commerce cases where such a course offers a reasonable chance of success

The President believes it would be well to enact a law providing something to the effect that:

No judgment shall be set aside on new trial granted in any case, civil or criminal, on the ground of misdi-rection of the jury or the improper admission or rejection of evidence, or for error as to any matter of pleading or procedure unless, in the opinion of the court to which the application is made, after an examination of the entire cause, it shall affirmatively appear that the error complained of has resulted in a miscarriage of justice.

On the subject of injunctions Mr. Roosevelt says it is at least doubtful whether a law abolishing altogether their use in labor cases would stand the test of the courts. It is criminal to permit sympathy for criminals to weaken our hands in upholding the law, and if men seek to destroy life property by mob violence there should be no impairment of the power of the courts to deal with them in the most summary and effective way possible. "But so far as possible," continues the President, "the abuse fender. Moreover, in my judgment, the crime of rape should always be punished with death, as is the case with murder; assault with intent to commit rape should be made a capial crime, at least in the discretion of the court, and provision should be made by which the punishment may follow immediately upon the heels of the offense; while the trial should be so conducted that the victim need not be wantonly shamed while giving testimony, and that the least possible publicity shall be given to the details. Next, President Roosevelt discusses capital and labor. On this subject he writes: "In dealing with both labor and capital, with the questions affecting both corporations and trades unions, there is one matter more important to remember than aught else, and that is the infinite harm done by preachers of mere discontent. These are men who seek to excite a violent class hatred against all men. of wealth. They seek to turn wise and proper movements for the better control of corporations and for doing away with the abuses connected with wealth, into a campaign of hysterical excitement and falsehood in which the aim is to inflame to madness the brutal passions of mankind. The sinister demagogs and foolish visionaries who are always eager to undertake such a campaign of destruction sometimes seek to associate them-selves with those working for a genuine reform in governmental and social methods, and sometimes masquerade as the reformers. In reality they are the worst enemies of the cause they profess to advocate, just as the purveyors of sensational slander in newspapers or magazine are the worst enemies of all men who are engaged in an honest effort to better what is bad in our social and governmental conditions."

To preach hatred of the rich man, as such, to carry on a campaign of slander and invective against him. to seek to mislead and inflame to madness honest men whose lives are hard and who have not the kind of mental training which will permit them to appreciate the danger in the doctrines preached—all this is to commit a crime against the body politic and to be false to every worthy principle and tradition of American national life. Moreover, while such preaching and such agitation may give a livelihood and a certain notoriety to some of those who take part in it, and may result in the temporary political success of others, in the long run every such movement will either fail or else will provoke a violent reaction, which will itself result not merely in undoing the mischief wrought by the demagog and the agitator, but also in undoing the good that the honest reformer, the true upholder of popular rights, has painfully and laboriously achieved, Cor-ruption is never so rife as in communities where the demagog and the agitator bear full sway, because in such communities all moral bands become loosened, and hysteria and sensationalism replace the spirit of sound judgment and fair dealing as between man and man. In sheer revolt against the squalid anarchy thus produced men are sure in the end to run toward any leader who can restore order, and then their relief at being free from the intolerable burdens of class hatred, violence and demagogy is such that they can not for some time be aroused to indignation against misdeeds by men of wealth; so that they permit a new growth of the very abuses which were in part responsible for the or-iginal outbreak. The one hope for

down with all possible earnestness | operators and miners, to inquire into, consider, and pass upon the questions and zeal every such infamous ofin controversy in connection with the strike in the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania and in the causes out of which the controversy arose, in their report, findings; and award exprest the belief "that the State and Federal governments should provide the machinery for what may be called the compulsory investigation of controversies between employers and employes when they arise.'

This expression of belief is deserving of the favorable consideration of the Congress and the enactment of its provisions into law. A bill has already been introduced to this end. The message, after stating that all remaining coal lands have been withdrawn from sale urges that their ownership and control remain with the Government.

The present Congress, observes the President, has taken long strides in the direction of securing proper supervision and control of the National Government over corporations engaged in interstate business-and the enormous majority of corporations of any size are engaged in interstate business." The passage of the railway rate bill, and only to a less degree the passage of the pure food bill, and the provision for increasing and rendering more effective national control over the beef-packing in dustry, mark an important advance in the proper direction. In the short session it will perhaps be difficult to do much further along this line; and it may be best to wait until the laws have been in operation for a number of months before endeavoring to increase their scope.

On the subject of agriculture the message says, in part:

The only other persons whose welfare is as vital to the welfare of the whole country as is the welfare of the wageworkers are the tillers of the soil, the farmers. There must be open to farmers the chance for technical and scientific training, not theoretical merely but of the most severely practical type. Organization has be-come necessary in the business world; and it has accomplished much for good in the world of labor. It is no less necessary for farmers. Such a movement as the grange movement is good in itself and is capable of a well-nigh infinite further extension for good so long as it is kept to its own legitimate business. The benefits to be derived by the association of farmers for mutual advantage are partly economic and partly sociological.

