Two Pictures.

An old farmhouse with meadows wide And sweet with clover on each side; A bright eyed boy, who looks from out The door with woodbine wreathed about And wishes his one thought all day: "Oh, if I could but fly away From this dull spot the world to see, How happy, happy, happy, How happy I should be!"

Amid the city's constant din

A man who round the world has been,
Who, mid the tumult and the throng,
Is thinking, thinking all day long:
"Oh, could I only tread once more
The field path to the farmhouse door,
The old green meadow could I see. The old green meadow could I see, How happy, happy, happy, How happy I should be!" -Universalist Leader.

The Blizzard-

Make way, make way;
'Tis my crowning day!
Make way for the blizzard king!
I claim the earth;
I chaim the carth; She is mine from birth: O'er her breast I rave and sing. I wrap her tight

In a garment white Pinned on by my crystals pure. Her bare brown knees And her naked trees I hide in my robes secure.

Make way, make way For a giant's play! Make way for my royal rout. The oak trees groan, And the hemlocks moan, For the great wild winds are out! No bird can rest

On my heaving breast; No boat can sail on the sea E'en man, proud man, Must defer his plan And leave all the world to me.

Make room, make room, For the blizzard's boom; Make room for my polar waves! For death oft steals At my charlot wheels And many a victim craves. The iron horse shricks, And his engine creaks

In race with my flying steeds. I blow the breath Of his tragic death

Far out o'er the prairie reeds.

Aside, aside! Let the frost king ride! Look out for my streaming hair! It curls and swings In eddles and rings Through the vales and frenzied air.

Thick robes of down O'er mead and town I fling as I hasten by, With howl and roar Past each cottage door, Then off to the mountains high!

The Seven Ages of a Race Horse. First, the foal, Wabbly and nursing at its mother's side,

And then the whinnying colt, with gentle eyes And softly floating mans, frisking in padkick, But later borne with grace. Then daily

Traveling and racing under clever hands, mishap, Tendon strained and as a "selling plater" His days of money earning nipped in bud,

For him no more the soft caress of hand, And he has played his part. The sixth age shows
The horse of gentle breed docked and drawing cab

Once drawn in measure strong labors And whistles in its sound. Last scene of That ends this strange, pathetic history, For which 'twere mercy to implore livion, Sans tail, sans sight, sans strength, sans everything.

-Florence M. Blair in Rider and Driver.

Some must take and others pay, Some until the judgment day Solitary, waiting stay— Thus the world's unchanging way Since the world began.

Men there are who never sip. Warm, red wine of fellowship, Fearing let the cup pass by While another drains it dry,

Gayly uses, gayly breaks What his brother's heart blood makes-Thus the world's unchanging way Since the world began. Men there are with songs unsung, Strains that ne'er escape the tongue; Broken aims and dreams that lie Secret, passionate, deep enshrined, Undeveloped, thwarted, blind— Thus the world's unchanging way Since the world began. Shall such some day rise and take Meed denied by earth's mistake?

No more waiting, spurned of fate Shall they come, though it be late, And by strange paths to their own; No more despised failures known— On some other kindlier shore, Aliens nevermore? -London Outlook.

"Long In City Pent." To one who has been long in city pent 'Tis very sweet to look into the fair And open face of heaven, to breathe

prayer
Full in the smile of the blue firmament.
Who is more happy, when, with heart's Fatigued he staks into some pleasant

Of wavy grass and reads a debonair And gentle tale of love and languishment?

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and alling Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help—If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with
