EVELYN NESBIT THAW TELLS HER STORY

Gives Motive For Husband's Alleged Insane Act.

LIFE LAID BARE IN COURT

Her to Drink Wine, Then All Became Black.

New York City .- Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the wife of Harry K. Thaw, laid bare in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court the story of her life, the recital of which was expected by the defense to convince the jury that her husband was justified when he shot down Stanford White, the man who, she declared, first drugged and then ruined her.

As the former chorus girl answered readily the questions put to her by Delphin M. Delmas, chief counsel for the prisoner, every one in the court room leaned eagerly forward, so as not to miss a word that dropped from her lips. The pitiful story she told moved every one in the room. Men wiped the tears from their eyes, while women sobbed aloud. It was one of the most dramatic recitals ever heard in any court.

Never before had the grim court room held a bigger crowd or one wrought up to such a pitch of excitement. The defense had put forward its star witness.

A more girlish figure that that which answered when Clerk Penney called Evelyn Nesbit Thaw could scarcely be imagined. She wore a loose jacket of dark blue, such as many a schoolgirl wears, and a dark hat of childish cut decorated with a bunch of violets. About her neck she wore a wide turndown collar of a mot fied Little Lord Fauntleroy design and a soft lawn tie of black tied in a bow. Her hair, while not hanging loosely down her back, was half caught up and tied with a black ribbon in a sort of pug at the back of her neck.

The court room saw her without a veil for the first time since the trial began. There was disclosed a pretty face, small of feature, but regular in cut, a pair of large black eyes, very soft and very pleading, a pair of straight eyebrows of heaviest black, a mouth large but not unpleasing, whose lips parted to disclose two rows of very white teeth.

Mrs. Thaw was called by the defense to supply the testimony needed to support its contention that the defendant had learned something about the architect's treatment of Evelyn Neshit that had caused an insane idea to form in his brain that grew with the years until it culminated in the impulse that caused him to shoot White on Madison Square roof garden.

In her story Mrs. Thaw gave a motive for the shooting by laying her ruin to Stanford White. She had first been led by Mr. Delmas to tell of the dinner at the Cafe Martin, the shooting on the roof garden and of her marriage to Thaw on April 4, 1905. Then the examining lawyer jumped back to the summer of 1903. when she and Thaw were in Paris. It was at this time, she said, that Thaw first proposed marriage to her and she had refused him. "In stating the reasons to Mr Thaw why you had refused him, did you state a reason based on an event your life with which Stanford White was connected?" Mr. Delmas asked.

screamed and screamed." During the whole of the time his wife was on the stand Thaw had not taken his eyes from her until this portion of her testimony was reached. Then he buried his face in a hand kerchief, and his body shook with emotion. His eyes were tear stained and red when he next looked up. White's subsequent conduct, as re lated by Mrs. Thaw, was cynical in the extreme. In spite of this confes-sion Thaw insisted that he would marry her if she would love him, declaring that no one could blame her

Left in Stanford White's Care by Her | for her misfortune. They quarreled, Mother, She Says He Induced and she came back to New York. By a most adroit maneuvre of the defense all this astounding story told by Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was introduced in the guise of information imparted by her to Thaw. As such it was admissible only as tending to demonstrate its influence upon the sane or insane condition of his mind at a later period. Just before the midday recess was reached and after Mrs. Thaw had told of the struggles of her earlier life, how she had eventually come to pose for artists and then went on stage, Mr. Delmas tried to get into evidence a letter Thaw wrote and gave to Miss Nesbit, addressed to F. W. Longfellow, his legal adviser in this city. After recess, by a series of adroit moves, Mr. Delmas succeeded in having the letter admitted as tending to show the condition of Thaw's mind after the confession the girl had made to him. It was a rambling communication, and to it was pinned another slip of paper, on which was written: "P. S.—If you can't read this, don't trouble. In the third letter admitted and read, Thaw spoke of the strain he was under, and gave evidences of it in many rambling, almost incomprehensible statements.

Middletown, N. Y.-Two men were blown to pieces, a third is fatally hurt and twelve passengers were injured by the bursting of the boiler of a locomotive of the Ontario and Western road just south of Luzon, Sullivan County. The engine was drawing No. 3 train, one of the finest on the road, and was making forty miles an hour when suddenly there was a terrible roar and the sound of ripping and tearing of iron. The train of cars rammed the wreck and four of them left the rails. When the steam cleared away there was nothing but scrap iron left of the locomotive. One hundred feet away in a field was the shattered body of Martin Mullen, the fireman. Fifty feet from Mullen's body the engineer, William Gadwood, was lying unconscious and fatally hurt. There was a third man riding in the cab of the locomotive and he was blown into many fragments. He is believed to have been J. D. Valquette, an engineer off duty, who was going to his home in Cadosia. The cause of the strange accident is said to have been the freezing of the pipes between the tank and the boiler. 'Yes," said Mrs. Thaw.

Then, in the form of a relation of the confession she made to Thaw, the witness told of meeting White, through a girl friend, in August, 1901, when she was only sixteen years old. She went to a luncheon party given by White at a house in West Twenty-fourth street, she said, and after that met the architect several times, always with the knowledge and consent of her mother. Sometimes the parties were in the Twenty-fourth street house and sometimes in White's apartments in the tower of Madison Square Garden.

After the acquaintance had been continued for some time, she said, White asked her mother if she didn't want to go to her home in Pittsburg. Mrs. Neshit objected that she did not like to leave her daughter, but White promised to look out for her, and Mrs. Nesbit left town, the witness said.

At White's urgent solicitation, she said, she drank a glass of the wine, and "I don't know whether it was a minute after or two minutes after, but a pounding began in my cars, then the whole room seemed to go around, everything got very black.

The girl's voice broke at this and, although she did not point, break down, it was only with the greatest effort she forced back the tears. Some of the women in the courtroom sobbed openly, and more than one man used his handkerchief vigorously.