The President states that in his judgment the whole question of marriage and divorce should be relegated to the authority of the National Congress. At present the wide difference in the laws of the different States on this subject result in scandals and abuses; and surely there is nothing so vitally essential to the welfare of the nation, nothing around which the nation should so bend itself to throw every safeguard, as the home life of the average citizen. The change would be good from every standpoint. In particular it would be good because it would confer on the Congress the power at once to deal radically and efficiently with polygamy; and this should be done whether or not marriage and divorce are dealt with. There are regions in our land, and classes of our population, where the birth rate has sunk below the death Surely it should need no demrate. onstration to show that wilful sterility is, from the standpoint of the nation, from the standpoint of the human race, the one sin for which the penalty is national death, race death; a sin for which there is no atonement; a sin which is the more success for our people lies in a resolute and fearless, but sane and cooldreadful exactly in proportion as the men and women thereof are in other aded, advance along the path

FEATURES OF PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO CONGRESS.

President Roosevelt in his message to Congress specifically recommends: The passage of a law prohibiting orporations from contributing to political campaign expenses.

The passage of a law conferring upon the Government the right of appeal in criminal cases, on questions of law.

A law modifying the use of the infunction in labor cases.

That the crime of criminal assault should always be punished by death; that such assault, attempted, should also be made a capital crime, at the discretion of the court; that the trial and punishment of these cases should be swift, and that the victim should be shielded in the giving of testimony.

A law limiting the number of hours of railroad employes. A drastic child-labor law for the District of Columbia and the Territories.

An addition to the employers' liatroops before the Senate had even notified the President that it was in bility law placing the entire "risk of a trade" on the employer-in other words, making the employer directly ness responsible for compensation in the case of death or accident, where this occurs in the legitimate line of duty. A law for a Federal strike investigation commission. .

A law providing for the with-drawal of coal lands from sale or from entry, save in special circumstances.

An addition to the packing house inspection law providing that a date shall be put on the label, and charging the cost of the inspection to the packers.

A graduated income tax law and a raduated inheritance tax law. Says the man of great wealth owes State peculiar obligation and should pay for protection he receives and as a means of reaching private fortunes unduly or dangerously swollen.

National legislation on the whole uestion of marriage and divorce. A ship subsidy bill.

An amendment to the law which would enable the Secretary of the Treasury to treat funds derived from customs duty as he treats funds obtained under the international revenue laws.

A law providing a lower tariff or absolute free trade in Philippine products.

A law enabling Porto Ricans to become American citizens.

A law providing for the naturalization of Japanese; and an amendment to the present Federal statutes which will enable the President to enforce the rights of alfens under treaties.

Revision and amendment of the laws for the protection of the seals within the jurisdiction of the United States.

In addition to the specific recommendations mentioned above other interesting features of the message are:

A discussion of the use of the legal injunction in labor questions. A discussion on the subject of public criticism of judges. A discussion on the subject of lynching and race prejudice. A discussion of questions affecting capital and labor, of the menace of demagogues, and of strikes A suggestion that combinations of capital are necessary and that it is unfortunate that the present laws forbid, instead of sharply discrim-inating between those which do good and those which do evil; a discussion of corporations.

An emphatic approval of more technical and industrial training institutions throughout the country.

The message then devotes considerable space to the prevalence of crime among us, and above all to the epidemic of lynching and mob violence that springs up, now in one part of our country, now in another. Each section, North, South, East or West, has its own faults; no section can with wisdom spend its time jeering at the faults of another section; it should be busy trying to amend its own shortcomings. To deal with the crime of corruption it is necessary to have an awakened public conscience, and to supplement this by whatever legislation will add speed and certainty in the execution of the law. When we deal with lynching even more is necessary. A great many white men are lynched, but the crime peculiarly frequent in respect to ack men. The greatest existing black men. cause of lynching is the perpetration, especially by black men, of the hidsous crime of rape-the most abominable in all the category of crimes, even worse than murder. Mobs frequently avenge the commission of this crime by themselves torturing to death the man committing it, thus avenging in bestial fashion a bestial deed, and reducing themselves to a level with the criminal. There is but one rule in dealing with black men as with white men; It is the same rule that must be applied in dealing with rich men and poor men; that is, to treat each man, whatever his color, his creed or his social position, with even handed justice on his real worth as a man. There is no question of "social equality" or "negro domination" involved: only the question of relentlessly punishing bad men.

Every colored man should realize that the worst enemy of his race is the negro criminal, and above all the negro criminal who commits the dreadful crime of rape, and it should be felt as in the highest degree an offence against the whole country, and against the colored race in particular, for a colored man to fail to help the officers of the law in hunting
